Introduction

This is probably the hardest material that I have managed to compose in my entire life. Vladimir Putin declares to the whole world that Russian troops were not brought into Ukraine, and, accordingly, there are no losses of the Russian army in peacetime. The truth is that in the same time Putin issued a decree on peacetime losses, threatening anyone who intends to be interested in this information to get a real prison term. Lev Schlosberg has already been deprived of a deputy mandate for trying to investigate ... Boris Nemtsov is killed. And I am deeply convinced that this political assassination is connected precisely with Nemtsov’s desire to write a true report about Vladimir Putin’s crimes in Ukrainian Donbass..

Since in August 2014 I began to consecrate this topic contrary to the requirements of the Russian authorities, then I should write a report on how we collected data on the dead Russian military and militias from the first days of this shameful fratricidal war. And include in it all the texts of Boris Nemtsov that I saved, which he planned to use in his report.

They presented me to the Russian public as a madwoman who composes everything. Hundreds of thousands of dollars spent on discrediting my name solely to counteract the work of the “Cargo-200 from Ukraine to Russia” project. It’s more interesting to read the "ravings of a madwoman" and her assistants who monitor the Internet around the clock in search of killed mercenaries in eastern Ukraine.

After the war in Afghanistan, for many years, relatives searched for their dead husbands, sons, and loved ones. So the mystery where these people disappeared remained unexplained. When I headed the All-Russian organization of combat veterans “Forgotten Regiment”, thousands of people poured into me streams, who continued to search for their relatives, who disappeared in various local, interregional and international wars and conflicts. I let everyone’s pain and sorrow went through me. Therefore, when unclear armed clashes began in the Donbass, I made every effort to understand the cause of the conflict, and when I saw its vile essence, I made a very difficult decision - to record the dead "in real time" and to voice their names - online, without waiting for the relatives of Russian mercenaries to begin to search for the missing. And, apparently, she brought down the plans of those who made a hell of a profit from this war and wanted to hide the amount of losses.

For me, every person is a value. His life, his originality. I really love people very much and never learned to hate them, despite the meanness I met, the most severe pressure from the authorities, trolls, and just fools. Yes, I intended to try to voice the names of the dead mercenaries from the Russian side so that they would not be lost during the fighting, to force the responsible persons to voice and return the bodies of those who went to fight in a foreign country and died there.

Russian propaganda informs viewers that there is no war in Ukraine. The Russian military is encouraged that they are in Russia and are conducting exercises.

Let's get it together.

Chapter 1 Nobody is forgotten, nothing is forgotten? Why Putin hides the death of his military

“What I heard is that they patrolled the Ukrainian border, they could have ended up on Ukrainian territory, but they also came to us, Ukrainian servicemen, they came in armored vehicles. There were no problems.” So calmly Vladimir Putin commented a scandal, which suddenly arose in August 2014 in social networks and the media in connection with the sudden death of dozens of Russian troops who were on exercises in the Rostov region, but for some reason found themselves in the territory of another state - Ukraine.

All those who tried to investigate this incident, the pro-Kremlin authorities mercilessly did "mochila v sortire" (this expression of Vladimir Putin means drowning in the toilet - the expression of criminals - he uttered this phrase from the central TV channels repeatedly): the deputy Schlossberg was beaten and ended up in the hospital, 76-year-old human rights activist Lyudmila Bogatenkova got into jail, Elena Vasilyeva had to stay in Ukraine because of obvious threats of violence, Vadim Korovin also received threats of physical violence, and the Committee of Soldiers' Mothers of St. Petersburg was declared by a foreign agent operating in the territory of Russia. At the request of State Duma deputy Dmitry Gudkov, they refused: neither the Investigative Committee, nor the Russian Ministry of Defense allowed even in a special order to familiarize themselves with the materials of the case on illegal border crossing of the Russian military and their death in the territory of a neighboring state.

Each of the above, who investigated these incidents, is still under the vigilant eye of the Russian security forces.

What secret is protecting the Kremlin from the Russian people and from the international community? What are Russian citizens not supposed to know?

What made the Russian media so godlessly lie for a year commenting on the news about the dead paratroopers with the obligatory reservation “supposedly”: supposedly the paratroopers, supposedly killed, were allegedly captured.

Boris Nemtsov has repeatedly stated that Putin invented a project for the Russians called Novorossia. And they unconditionally believed in this Putin nonsense. Goebbels propaganda (the propaganda techniques that were used in Nazi Germany today are used in Russia) brainwashed the Russian people so much that they did not hesitate to believe that there were fascists, Jews of Bandera (fascist Jews and sadists) in Ukraine. Putin is terribly afraid of the Maidan of color revolutions, as in Ukraine and its repetition in Russia. And for him it turned out to be of paramount importance to regain influence over Ukraine, to bend the Ukrainian people into the "ram's horn", how he managed to do this with the Russian. Well, to gain a foothold on the Crimean Peninsula, so that, in violation of the Budapest memorandum, deploy your ballistic missiles with nuclear warheads there.

And for the implementation of these plans, first of all, he needed a land corridor along the Azov and Black Seas.

Judge for yourselves: the Russian people were forced to rejoice: "Our Crimea!" The accession of the peninsula to Russia occurred in violation of all international standards, this has been said more than once. And Putin, under the guise of a peacemaker, continued his aggressive policy and continued the hybrid war that he started in the Donbass. He did not succeed in overcoming the eastern part of Ukraine with the name Donbass as Crimea. The Russian army met with serious resistance. But in order not to show it weakness, propaganda began to inspire a new myth in the people: if Russia wanted to attack, then in a couple of days it would reach Kiev. This is also the reason for all the news programs, in which the announcers told how quickly they can reach the capitals of all European countries.

Therefore, under the guise of protracted exercises, the Kremlin began to concentrate the Russian army along the border with Ukraine, preparing a quick land breakthrough to the Crimea. And again, all Putin's media suggested to the Russians that these are just exercises, and in the Donbass, peaceful Russian-speaking people need protection. Therefore, during the exercises, individual military units will be regrouped, and, if necessary, will render all possible assistance to the civilian population of Donbass. Beautiful lie.

And now we come to the main question: how the Russian military not only found themselves in large numbers on the territory of Ukraine, but were captured and died. And why did the whole Putin system rush to refute information about their losses ...

As Boris Nemtsov emphasized, the blitzkrieg with the capture of Donbass through a pseudo-referendum failed. And since Putin is used to doing whatever he pleases in Russia, he ordered the forcible seizure of foreign territories of a neighboring independent state. In other words - unleashed a predatory war. At the same time, Putin continued to play the role of a humanitarian peacekeeper for the entire international community. He is so used to the fact that he can do whatever he wants, and in this case he decided that all actions with the game of soldiers will get away with him

But this time it didn't work out.

Boris Nemtsov wrote: "... And here we saw the result of the weakness of the Russian army on the example of the small city of Mariupol, not so much the Donbass itself, as the small city of Mariupol on the shores of the Sea of Azov, which they tried to take for the first time by assault of part of the "peacekeeping" forces of Russia. And they couldn't. And Putin was scared. We must always remember that Putin is very afraid when meet with stiff resistance. He was informed that the Russian-speaking Mariupol went out to dig trenches. If they sat silently, not resisting, then he would go on the offensive. But the offensive was choked with the practical actions of unarmed Mariupol residents. And Putin gave an order to end the offensive. Prematurely before the world and the OSCE, which had suddenly gone blind, he could not shine his light on the aggressive plan of aggression.

Why then did Putin act with caution? In accordance with the current Constitution of Russia, on which he swore to serve the Russian people, he had no right whatsoever to send his troops into the territory of a foreign state without declaring war. Only for that is impeachment imposed on him! But this is in any normal state. In Russia, where there is complete lawlessness of the security forces, the people and the media were silent.

And it was very important for Putin that the world community should never know about these actions. That is why the attacks on Mariupol stopped.

But Donetsk and Lugansk behaved differently. There, after a non-legal referendum, the population remained silent. And the Kremlin decided to continue the extraction of Ukrainian territories. And for this, Putin, as commander in chief of the Russian armed forces, committed the following serious crimes:

- the creation of armed groups in the territory of a foreign state;
- supplying them with weapons, real smuggling.

- Throughout Russia, contributed to the emergence of an incredibly huge number of campaign points, which engaged in the recruitment of mercenaries, and, without hesitation, such recruitment was carried out through the military enlistment offices. People were promised good rewards.

That is why everyone who was traveling "to protect the Russian-speaking population of Donbass" was asked to hand over personal property, remove any identification marks, leave their identification documents in Russia, phones, and instead of a name invent a call sign. No callsign lists were compiled. In the event of death, this person, killed in a foreign country, became simply an unidentified corpse. And following its crazy logic, the state in 2014 immediately approved a new holiday - the Day of the Unknown Soldier (December 3).

But the last point refers to the so-called volunteers. There should be a lot of them. In order not to shine the army! Committing another crime, the Commander-in-Chief issued an order to his troops: to change clothes and enter the territory of a foreign state - Ukraine without documents. Full disguise as "local militia miners.

It turns out that as a result of the reform of the army, Putin created an incredibly huge number of terrorist and sabotage groups out of the army, which are not provided for in the Charter of the Russian army and navy. And this is another crime of Putin, only now before the Russian armed forces.

Russian media claimed that in the Donbass, residents wanted to overthrow the oppression of Ukrainian oligarchs and created their own "rebel army." However, the "heroes" who led "Novorossia" for some reason were Russian citizens Igor Girkin, Zakharchenko and a car washer at gas stations in the Russian city of Rostov - Motorola.

Nemtsov tried to explain to the Russians that no impostors in the form of "Girkin", "Motorola", "Zakharchenko" could never repel the attacks of the Ukrainian army, no matter how weak it was at the time of the attack on Ukraine."

Russian propaganda convinced the Russian people through the central media that the army of the armed forces of Ukraine was an enemy and fascist. And the volunteer battalions that the Ukrainians themselves created, having risen to defend their homeland, are generally punitive. And the Russian people believed in this lie, did not want to think. The Armed Forces of Ukraine, this is the army of the country, which, as in any other state, is obliged to guard and protect the territorial integrity of its Fatherland.

Despite the fact that the cities of Lugansk and Donetsk surrendered without a fight, the people of Donbass began to leave for partisan detachments and create their own battalions of volunteers to protect their territories from the invading enemy - Russia. And in Novorossia (as the occupied territories were called at first) under the guise of rebels, militia commanders on the ground, previously introduced GRU and FSB officers already acted. And I must say that the mess and confusion that reigned and reigns in the occupied territories of Donbass is an indicator that the Russian army of a new standard, its leadership, is absolutely not able to manage the territories, restore and maintain order on them.

So, Putin told the world that he was ready to provide assistance to New Russia and, if necessary, to introduce peacekeeping forces.

And what really happened?

Boris Nemtsov wrote: "... In August 2014, the 76th division, the Pskov, Ivanovo, Samara and 98th Kostroma brigades, the 17th and 19th motorized rifle regiments, and the 9th special forces division from Nizhny Novgorod were introduced. The Novorossisk military and Russian units based in Adygea and Chechnya were noticed. They connected the special forces of the Northern and Baltic Fleets, tank divisions.

Network trolls ridiculed Elena Vasilyeva, saying that she buried the war 'Buryats', but Russian soldiers with Asian appearance themselves posted their photos on social networks. And even the Russian singer Joseph Kobzon, who visited a tankman from Buryatia in a military hospital, helped in this.

It is impossible to state exactly which units were involved in all special operations in the Donbass. It is important to understand that all units pulled into the so-called exercises carried out a particular task in the Donbass. They entered the territory of Ukraine for 3-5 days, shot back and returned to the positions of training camps in the Rostov region. The ubiquitous Lifefews journalists shot a picture of how ukrofashists are shooting peaceful villages, and the army of New Russia is protecting them ... ”

From an unpublished report by Nemtsov:

“... But the unsecured Crimea remains. And who will provide this whole mini-continent, which is now an island for Russia? The budget plans did not approve such funding. I repeat, Putin did not have a mandate from the Council of Federations to send troops, this is a state crime. But Putin is used to doing exactly what he wants ... ”

Exploring the mass of videos on the capture of the Donetsk airport, Ilovaysky "cauldron" and the battles for Debaltseve, all the "militia" of the "Russian world" with a serious military bearing, without saying a word, note the same thing: we were betrayed. Either the order was not accurate, the location was chosen murderous for the special forces, then the unnecessary redeployment began, as a result of which everyone remained unprotected in the open. In other words, everyone, without exception, narrates about mediocre command and planning of military operations. Not a single army of the world has ever known such a shameful failure.

The independent newspaper “Pskov Province” wrote at that time: The fighting for this airport almost coincided with a secret funeral in Moscow, when in a military club, with all military honors, were said goodbye to 14 servicemen of the 45th Special Forces Regiment of the Airborne Forces, who “died at the same time” on holiday”. Ukrainian media then published photos with mourning ribbons exhibited in the club of the military unit, with reference to an “eyewitness”.

The logic of Russian propagandists: the photos on the tables themselves, even with mourning ribbons, do not say anything. Mourning ribbons can draw a billion. Like photos. Another thing is when we know the names, surnames and place of conscription of the Russian military. And nobody knew them, including the commanders of the exercises, since orders were given spontaneously, verbally. Lists of whom, at what point are being thrown, were not kept as unnecessary. All the same, all were disguised - epaulettes and military uniforms removed, military disguised as residents. Even the hand watch was not worn, so that it was impossible to establish the time difference between the two countries.

There was a lot of noise around the occupied territories of Donetsk and Lugansk regions from the Ukrainian media. But behind it are very important questions that no one has answered yet, which are simply drowning as a result of general whine:

- Why did the first humanitarian convoy come only to Lugansk and not come to Donetsk (in fact, it came secretly)?

- Why did the military suddenly use the phrase “inglorious bastards” in their groups in social networks?

- Why did the idea of the invincibility of the Russian army take root in the consciousness of society and why did several people in the Ministry of Defense of Ukraine contribute to this?

And finally

- Why did they kill Boris Nemtsov, having previously confiscated all his documents in his office, right after he announced his intention to write a report on the Russian invasion of the Donbass?

And why did Vladimir Putin issue a decree “on classifying losses among the military in peacetime”?

A great crime requires the destruction and concealment of all evidence. And if this crime is committed by the first persons of the country, then absolutely all forces are thrown to concealment of secrets. They succeeded with the Kursk submarine, and all the perpetrators quickly moved with promotion to work in the General Staff and the State Duma. Although after that story, society already had to throw off the mediocre commander-in-chief and those scoundrels - generals who are not able to control the Russian army and navy.

But at that time the Internet in Russia was still not so developed (is that why Putin intended to block it?) At closed forums of the Russian military, the military guys continue to slowly discuss what they saw during the “exercises”. And everyone confirms the absolutely incompetent command of any special operation.

Activists of the Russian protest, having learned the names of those who died, tried to understand where the Pskov paratroopers (or those who had recently been a paratrooper) are now. The numbers of military vehicles and machine guns can be faked. Like passports. But there are relatives and friends of the military. In cities such as Ardatov, Ostrov, Pechory, Shebalino, Kurganinsk, Makushino it is impossible to hide whether the soldier returned home or not. And, coordinating their actions, Russian human rights defenders began to search. To the search for living people or graves. And most often they began to find graves in the most diverse corners of vast Russia.

Yes, the Russian media are lying. And lie in a big way.

From an unpublished report by Nemtsov:

“... Putin ditched an incredible amount of Russian military in the Donbass. And he will not stop, because his main goal - the land corridor to the Crimea - has not been achieved. More than 600 billion dollars have already been spent on the war in Ukraine. And the Russian budget is cut in all respects, except for military expenses, arms costs. The sanctions imposed by the world community against Russia precisely because of its monstrous aggression do not stop Putin. He is madman. He really went crazy, and made his whole environment go crazy. He pulled along with him into this deadly adventure for Russia not only the entire Russian army, but also the people of Russia. He made millions of people accomplices in his crime.

And now, having unleashed a war in Syria, apparently he completely forgot the lessons of history. And for the first time in world history, Russia lost all allies. The Russian people will have to pay for the impunity of the usurper. And soon ... "

“You're lying!” - say the watched Russian television viewers. Therefore, it is worth starting to give evidence and tell what Putin's crime consists of in front of the army, his own people and the world community.

In mid-2014, social disputes began in the social networks over the number of Russian troops concentrated along the borders of Ukraine and losses from the Russian side in the Donbass. Russian propaganda, escalating hysteria, informed its citizens that the Russian-speaking population was oppressed in the Donbas. Responding to calls to help the fraternal people, volunteers from different regions of Russia go to the Donbass to help the oppressed.

In fact, in the territory of eastern Ukraine there are real battles in which the Russian army takes part. The so-called humanitarian convoys are transported to Ukraine through captured Ukrainian territories tanks, weapons, ammunition, and going back they are carrying ... the bodies of the dead. Moreover, not a single Russian channel reports real loss from the Russian side in the conflict zone.

The Russian command in the spring of 2014 officially announced the start of exercises in the south-west of Russia. At that time, hostilities were already going on in the Donbas for Lugansk, Donetsk and Donetsk Airport.

And the first cargo - 200 stories from Ukraine appeared in the Ukrainian media. Russian television channels talked about the first battles for the Donetsk International Airport, but not a word was said about the losses.

Battles in the spring and summer of 2014 in the Lugansk region claimed the lives of more than 2,000 militias and Russian soldiers disguised as militias. And then the first information leaked

“... Not a single Russian TV channel reported that 31 citizens of the Russian Federation died in the fighting in Donetsk on May 26, although there were“ Channel One ”and“ Russia 24 ”cameras near the morgue, she wrote on her Echo website blog Moscow "- (<http://echo.msk.ru/blog/maryautomne/1332306-echo/>), photojournalist Maria Turchenkova, Her photo story made people think about the extent of the tragedy taking place in the Donbass, and many questions arose for the Russian authorities.

“About a hundred journalists from international media gathered at the morgue, among them were the cameras of Channel One and Russia 24, which subsequently did not broadcast any news about this event,” and a truck with a “load of 200” already reached the border in Uspenska she was accompanied only by three colleagues.

None of the domestic federal television channels that have been talking for months about the genocide of Russians in eastern Ukraine and about fascists in the west has reported that 31 Russian citizens died in Donetsk on May 26. They didn’t explain what the feat for which they died, how they got into this war, who opens the "channel through Rostov", who distributes weapons and who meets coffins with stickers of the DPR, "writes Turchenkova.

“The Ukrainian media called the dead mercenaries and terrorists,” she adds, noting that the information war on both sides “completely erased the line of reality” and understanding what is really happening in eastern Ukraine.

Turchenkova writes that "the man from the environment of Alexander Borodai, the prime minister of the self-proclaimed Donetsk People's Republic," asked them to accompany the bodies of the dead to the border.

“We were stunned by what we heard. This was the first admission that Russian citizens were dying in battles in the Donbass,” she admits. Prior to this, only two residents of Donetsk, Mark Zverev and Eduard Tyuryutikov, were identified by photographs, the journalist notes.

Turchenkova had the impression that for the DNR officers it was important for the presence of journalists to deliver the bodies to the border.

The 31 coffins that were loaded into the truck were marked stickers "Donetsk People's Republic".

For each of them was attached a certificate of the Donetsk Regional judicial bureau-medical examination

May 29th that neither the corpse, nor in the coffin there are no investments whose movement across the border of Ukraine is prohibited.

The morgue's employees went with a list of the names of the dead, and even showed its to reporters for a couple of moments, but they didn't let them look carefully or take a picture. Journalists managed to see a certificate for Sergei Borisovich Zhdanovich, born in 1966, and Yuri Fedorovich Abrosimov, born in 1982.

Certificate of “cargo 200” for crossing the border with Russia

About Zhdanovich in the group "Afghanistan. In Nothing is forgotten, nobody is forgotten" in V Kontakte was written that he was an retired instructor FSB Special Forces Center of Russia, a veteran of Afghanistan and Chechnya, arrived in Rostov-on-Don on May 19 and May 26 was killed in Donetsk.

Turchenkova notes that there was not enough space in the morgue, so the DPR activists drove two refrigerated trucks the day before departure, where some of the dead were loaded. The bodies were stored in the ice cream factory refrigerators. On the sides and the roof of the truck carrying this cargo, activists painted red crosses and the numbers “200”.

The border guards were alert, but after looking at the information and realizing what kind of cargo was carrying, they let the wagon go through.

Пограничники были удивлены "грузом 200"

On August 19, 2014, a group titled “Cargo-200 from Ukraine to Russia” appeared on Facebook social networks, organized by a political activist, chairman of the board of the Forgotten Regiment Interregional Coordination Center Elena Vasilyeva. From this moment, the fixing of losses on the Russian side by caring citizens begins. The Kremlin simply could not expect that someone would begin to scrupulously collect information about the victims, to find out the circumstances of the death in real time.

In the group’s annotation it is written: “Today, refrigerators with the bodies of the dead go from Ukraine to Russia. But the Russian media prefer to remain silent about those who die on Ukrainian territory. Russia sent its troops to Ukraine in August 2014 The group was created to register the dead "

<https://www.facebook.com/groups/gruz200/>

Together with her assistants, Elena Vasilieva begins monitoring all reports of dead and missing servicemen and mercenaries from Russia. The work is complicated by the complete lack of information from the Russian side and the opposition of the Russian authorities. Initially, all fragmentary information found on the Internet begins to be dumped into the group, the recorded losses are summed up by simple arithmetic operations.

In the group, photos of Russians killed in the Ukrainian Donbass are beginning to be laid out. For the first week of the research work of the group administrators and volunteers go to the figure - 2000 dead!

In the course of the study, Elena Vasilieva repeatedly writes to politicians asking them to join in and cover this topic: Garry Kasparov, Boris Nemtsov, Andrei Illarionov, Mikhail Kasyanov, Andrei Piontkovsky,

George Satarov and others; Russian deputies: Dmitry Gudkov, Ilya

Ponomarev, Sergei Mitrokhin, a number of socio-political figures of Russia and from abroad, informs the Committees of soldiers' mothers and human rights defenders.

Participants in the summer battles from Ukraine are trying to help in the search for Russian soldiers left in the steppes of Donbass. They explain, by drawing on pieces of paper, in what places

At the end of this report, I published the application as an example of how we searched and double-checked the names of those killed in the first battles for the Donetsk airport in the project “Cargo 200 from Ukraine to Russia”. This painstaking study may be of interest only to historians and the military. At the same time, I would like to show the inquisitive reader how a variety of journalists and volunteers helped us in this difficult search.

From June 3 to 9, 2014, the Argument publication spoke about some of those who died in the battle for the airport. “Another soldier of the Vostok battalion who was killed at the Donetsk airport was identified. Alexey Yurin, 21 years old, Mozhaysk. He served on conscription in the 45th Guards Regiment of the Special Forces of the Airborne Forces of the Russian Federation. Then Crimea. Then in the destroyed Kamaz

(<http://argumentua.com/reportazh/my-vashego-syna-v-ukrainu-ne-otpravlyalikorotkaya-istoriya-zhizni-russkogo-naemnika-ubito>)

Further, the text astonishes an unprepared Russian reader:

At least three coffins came these days in the Moscow Region from Ukraine. In social networks - there is no official information - three former Russian military personnel aged 21 to 48 years are mentioned (A. Yurin, A. Efremov and S. Zhdanovich); in the spring, all three somehow fell into a neighboring country, fought there in the ranks of anti-government forces and were killed in late May during fighting in Donetsk.

The most striking thing is that we have not heard anything about them in the official Russian media - the very ones that over the past months have glorified everyone who fights with the "Kiev fascist junta." State television channels, government newspapers, and equally semi-official, albeit yellow websites, are silent about them, as if it was a state secret. They do not mention a single word about those who, in theory, should have been honored for days on end as brave heroes who saved civilians and, as a result, dead for the "Russian world". As if none of this happened.

They don't write about them even in the days of the funeral, even the local press outside Moscow is silent

If Yurin, Efremov and Zhdanovich, from the point of view of the state, are liberators who performed the same mission as all these Babai, Byesee and Girkis, then why, after only a few days after the death, they are already de facto forgotten, friends are forced into social networks to announce fundraising to help families, and at the farewell ceremonies shots from rifles of the guard of honor do not sound? It's not about the fact that in the cities of Mozhaisk and Elektrogorsk they should certainly name schools or rename the streets, but why not just mention the dead and not say a few words about them that they deserve?

It is possible, of course, that we don't know much, and following the tradition, the Kremlin has already issued another secret decree on awarding the dead volunteers (according to the Ukrainian version - mercenaries and terrorists) with orders and medals and on allocating monetary compensation and new apartments to their relatives

; secret - in order, of course, not to give numerous enemies of Russia an extra reason to reproach our peace-loving country in involvement in military operations in eastern Ukraine. An open secret should remain a secret.

Or is it still a different matter, namely, the use of an old and effective tactic known as “pulling chestnuts out of the fire with the wrong hands”? The propaganda pumping in the media aroused patriotic (although what kind of patriotism, if we are talking about another country?) Feelings and desire to fulfill an international duty: I’m a hut left / went to fight ...

While they seized administrations in Ukraine and shot down helicopters, the country's leadership pressed Kiev, sold gas, negotiated with the West, etc., that is, they solved their own political and financial problems. And then, most likely, a universal formula came into force that has been used for a long time: "we did not send your son to Ukraine (Afghanistan, Chechnya ...)." The state has nothing to do with it, and each family again remains alone with its grief.

Indeed, not a single federal channel of Russia reported on the Russians who died in the battle for the Donetsk airport on May 26. No one explained what their feat was and how they got into this war. Putin was noticed in a church, lighting a candle for the souls of those who died in the Donbass.

In May 2014, Novaya Gazeta filed an official request with

The General Prosecutor's Office, the Investigative Committee and the Border Service of the FSB of Russia.

This is a criminal offense, which must be thoroughly investigated, and to understand how the victims ended up on the territory of Ukraine in the war zone. But the most important thing is to find out right now what happened to the bodies. In the end, loved ones should be able to humane say goodbye.

Nothing changes in Russia, Russia sends its children to die in foreign lands, and then does not recognize their participation in these adventures. There were 70s, now 10s, there was Angola and Mozambique, Afghanistan, Czechoslovakia, Chechnya, now Donetsk and Lugansk.

The statement of "Novaya Gazeta":

From Donetsk to Rostov, the truck with the bodies of the dead was sent by the leaders of the self-proclaimed Donetsk People's Republic, Alexander Borodai, Denis Pushilin and a citizen of Russia, overseeing the power block, introduced by call sign "Varan."

— Among the dead, thirty Russians and one Chechen (I mean ethnic Russians and a Chechen, all are Russian citizens), said the curator of the security forces. - Thankfully, the names of all the guys are known to us, a certificate has been written out for everyone, and all this will reach Rostov. But, unfortunately, only ours (Russians, after the fight at the airport) could be identified with absolute reliability, they had documents with them. But so far it has not been possible to identify many local militias, they worked by the callsign, we did not find any names or documents.

According to the security official, the Russians arrived in the Donbass legally, across the border. Weapons and ammunition were already in place.

“For example, we arrived in a group of 15 people - from Rostov. There, our volunteers organize themselves and travel here legally

Cargo 200: no one wanted to confirm

Representatives of the official authorities of the Rostov region deny the delivery to Russia of the bodies of Russians who died in Donetsk

And again the same random confirmation of the words of Turchenkova: Russian citizens began to be delivered to Russia, who died in battles in the southeast of Ukraine. On the night of May 29-30, the first two trucks with the bodies of the dead crossed the Ukrainian-Russian border.

Two trucks arrived at the Uspenskaya customs post (they usually transport perishable goods). After the procedure, the cars with the “Cargo 200” departed towards the Russian border.

However, so far in the Rostov region, few people even know something about the terrible echelon. The head of the press service of the Southern Customs Administration, Ryan Farukshin, told the newspaper: "Novaya Gazeta" that he does not have information about the passage of two trucks with red crosses and the number "200" on the sides through the checkpoints on the territory of the Russian Federation. The military registration and enlistment office of the Rostov region reported that for the first time they heard about the "cargo 200" received in Russia from the rebellious regions of Ukraine

— If soldiers from our units (deployed in the Rostov region) or residents of the region would participate in the conflict, then our structures would take in the bodies, transfer them to morgues for storage, if necessary, conduct medical examinations or identification, report the death of a soldier to relatives, they would organize a burial. But in the Ukrainian conflict, Russian army and power units are not involved.

The former head of the 124th laboratory (engaged in identifying the bodies of soldiers who died in military conflicts), Vladimir Shcherbakov also told us that he had not heard anything about the arrival on the territory of the Rostov region of the bodies of Russians killed in battles in Ukraine.

- The marking "200" is accepted in the Russian army, this is the name of the transport in which the bodies of the dead are transported. In theory, these cars are civilian, and civilian structures could accept them on the Russian side. If among the dead there are unidentified corpses, then an examination is required, which can also be carried out by a private structure.

Vladimir Shcherbakov himself now leads one of such structures - LLC 124Lab, but so far no one has turned to him for an examination.

— - Usually, when the coffin with the deceased arrives from abroad, the order is as follows: after customs formalities, the body directly at the border is taken by relatives or the funeral home (by proxy from the relatives of the deceased), - explained the head of the Taganrog Bureau of Funeral and Funeral Services Alexander Kondratyev. - If the body is unidentified, then it is sent to the morgue for a forensic examination. A certain time is allotted to the identification of the deceased, usually a month. If the identity could not be established, then the body is buried as unidentified.

Taganrog is the city closest to the Assumption Customs Post. According to Alexander Kondratyev, there is no information that the bodies of Russians who died in battles in Ukraine are in the city morgue.

Vladimir Shcherbakov, in turn, expressed the opinion that perhaps most of the bodies had already been sent to the relatives of the victims:

- From the media it is known that the Russians fighting there have documents with them, and in case of death, it is probably not difficult to establish the residence of their relatives.

The only one who indirectly confirmed that the bodies of those killed in the military conflict still remain in the Rostov Region was Eduard Popov, the head of the Rostov representative office of the Donetsk People's Republic. To the question about the "cargo 200" that arrived from Ukraine, he answered as follows:

— Sorry for cynicism, but thank God I'm not doing this. Other people are doing this. Which ones - I don't know for sure, and I don't have any contacts. Victoria Makarenko, sob. correspondent Novaya Gazeta, Rostov-on-Don Sergey Zhdanovich. Dossier.

On May 26, a Russian citizen Sergey Zhdanovich died in a battle for the Donetsk airport. The chairman of the executive committee is organizing his funeral.

Elektrogorsk branch of "United Russia". "And he sent him there"

As it turned out, in April Zhdanovich requested a volunteer in the Crimea, but did not have time to send him. But on May 14, he told relatives that "they were urgently calling for military training in Rostov-on-Don," he quickly packed up and left. And on May 26, someone called Zhdanovich's brother and wife from Donetsk and said that "Sergey was killed."

Sergey Zhdanovich was born in 1966 in Elektrogorsk. He graduated from school number 15. He dreamed of becoming a driver, so he first studied in Krupin as a tractor driver. He served in the Pacific Fleet in the protection of parks for ballistic and cruise missiles. After the army, he got a job at the Sokolniki police department. In 2000, according to the order, he was sent to Chechnya. In 2001, he signed a contract to serve in Chechnya. Marked with letters of thanks from the command of the Ministry of Internal Affairs. Favorite expression: "Duty to the Motherland, honor to nobody!"

After the Chechen campaign, Zhdanovich headed the Elektrogorsk branch of the Combat Brotherhood organization of hot spot veterans and took up military-patriotic education of youth. At the same time joined the "United Russia". From 2012 to the day of his death - a deputy from United Russia in the city council of Elektrogorsk.

Novaya Gazeta correspondents contacted the press service of the United Russia office in Elektrogorsk and asked if United Russia would provide material assistance to its deceased member of the same party. In response, the girl said that the delivery of the body from Rostov-on-Don and the organization of the funeral is handled by the head of the city executive committee of EP Roman Tikunov (audio recording is available in the editorial office):

- Roman Igorevich went to Donetsk, and he sent him there.
- How did it ferry?

"Well, I don't know these details." He documented everything there ...

In parting, the girl promised to connect us with Mr. Tikunov and asked to leave the editorial phone number.

Since 2012, Roman Tikunov has been the head of Elektrogorsk United Russia, also a member of the Battle Brotherhood, the founder of commercial structures working in the housing and utilities sector: Elinkom LLC, Dom-Service LLC, RitStroy LLC, Truck-Es LLC and LLC "Cascade".

Alexey Zhdanovich, brother of the deceased Sergey, told the following:

— There is no information. Tikunov said he was busy delivering refugees from Donetsk. It was promised that on June 6, the brother's body would be brought to the Ramenskoye airport or delivered to Podolsk — In the Ukrainian media they write that your brother served in the FSB.

— He never served in the FSB. Only in the police ...

It remains to add that Sergei Zhdanovich has a wife and daughter, a student.

A year later, online interviews will appear on the Internet with the participants in these battles, who will begin to talk in perplexity about how mediocre were the balance of power and command orders. Surviving fighters under call signs will note only one fact, pronouncing the word "betrayal".

Personnel officers who were well aware of the balance of power, assessing specific circumstances were at first surprised, and seeing how their comrades were dying, they were already indignant at the stupidity of the orders given, the lack of timely support and medical assistance. But none of the military dared to utter the words “adventure”, “bluff”, “murder”, and it is precisely the last word that defines the essence of mediocre orders that led to the destruction of the personnel of the Russian army, which was sent to carry out subversive and aggressive activities in the neighboring country .

But that was only the beginning.

The Russian Ministry of Defense, which sent the guys to the slaughter, is mysteriously silent. And the head of the press center, Major General Kanashenkov, unexpectedly stated that Elena Vasilyeva does not exist in nature. This is an image invented by the Pentagon, and instead its NATO social media blog is maintained by NATO officers. It's flattering.

An incredibly huge army of disinfectors was activated against our group, who sent absolutely incorrect, fictitious information. And of course, we sometimes fell for these tricks, and since I was the main "translator" for the media - Elena Vasilieva, the miss with the wrong name slipped into us was repeated many times to inspire gullible spectators - Vasilieva is lying!

In general, everything possible was done to confuse the lists of the dead, to hide the names of most of them.

Any military action involves losses from both warring parties. Through the central channels of Ukraine, they broadcast daily how the soldiers who died in this conflict are buried in a particular area.

Russian channels also talk about Ukraine's losses, but they keep dead silence about the Russians killed in the Donbas, believing that nameless heroes do not need such glory and human funerals. Moreover, the search for the dead, of which only a nickname remains, is significantly burdened.

But we didn't think so.

Chapter 2 Cargo 200 goes to Russia or “they are not there”

Before proceeding to the second chapter, it is worth clarifying one concept. The military callsign is either the name of the radio point, the military facility with which the switch should connect. But in this dishonest war in the Donbass, unexpectedly, every belligerent on the Russian side got nicknames. And the word “call sign” was introduced by the Russian military in violation of all military and military traditions. Simply, everyone has a “nickname” instead of a name.

... Noteworthy is the publication of the Forgotten Regiment Interregional Coordination Center, in which officers of our organization talked about the number of Russian troops accumulated in the summer of 2014 along the Ukrainian border in the article “Peacekeeping Forces of Russia”

(<http://zpolk-org.livejournal.com/72403.html>.)

And these strange protracted military exercises do not want to end. “... we publish the information at our disposal about which troops are pulled into the combat zones of Ukraine. We hope this will become a definite guideline for relatives who are worried about the fate of their employees in the army of relatives.

For obvious reasons, this information cannot be accurate at 100%. But it is confirmed by fragmentary statements from the Ministry of Defense and the publications of journalists.

- In total, according to the most rough estimates, taking into account the support units, the number of the Russian Group (which they themselves cynically call the "Peacekeeping") on the eastern border of Ukraine is about 12-15 thousand personnel, which, if necessary, can be strengthened at least as soon as possible in two. Large groups of Russian troops are also concentrated in the South in the occupied Crimea and on the North-Eastern border of Ukraine*

After the group “Cargo 200 from Ukraine to Russia” counted the first 2,000 (two thousand) deaths in the battles in the Donbass (which are now confirmed after almost a year and a half by name! What are the actual losses?) On August 25, 2014 at An article by Elena Vasilyeva with the same name “Cargo-200 from Ukraine to Russia” - (<http://echo.msk.ru/blog/evasiljeva/1386700-echo/>) appears in Echo of Moscow, in which Vasilyeva draws the attention of readers to the fact that “... The authorities are trying to explain to the local population that during the exercises at the training range near Pskov several paratroopers were blown up Pskov Airborne Division. Rumors go different: 10 people, 15 people. Shoigu hastily flew to Pskov. At the same time, on August 18, 2014, the President of Russia, by Decree N 571 “ON REWARDING THE ORDER OF SUVOROV 76

The GUARDIAN airborne - assault Chernihiv Red Banner Division ”awards the paratroopers with the Order of Suvorov.

For reference: The Order of Suvorov is awarded exclusively for military merit. That is, in peacetime it is impossible to receive such an order only if it participated in some kind of military operations. Here are the reasons for receiving this award: 1. For the skillful organization of operations and leadership of groupings of troops (forces), associations and military units, which allowed, despite stubborn resistance of the enemy, his numerical superiority, improved technical equipment and a more favorable location in the theater of operations (operational direction), achieve the objectives of operations, retain the most important areas of its territory (territories of the union states), create conditions for seizing the initiative and conducting subsequent operations with spruce offensive 2. For efficient organization and management of units of the Armed Forces of the Russian Federation for the activities of strategic deterrence force nature, to ensure that no (de-escalation) aggression (armed conflict) against the Russian Federation and (or) its allies

Vasilyeva emphasizes: “In fact, the Presidential Decree of 08/18/2014 N 571“

On awarding the 76th Guards Airborne Assault Red Banner Chernigov Division with the Order of Suvorov ”is an official documentary confirmation that the military forces of the Russian Federation unleashed and are waging war against Ukraine on its territory..

And all this happens at a time when the Ukrainian people in all social networks are persuading the Russians: take away the corpses of Russian mercenaries and conscript soldiers. Ukraine is ready to deliver corpses to relatives at its own expense. Not in order to mock someone, but because there, in Ukraine, they have not lost the main thing - humanity! They can't understand in any way: how it is so, how you can abandon your “heroes” and let them bury them like stray dogs. Ukrainians are trying to disseminate appeals to mothers, wives, sisters of Russia asking them to phone with men who have been absent from families who have not contacted for a long time: maybe they are no longer alive! But they come across aggressive exclamations: all this is a lie. And Ukrainians have to bury the corpses of dead mercenaries in common graves, digging long trenches for this. It is also difficult to identify them, because at best a nickname of a mercenary may be known. Killed with documents are not common. Rostov's morgues are crammed with corpses and these services are simply suffocating from hopelessness. It remains only to advise relatives who are looking for their missing sons, fathers and brothers: first contact the Rostov morgue, and then send requests to the Security Service of Ukraine, to the Committees of Soldiers' Mothers.

But the deceived Russians in the same social networks begin to argue and claim that all this is fake.

In two days, this article by Elena Vasilyeva was read by more than 100,000 people. From that moment, over the next two years, Echo of Moscow no longer missed a single article by Vasilyeva to publish important information on her blog

... And here is the unexpected news: the corpses of paratroopers were brought to Pskov on white KAMAZ trucks. And information began to leak through all social networks despite the fact that intelligence agencies are trying to clean up every such message. And now the information vacuum was broken by the wives, loved ones of those who were quietly brought back to their homeland.

And on August 27, the Russian media were still not afraid to talk about the death of 12 Pskov paratroopers. The survivors managed to tell a lot before the security services pressed them.. (<http://slon.ru/fast/russia/pskovskiedesantniki-rasskazali-o-gibeli-desyatkov-svoikh-tovarishchey-1151234.xhtml>)

(excerpt from negotiations) Paratroopers discuss the situation with hiding the death of their comrades, in particular, Leonid Kichatkin:

- I understand that Lenin's wife was covered with a mouth?
- Most likely,  [damn] Because the phone was taken from her, some guy picked up the phone, said that "I am Lenya". Bitch, I would have seen him, I would have beaten him  [face],  [nafig] ...
- Lenya already lies,  [nafig] ...
- Lenya there without legs, you can say ... I talked with a man who was right there in this battle ...

... Since the creation of the "Cargo-200 from Ukraine to Russia" group, a variety of information has come to me and the group's admins. A lot of unverified details that we do not publish, but are looking for confirmation. And as expected, one has to look for the missing soldiers.

Believe me, the assistants and I are very happy when the fighter is, even if wounded, but alive. Even captive, but alive.

Once we managed to find the parents and wife of a fighter who is in a coma in Dnepropetrovsk. We found two wounded guys: one in Rostov, the other one in Volgograd hospital. Parents and relatives are now in a hurry to their children playing in the war.

But not everything is as smooth as we would like to think.

The sister of the missing brother turned to me:

- Please help me find a brother, Pavel Zhilin, born in 1992 He served in Kostroma 98 Airborne Division, 331 regiment, 3 battalion, 9 company, but when they were taken to Rostov, it seems that he was transferred to 1 battalion, to 1 company

We are looking for everything together

Mom Chernega Marina Anatolyevna two months ago lost her son 25 years old Veselov Egor Pavlovich July 21, 90 who left home without documents.

- Help me find a son. We have already appealed to the investigating authorities and the prosecutor's office, but no one gives any answer. My father fell ill because of this, went to the hospital ...

Today we found him captive in Ukraine. And the mother, in a strange way, expects her son to return just like that from there himself.

We continue to look for another loss - a volunteer.

His wife is looking for Yuri Kirsanov from Samara

- A male voice called me and said that in the Donbass my husband was shot in the back. He was taken to Russia, where we do not know.

Yuri's trace was found in Rostov's hospital, but relatives were told there that he had been transferred to the military hospital in St. Petersburg .. On this, the trace was lost.

Military lawyers, members of our Facebook group "Cargo 200 from Ukraine to Russia," were prepared to send statements to the appropriate authorities demanding to check every case of the mysterious death of Russian military personnel in pseudo-exercises near Rostov and its environs. We never received a response.

As for a number of guys, it was clear that they were openly trying to confuse us, as, for example, in the story of Ilya Maximov, who turned out to be alive.

Ilya Maximov. Dossier.

Ilya Maximov serves in the 234th Guards Black Sea OrderKutuzov III degree airborne assault regiment named after St. Alexander Nevsky, part of the 76th division. On August 21, a message appeared on social networks that in the Lugutinsky district of the Luhansk region, the Ukrainian military destroyed a group of Russian soldiers and seized an airborne combat vehicle. In photographs from the scene, in addition to the damaged BMD-2, the charter of the airborne forces and the verification magazine, documents of several captured soldiers were posted. One of them was a soldier of the 76th guards airborne assault division of the airborne forces based in Pskov, Ilya Maksimov was born in 1994.

“On August 17th he sent an SMS message:“ Everything is fine. The phone’s charging ends, the camp is without electricity, ”Ilya Maksimov’s mother Lyubov Aleksandrovna told Profil.“ When the message arrived, I called back almost immediately, but there was no connection. An answering machine suggested leaving a message. ” According to her, on the eve of Ilya talked with his sister, and the day before, with herself. According to the mother, Ilya warned his parents on August 15 that he was going to a training camp. This did not surprise them, because such trips often happened before.

The fact that Maximov was among the captured Pskov paratroopers in Ukraine, his parents learned from acquaintances, and then they themselves saw messages on social networks. Lyubov Maksimova, in a conversation with a Profile correspondent, confirmed that Ilya Maksimov's driver's license, photographs of which, along with his other documents, were posted on the Internet — authentic. "He received a driver's license before he joined the army in June 2012," Lyubov Maksimova explained. Maxim's military specialty, she said, was "BMD driver". "We went to the Volsky military registration and enlistment office. They knew nothing there. Then we went to Saratov. The military enlistment office told us that they saw messages on social networks and promised to call Pskov. Whether they called or not, I don't know, but they told us that in Pskov they were aware of the messages, but in fact this is not true and everything is fine," explained Maximova.

After the connection with Ilya Maximov was lost, and in social networks his name appeared in the list of victims, Lyubov Maximova turned to the Saratov Committee of Soldiers' Mothers. A request was posted from the committee on the Internet to provide any information about the missing person. According to its leader, Lidia Sviridova, an unknown man called her on the night of the same day and said that Maximov had been detained in Ukraine. He invited her to help release the paratrooper if his parents officially announced his loss to Ukraine. As Sviridova said, the man did not introduce himself, called from the Moscow number and spoke without a Ukrainian accent. The speaker refused to provide any evidence that Maximov was alive.

August 27 at 11:45 Ilya called his father, as her phone was turned off at that moment. He said that he was in training in Rostov. To his father's question, "What nonsense is happening on the Internet, why is your driver's license published", Ilya answered: "I don't know. My driver's license is with me. "

In a comment to the Dozhd TV channel, Lyubov Maksimova reported that she had tried to call back to the number from which the call had arrived and she heard:

“The call cannot be made yet, it is satellite international communications.”

I could not find out any other media reports about whether Ilya Maximov is alive or not. And suddenly after this hype, the central channels of Russia show a report with alive and healthy Ilya, who continues contract service in Russia.

At the same time, when the news of the dead Pskov paratroopers was circulated in social networks, Ukrainian media reported that “Near the settlement of Mirror Amvrosievsky district of Donetsk region, the general operational group of the Armed Forces of Ukraine and the SBU detained 10 troops of the 331st regiment of the 98th Svir air division of the landing forces of the Armed Forces of the Russian Federation (HF 71211). Russian servicemen have been detained with personal documents and weapons, "the statement reads on the website of the SBU of Ukraine.

The Minister of Defense of Ukraine Valery Geletay in connection with the detention of 10 servicemen asks relatives of Russian soldiers to inquire whether they are on the territory of Ukraine. “Officially, they are training in various parts of the Russian Federation. In reality, they are participating in military aggression against Ukraine,” wrote Geletay on his Facebook.

Russian servicemen detained with personal documents and weapons testified that the battalion of paratroopers was sent by rail to the Rostov region of the Russian Federation on August 23, and at about 3 a.m. on August 24 the unit was alerted and received orders to march in a dozen convoy BMD. Only the officers were informed that Russian equipment would invade the territory of Ukraine. "

On August 25, one of the founders of Look At Me, Alexei Ametov, tweeted that he had met a man on the highway who was driving to Ulan-Ude for the funeral of his son, a paratrooper who died near Donetsk. Earlier, the Dagestani publication "Draft" reported the death of at least ten natives of the region in Ukraine. According to the sources of the publication, sending contractors to the border regions of the Russian Federation is "voluntary-compulsory" in nature. "Those who refuse can, for example, be taken to the parade ground and accused of cowardice and so on before the formation. That is, moral pressure is exerted," the paratrooper told "Draft", who wished to remain anonymous.

So, there was a lot of noise around the deaths of the Pskov and Ryazan paratroopers, but no one bothered to ask the question: how did it happen that so many conscripts and contract soldiers died and went missing?

Talkative Ukraine also tactfully circumvented this issue. But in vain.

And before confirming the presence of Pskov, Ryazan, Ivanovo, Samara, Ulyanovsk and other paratroopers in the war in the Donbass, it is worth immediately telling about what did happen more than once. And, perhaps, this is precisely what Putin's main fear is, after which he was ordered to shut up everyone who raises the topic of the military who died in Ukraine and, in fact, simply killed, Russian paratroopers.

(Data that was seized from Boris Nemtsov on the day of his murder)

We learned about the death of the Kostroma and Pskov paratroopers. They will be detailed below in this report. But the people of Russia have not heard anything about the death of the Ivanovo paratroopers. And we have no evidence of their death, but there are many fragmentary stories that are worth voicing here.

The guys from the Ivanovo landing were sent to capture Mariupol. The group consisted of an artillery division, reconnaissance and support units with a total number of about 400 people, about 30 airborne combat vehicles, 18 Nona artillery installations and other vehicles with a total of up to 60 units.

On August 24, the group came under attack from the Ukrainian artillery and tank brigade, as a result of which it was destroyed. 10 people were captured, and the rest died. Their names were not announced in Russia. Their bodies were buried secretly.

But this is not one failure of the offensive of the Russian army.

Another story, in fact, it happened with the Pskov, Ryazan, Kostroma paratroopers, Ulyanovsk and Samara conscripts.

Many in Russia were dumbfounded in August 2014 by the number of killed Russian military - conscripts in the "exercises". And the society was "turned away" from exactly how the guys died. And this question, I repeat, lies at the basis of that lie, that war crime that the Russian command is trying to hide from the whole world by all means. Otherwise, the war in the Donbass could have ended in August 2014.

And, as you recall, Shoigu immediately flew to the location of the unit to the Pskov, having awarded the military unit with the Order of Suvorov and declared the guard. Even Putin was noticed in the church when he put a candle at rest.

Mothers who tried to find out the cause and circumstances of the deaths of the boys were told that this was a state secret.

Relatives of the deceased underwent an unprecedented massive treatment. Everything was used: intimidation, threats of reprisal against family members.

But the most important "carrot" was the promised compensation of up to 5 million rubles.

It is strange if Sechin's salary is 1 million rubles a day, Putin has even more, why didn't they bargain? Why 5, and not, say, not 10 or 15 million for the killed warrior-son? The authorities would make any concessions if our people were a little more organized. But in Russia there is no civil society. The population has long been crushed and intimidated. And relatives are silent from fear of losing the promised compensation and payments.

But it became noticeable that on closed forums, the landing force overnight silently hated the Ivanovo paratroopers, everywhere using the nickname

"Inglourious Basterds". Why? For what?

As it turned out: for the stupid execution of orders of absolutely mediocre command. Ivanovo landing blocked the road to Donetsk. They received an order: do not let anyone in without special orders.

One day in August 2014, they received a "special order": let the column of the Pskov paratroopers go. How and on what Pskovites should move was known. But the Russian command thought - thought, and decided to strengthen the Pskov with several tanks, and the Ivanovo guys did not receive any additional special orders.

And the Ivanovites look at this column, see tanks in the column's tail, and analyze that they don't have a word about the tanks. Therefore, this is the trick of the Ukrainians and this is another column. And that means: "Fire to defeat!" You know the result ...

Another time, just a few days later, an officer from the headquarters came to their location. And he says: "A convoy of white KAMAZs must pass here. This is" humanitarian aid "to our guys in Donetsk. Skip them!" To which the commander of Ivanovtsev shrugged in surprise, stating: "What are the KAMAZ trucks? Aren't they dying there around the corner?"

The first humanitarian convoy of assistance to Donbass was pompously disseminated by all the media, and the figure was 280 cars, white KAMAZ trucks. But on August 16, only 160 crossed the border. Where the remaining 120 went is a mystery.

The observers recorded 10 KAMAZs already unloaded in Donetsk at the same time - on August 16. But about the rest in the media, complete silence to this day.

In short, the Ivanovo people were informed late that cars of a humanitarian convoy should go through.

And the Ukrainian media chuckled calling such strange fights "friendly fire of an unidentified military unit."

There is even more terrible evidence that Elena Vasilyeva first noticed when shooting her documentary film "Ukraine: In Search of Truth". Officers and soldiers who left the Ilovaisky Cauldron in September 2014 unanimously said that despite the declared free corridor for the Ukrainian military, Russian tanks began to shoot the Ukrainian convoy point blank. But not all, but only the equipment in which there were Russian prisoners of war captured by Ukrainians. Moreover, they were told with surprise. Indeed, while a whole week in Ilovaysk there were negotiations on the withdrawal of Ukrainians who were surrounded, the Russian military provided the Ukrainians with a list of the convoy, and the withdrawal procedure was agreed upon. And the Ukrainians quite rightly believed that the Russian servicemen whom they had taken prisoner would serve as some kind of shield to them, a guarantee that the Russian military would keep their word and would not shoot.

How did they know that the Russian command would give the order to destroy the evidence, namely, witnesses - Russian prisoners of war, whom the Ukrainians would surely have presented to the world. After all, Putin said that there are no Russian military in Ukraine. And he does not care 10 or 100 people will die.

Exploring the various nuances of those battles, one conclusion suggests itself: Putin is ready to destroy any evidence. And people, including military personnel are just expendables in his military games as soldiers. There is simply no question of any well-thought-out tactics, concern for their military.

Some soldiers, not obeying the illegal orders of their commanders, and then killed, once posted on their pages on the social network "VKontakte" even summons from the military enlistment office (for example, Andrei Lukyanov from Novosibirsk, from Solidarnosti Street, called up on December 10, 2013 by the military commissariat for Dzerzhinsky and Kalinin regions). And thanks to each such account, our volunteers were able to find those who died anonymously in the battles in the Donbass.

The fact that the military field hospitals did not work anywhere can be judged by the number of wounded and crowded hospitals of all cities and towns in the occupied territories. The bulk of the losses on the Russian side is precisely due to the untimely medical assistance provided to the militias, Russian volunteers and ... Russian soldiers who took off their epaulets, chevrons, dressed as local militias by criminal orders.

Many of the servicemen began to write letters to Elena Vasilyeva, trying to share their emotions and understand the situation. Here are excerpts of some of their letters from Russian servicemen, who have jokingly christened "ichthamnets" (authors' spelling has been preserved): From a letter

Elena, I heard on the forum about your group, I decided to look. I look at the list, it's generally scary, everything is just as it is. I think more than 1,000 paratroopers died. Look, the total losses of more than 900 people, 577 are recognized, to which 333 more have gone - that's everything at a minimum. At the moment, there is a gap, they brought in - they counted, there are not enough 900 people, 577 people were recorded dead, where else 333 have gone?

You have begun a very important work, and we and our relatives should pray for you. I read comments under your articles. What kind of people we have !. They are not sorry for their military personnel. We are not sorry: meat is so meat. And we are people. And we understand everything about the criminal order. You know, breaking is coming. Nobody wants to go to this Ukraine. We were sent 600 people. Returned 24. You understand twenty-four. Where are the others? nobody cares. There are none of them. As if it weren't.

Finally, the Ministry of Defense began to compile lists. Wives and mothers are in shock. No information, where are the cargoes 200? They are not, where did the personnel go? And only you shout about it to the whole world, and our bad cotton wool, indeed cotton wool ... (Those who believe Russian news and Russian propaganda began to be called the word "cotton wool")

Здравия желаю, Елена Борисовна, извините, что отвлекаю, но у нас в части творится что-то невыносимое. У всех нас почти родственники есть на
From a letter:

I wish you good health, Elena Borisovna, I'm sorry to interrupt, but something unbearable is happening in our unit. Almost all of us have relatives in Ukraine. But the generals, colonels come and carry some heresy, and it is clear that they believe in it! They say that Ukrainians are throwing people into gas chambers, in Lviv they want to make a golden statue of Bandera, that they load Russian prisoners in cars and then shoot them. Bullshit, we saw these militia stoned. And they saw Ukrainian villages. Residents are intimidated, that's right. But we talked to them in August. Listed our losses are amazing. Moreover, we do not have a Russian army. Creepy, of course. We listened to these generals and asked a question, but where are our 85 people that did not return since September. And they with impudent eyes told us that it is a military secret. After all, everyone knows where these 85 people went, they say to the wives of the missing that they are in underground bunkers. What is there to talk about further. Of the 1,000 who have not returned yet - 800 are recognized, and where they are - are not recognized

From a letter:

We sent 240 people. I control it. I hammer every unit on the Internet and everything is visible. 10 people lost, for what? Is it really you who ask this question and worry about us, contract military personnel?

From a letter:

*You yourself understood: the columns are being broken on the march, these dnrovtsy killed by drugs, scorched from mortars, if only to whom. They don't make out: Russians, Ukrainians ... They, our bitches, killed the military more than dill (this is the name of the Ukrainian mercenaries Russian - from the word "dill"). Well, you understand, if two columns: the columns on the march (these are the main losses), the first to break; and camps - the base camp - there are partisans and these ***.*

From a letter:

Elena Borisovna, at least you are doing a good thing. We are visited by seconded officers and jammers hack (FSB), and for 1.5 hours the general tells some kind of ... nude. I don't know, they expect everyone to be blown up, they will go to Ukraine to die, but they ... me. What for? What? What will change? These morons have quotas. That is, you have so many contract soldiers in the unit, neh ... like b ... d, expose to Ukraine. But for us, nobody knows anything. Do you know why mobile phones are taken away and silencers are turned on? So that, God forbid, the truth does not know how to get fucked, the lawyers are not called.

From a letter:

Understand correctly; there are boys, yesterday's conscripts, who were forced to sign a contract, sent to Ukraine - this is one situation, they are green fools, they don't know how to stand up for themselves; but there are grown men and no one will hide. Everyone has gone. Everyone disappeared synchronously. There are no such coincidences, they rushed in Donetsk ... Coincidence is not important. You spelled correctly in numbers and dates. And this is my team Where can I find their bodies? Only you hold on. You for many like a beacon of truth now

From a letter:

... and so many bosses came to us, consisting of whole generals, about 6 colonels, talked about chips, about faith, about the tsar-priest, well, and any such x  nude, in short.

The point is, they are again going to send people to the Donbass now ... But we haven't returned them yet. And we know that they were killed, and there is no one to ask, and the commander got into a vacation so that he did not sign the reports ...

From a letter:

All that is possible, everything that is more or less adapted, has long been sent. And almost nothing and no one returned. And it came to the point that there are not enough qualified tankers, because tankers are a difficult profession, the crew is needed there. There you need to know a lot of things, the new tanks are different from the old ones: after all, it looks the same, but inside it is completely different.

Now they began to send cadets there. Can you imagine? Directly from school, and promise without exams diplomas. Young people are still without a head. The situation is very difficult. We still have volunteers. But the guys are told that the motherland is in trouble, the Nazis in Ukraine seized power. They lie about gas chambers and that 60 more volunteers need to be collected ...

From a letter:

Elena, what's going on? We were sent to the training at first, with maps specifically, sorry, fucked up. They gave us maps of the territory of Russia, squares, goals. At first, we did not even know that these were settlements of Ukraine. They shot their own, then we find out that there are people, people ...

Those who returned from the cauldron are as evil as dogs. They were looking for how our media would tell about it, but they are silent and carry some garbage about Novorossia. There is no New Russia there. There are a lot of criminals with machine guns.

And yesterday, two generals came over to us, everyone was on the parade ground, and they told us that the Ukrainians were visiting settlements, they were loading everyone who spoke Russian, but sent their people first, they asked questions and who spoke Russian - they detect, then send in the sonder teams - an analogue of the Nazi SS, they catch and transport everyone and immerse them in gas chambers - I'm not kidding, this is in all seriousness.

We could not stand it anymore, began to laugh. We were there. I went into the huts. Normal peasants live. Elena, explain to me what kind of policy does Putin have? I understand that he is the commander in chief. But everyone lies, everything is just without exception. Why do we shoot civilians, what's the point?

From a letter:

We ask ourselves, "Guys, where are our friends?" Where did their colleagues send them? ", We are told that they are there in some kind of underground boxes. I was there. There were a lot of ours, I say: "There are no underground boxes.

From a letter:

Lena, you started such a difficult business. One against this lie. Yesterday I read evil reviews addressed to you, and realized that I began to pray for you. I never prayed And the order came to us again, to collect volunteers from among the military. Well, not enough people already. Because everything that was more or less efficient was killed for a long time and now everyone is being dragged, cadets are being dragged. They send them to tanks, because they seem to have already trained on new tanks, and they at least understand what it is. Here they are dragged and unshot. And they are suckers yet. They say that under the Donetsk airport, some cadets died. And we are waiting for the list of those killed in the exercises. But a contract serviceman is one thing, but a cadet, he is in fact still a student!

From a letter:

Elena, I'd give you a Hero Star. This is necessary so, you are alone and went against the lies system. Today we sat in the cockpit discussing your group. One patched that you were paid by the State Department. Our officers soared. They almost filled his face. Burst through. We all understand that we are to blame for the attack on Ukraine. My country is Russia! And a bunch of ours really died there. And the television is lying so that the crack is already in the head. The headquarters is silent. Wives are already exhausted: terminate the contract. Helena! How to stop this?

And in response, the Russian repressive machine spun its counter-flywheel.

Chapter 3 The Invisible Social Media War

Meanwhile, our group of Facebook group admins, Russian journalists and bloggers drew attention to the sudden cessation of activity on VKontakte accounts owned by many Pskov and Ryazan paratroopers.

Blogger Viktor Kadochnikov noted that in a whole group of accounts that were previously actively updated, the last days of call were August 15 and 16. "One person came in on August 17th. Everything! After August 17, none of the list below appeared on the site. <...> Apparently, there was some kind of battle on August 15-16, and most of them are no longer alive," Kadochnikov wrote in LiveJournal.

As for personal accounts. Few people know, but a real invisible battle unfolded in social networks. The accounts of the dead guys were hacked. The options for action were different. Most accounts continued to operate, but if you look closely, from the moment we found such a person dead, the rhetoric, tastes, and passions in the host's account ribbon changed dramatically.

Even with the naked eye it was clear that the account of the deceased is being conducted by another person. Many accounts were deleted, but Google remembers everything. They opened the account mirrors, took screenshots. Other accounts quickly disappeared.

In a word, some kind of crazy game has begun: who will quickly find the deceased.

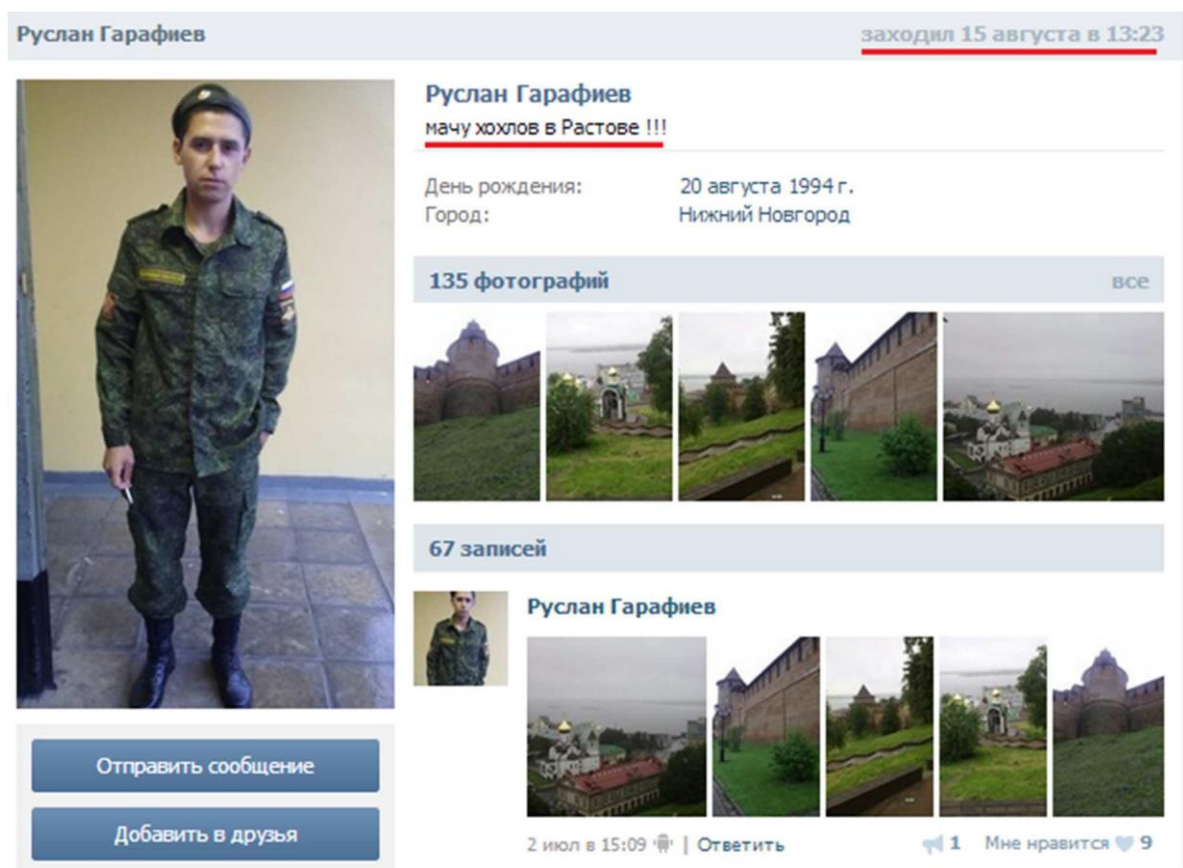

A lot of people were drawn into this silent war in search of truth, and, naturally, the administrators of our group from different countries masterly worked, monitoring the situation around the clock. And the "Cargo-200 from Ukraine to Russia" group, which was growing every day, was joined by volunteers from different parts of the world who joined this incredible search.

Naturally, the trolls, who periodically threw false information to us, did not doze off. We were mistaken, sometimes voiced the wrong names, corrected, and continued to search further.

This chapter provides some examples of accounts of dead paratroopers.

Garafiev Ruslan <https://vk.com/id139083949>

Pay attention to the status of “Machu Khokhlov - macho hohlov in Rastovo” (offensive expression “I kill Ukrainians”). With "geography" Ruslan was really not all right. Rostov now is a city in Russia. The last time Ruslan came to his VKontakte page on August 15, 2014. And then we received the news that he died in the Donbass. Ruslan served in the 1st parachute company of military unit 74268, the Pskov airborne division, and was killed on 08/20/14 near the village of Georgievka, near Lugansk. On the territory of Ukraine!

Subsequently, this account was simply deleted, but we managed to take a screenshot of it

The city of Ostrov is located in the Pskov region of Russia. And Dmitry Dolgov was killed in the Lugansk region of a foreign state while serving in the Russian army. And from the same military unit as Ruslan Garafiev. Dmitry Dolgov's account was subsequently also deleted. There were no references to his death in the Russian media.

Then I want to ask a question: why announce to the whole world that Russians are not abandoning their own? If we had not voiced the names of these dead children, then their bodies could have been lost in the vastness of Russia or eastern Ukraine.

The first parachute assault company of military unit 74268, was killed on 08/20/14 near the village of Georgievka, near Lugansk during the capture of the Lugansk airport. On the territory of Ukraine. And again the same military unit.

We know of two major clashes in which these paratroopers died. However, we were surprised to notice that the dates of death of many guys vary, as if they died on different days. In fact, these guys, as Boris Nemtsov wrote, fell under the fire of the Ivanovo paratroopers, and were killed by their own Russian military.

It was this truth that Boris Nemtsov wanted to convey to the Russian people, and it was this truth that was so dangerous for Commander-in-Chief Vladimir Putin. Therefore, this account soon disappeared from social networks, as well as the accounts of other dead Russian paratroopers.

On the page of Nikolai there were many photos. Map confirming the location of this soldier on the border with Ukraine. Judging by the geolocation data, Nikolai was photographed three times in these places. Like the previous paratroopers, Matviyets served in the 1st paratroop airborne company of the military unit 74268, and was killed on 08/20/14 near the village of Georgievka, in the battles for the Lugansk airport. In Ukraine!

The guy himself lived in Russia, in the city of Belgorod.

The first parachute-landing company of military unit 74268 was killed on 08/20/14 near the village of Georgievka, near the Lugansk airport - Ukraine.

Screenshots from social networks can be published ad infinitum. All these guys stopped logging into their accounts, they were all part of a single group that came under fire in the territory of Donbass, i.e. Ukraine. Another thing is important: a lot of people in social networks were involved in the operation to conceal the dead. To this day, any publications about the dead are immediately hidden, relatives of the dead are intimidated when they come to their home. The most disgusting blackmail is the fact that the parents were threatened not to return the body of the deceased if they talk about it.

Parents of such guys wrote to me under the nicknames of others, trying to find out at least something about their loved ones who stopped communicating.

At the same time, the administrators of Facebook itself several times closed our group "Cargo-200 from Ukraine to Russia", and only incredibly massive appeals to the owner of the social network Zuckerberg allowed the group to exist further.

And again the message: on August 31, 2014, the reconnaissance platoon of military unit No. 73612 Ulyanovsk came under crossfire. Almost all were injured. There were no identification marks. They finished off their own tanks, mortars and machine guns - mistook for the Ukrainians. (aren't the Ivanovo paratroopers?) Then they did not begin to collect them from the battlefield in a sunflower field. They are still there ... because the field is mined.

Here is another story. In January 2015, near Lugansk, near Bryanka, a truck was loaded with a shell with 30 Russian troops from Saratov. The explosion was powerful. Not only were there no living people, parts of the bodies could not be collected. An excavator arrived and ... all the remains were buried on the spot, forming a wild bloody mess!

07/09/2015, In the Novoazovsk area - the simultaneous loss of 39 Russian troops from a unit of the 16th Specialized Brigade (special squad of the GRU) "Dolphin".

Yes, they are not there!

Many people do not believe that there are a lot of losses from the Russian side. And this is so, because Russia does not deploy military field hospitals in the combat zone, and as you know, injuries sustained in battle are very specific. Doctors of civilian hospitals are simply not ready to provide qualified assistance to the wounded, and the hospitals of small Ukrainian towns in the occupied territories are not equipped with everything necessary. And very often they were broken by accidental hit by shells. After all, there are no Russian military in Ukraine!

For example, after the battles near Krymsky, all the wounded, as well as soldiers of the Russian Federation, were taken to a hospital in Slavyanoserbsk. There they provided the first, so to speak, medical assistance, they didn't keep any records - it's incomprehensible to the mind, animals in the veterinarian are even recorded by nicknames ... Then, if he survived, they sent him to the Lugansk hospital. At the same time, all 200s were taken immediately to Lugansk. There is a mobile crematorium in Medgorodok. According to eyewitnesses - there are a lot of dead.

Ukrainian journalists also helped establish the names of Russian soldiers killed in the occupied territories in eastern Ukraine.

Realizing that a terrible secret was hidden from Russians, the journalists tried to systematize the facts they knew. For example, Gordon published an investigation into the deaths of Russian paratroopers in Ukraine:

Despite the resonance, the Russian authorities stubbornly continue to overlook the tears of soldiers' mothers throughout the country. The Kremlin's official position is that there are no Russian troops in Ukraine, the soldiers who ended up on its territory simply got lost. Thus, Russian Foreign Minister Sergey Lavrov said that satellite photos proving the presence of Russian troops in Ukraine are just "images from computer games", and Russian presidential spokesman Dmitry Peskov limited himself to one sentence: "Information about the death of Russian paratroopers needs in detail check." More than a week has passed since Peskov's statement, but no one officially announced the results of the audit.

The GORDON publication decided to facilitate the work of the Russian authorities and gathered evidence of the presence of the military from the Russian Federation on the territory of Ukraine (it is worth noting that many regional media shoot material about the dead, and the pages of the military on social networks are quickly deleted). We systematized information by region and city where military units are stationed, whose soldiers were or are still in Ukraine. As it was found out, military operations from at least ten regions of Russia are taking part in the hostilities in the Donbas, and "cargo 200" arrived in the settlements of Pskov, Kostroma, Vladimir, Ryazan, Nizhny Novgorod, Orenburg, Astrakhan, Ulyanovsk, Irkutsk, Voronezh regions, as well as Dagestan, Tatarstan, Bashkiria, Mari El, the Republic of Komi and in two regions - Perm and Transbaikal.

On August 16, Timur Magsumov from Kazan announced on VKontakte about the death of his acquaintance, a 24-year-old officer from Tatarstan, Zakhar Timin. "He died in the performance of duties, due to the stupidity of our rulers, while being in Ukraine (as far as I know)," wrote Magsumov. He later deleted this message, but it can be seen in the cache.

The circumstances of the death of Timin are not exactly known. One of his acquaintances said that according to the official version, the military man died "in the line of duty" - in the territory of Chechnya during the counter-terrorist operation. "But no one will tell you the truth, because no one knows her," he added.

Judging by the photographs that Timin posted on his page on VKontakte, he was in the Crimea during his annexation by Russia in the spring of this year (now Timin's page is only available in cache) The military had a wife and a little daughter.

KOSTROMA REGION

98th Guards Airborne Division (Kostroma)

Losses: 3

On August 25, the SBU announced the detention of ten Kostroma paratroopers (military unit 71211) near Amvrosievka, Donetsk region: Sergei Arkhipov, Alexei Generalov, Andrey Goryashin, Ivan Melchakov, Artem Mitrofanov, Egor Pochtoev, Ivan Romantsev, Vladimir Savosteev, Sergey Smirmin and Art. According to the military, they arrived at the exercises in the Rostov Region on August 23, on the night of August 24 they were alerted and ordered to march as part of a convoy of several dozen BMDs.

“We traveled not along the road, but through the fields. I didn’t even see where we crossed the border,” Melchakov said during interrogation. According to him, I realized that I was in Ukraine when the convoy was "bombed."

One of the paratroopers, Kuzmin, a few days after the arrest was taken to the burn center of St. Petersburg (he was seriously injured during the shelling). The remaining nine Russians were initially transported to the Kiev pre-trial detention center, and on August 30 they were returned home. According to the National Security and Defense Council of Ukraine (NSDC), they were exchanged for 63 Ukrainian National Guard, who were in Russia.

The day after the detention of Kostroma in the Donbass, on August 26, the Russian Ministry of Defense admitted that the Russian military crossed the border with Ukraine, but stated that it had happened "by accident." Later, this version was also voiced by Vladimir Putin: they say that when the military patrolled the border, then, quite possibly, they entered the Ukrainian territory by mistake.

On August 27, the command of the 98th division reported that in the Donbass during the "accidental clash" with the Ukrainian army, two Kostroma paratroopers were killed. Their names were not named. At the same time, the media reported at least three Kostroma military personnel who died in Ukraine. So, on August 29, the editor-in-chief of the Kostroma Main Portal publication, Kirill Rubankov, announced on Facebook that one of the victims of the Kostroma paratrooper in the Donbass is Andrei Pilipchuk, he was 23 years old.

According to Rubankov, the paratrooper was buried on August 29 in his native village of Shushkodom, Buisky district, Kostroma region. No details about the death of Pilipchuk could be clarified.

В κ In a comment to Dozhd TV channel, Seles bride, Elena Mukhina, said that the last time he got in touch was on August 22, he said that he and his colleagues were dressed in a field uniform, all the identification marks on the equipment were painted with green paint and sent to the Rostov Region. Seleznev died on August 25.

According to the official version, Sergey Seleznev got into the tank during the exercises

In contact with

Military Commissioner of the Vladimir Region Yuri Karmanov told progorod33.ru, he also confirmed that the soldier was killed during exercises in the Rostov Region, and a shell allegedly got into his tank. The commissioner told the publication that death is "ordinary" and has nothing to do with events in Ukraine.

“Of course, I understand perfectly well that the situation is unusual for relatives and the media. But this is a simple misfortune. For us, sorry for the expression, this is just work. Such cases are not rare in exercises,” Karmanov noted.

In early August, Seleznev made Mukhina, who is in the second month of pregnancy, an offer. In mid-September, the couple was about to get married.

On September 4, state-owned Russian television channels NTV and Channel One reported (for the first time!) That 28-year-old Anatoly Travkin was buried in Kostroma. According to them, he died in Ukraine (when, it was not specified), where he allegedly spent a month in the status of "volunteer".

"The command of his unit emphasizes: in order to leave for the combat zone, Anatoly took a vacation," Channel One reported. NTV said that in the Donbass, Travkin "defended ordinary people like him from nationalists." According to St. Petersburg's Channel 5, "he died like a hero, saving an unknown family in the Lugansk People's Republic."

Travkin's wife, Marina, remained: they played a wedding earlier this summer. "My dear husband, we remember, love, grieve! We are proud of you! Eternal memory to you. You are a hero and forever in our hearts!" She wrote on VKontakte.

At the same time, the acting military commissar of the Orenburg region Tynchbek Karymbaev told Oren-TV that they received information that Ganin died on August 26 "during exercises outside the permanent deployment center." “We are a military organization: we don’t ask too many questions, and they don’t tell us too much. Everything that is needed for social guarantees has been written,” Karymbaev said.

The Orenburg news agency reported on September 4 that it had found relatives of the deceased, but they declined to comment. Later, the note on the agency’s website disappeared, now it is available only in the cache.

On September 5, the board member of the Komi Memorial human rights commission, Ernest Mezak, reported on Facebook about the death of the Pskov paratrooper, a native of the village of Podcherye, Vuktylsky District of the Komi Republic Maxim Mezentsev. “The father did not live to see his daughter’s birthday. On September 2, Sergei Belykh from Izhevsk, who serves in the peacekeeping forces in Roshchinsky (military unit 90600), posted several photos from Ukraine on VKontakte, signing them “On a business trip!”. Judging by the geotag, the military man is in the Lugansk region: he took two photographs in Krasnodon, and another in Panteleevka. Belykh is not responding to the numerous unpleasant comments of Ukrainians; he still has not deleted photos.

In mid-August, Izhevsk citizen took photographs on the border with Ukraine - in the Voronezh region of the Russian Federation.

In April, he was awarded the medal "For the Return of Crimea."

On September 5, Russian media, including federal ones, reported that 25-year-old Nikolai Sharaborin was buried in the village of Gorny, the Uletovsky district of the Trans-Baikal Territory.

Presumably, he served in the 247th Guards Airborne Assault Caucasus Cossack Regiment (deployed in Stavropol).

In a commentary on Chita.Ru, the head of the administration of the village of Gorny, Alexander Zheleztssov, said that Sharaborin was in the Rostov Region at the time of his death. "As they told me at the military registration and enlistment office, he died during the explosion of a shell flying over the border from Ukraine," said Zheleztssov. The publication reported that since September 4, the military has tightened entry into the village.

Versions about the causes of the death of Nikolai Sharaborin vary. At the same time, the state television channel Chita reported that Sharaborin was killed in Donetsk "in battles with punishers." According to him, he allegedly got to the Donbass back in May, where he joined the "militia".

However, in social networks, the military's relatives write that at the time of his death he was "in the line of duty"

"in the performance of duties of military service" on August 25. Where exactly - the report received by the Bashvoenkomat is not indicated. On August 28, the message "Eternal memory, our friend and brother. Our fellow countryman Ilnur Kilchinbaev died a heroic death while protecting civilians in Ukraine." May you rest in peace! To date, the message from the wall of the group has been deleted, but it can be seen in the reposts.

Judging by the information on the page of Kilchinbaev's wife Ilsa Ilnurovskaya on VKontakte, the military was present in Crimea this spring. On June 9, she published a photo of the article "Defenders of the Crimea - among us", in which it was reported that Kilchinbaev was awarded the medal of the Ministry of Defense of the Russian Federation "For the Return of Crimea".

On the same day, August 25, another Ulyanovsk paratrooper was killed - 22-year-old orphan Alexander Belozarov. His body was delivered to the native village of New Maina (Ulyanovsk Region) four days later - on August 29. Relatives refuse to comment, at a stand at a local school No. 2, where Belozarov studied, it is indicated that he died "in the performance of military duty." According to the publication Ulnovosti.ru, Belozarov came under mortar fire, "lost" in Ukrainian territory. He left a pregnant bride. Captain Nikolai Bushin from Ulyanovsk (military unit 73612) died on August 26. The exact place of death is still unknown. Bushin's friends reported on VKontakte that he died "defending the borders of his homeland," but later these messages disappeared. It is known that the deceased left his wife and little daughter. Bushin's colleagues immediately after the news of the death organized an online fundraising for his family, but a few days later the information on bank details was deleted.

On August 28, in Ilovaisk, Donetsk region, the Ukrainian anti-terrorist operation forces detained two Ulyanovsk paratroopers (military unit 73612) - Arseniy Ilmitova (senior sergeant, sniper) and Ruslan Akhmetov (junior sergeant, unit commander). The military told reporters that they were training in the Rostov region.

"At night we drove in a convoy and ended up at the border in the morning. Then we drove into the territory of Ukraine. When we came under fire, we realized that this was not a training exercise," Akhmetov said.

On September 2, Muscovite Sergei Kozlov reported on Facebook that his nephew Nikolai Kozlov, who served in Ulyanovsk (military unit 73612), was brought to a Moscow hospital. "He is now legless disabled for the rest of his life," wrote Kozlov. According to him, the paratrooper was wounded "somewhere in Ukraine"

At the same time, the victim's father Vsevolod Kozlov told Ekho Moskvyy that he was proud of his son who "did not shy away" from the army and carried out the order. "He is a soldier. He took the oath and honestly carried out the order. And he didn't run away, and didn't get scared, like yours there ... these "monkeys" are those for whom you stand up all the time. Clear? He did not run there and did not ask anyone for help. I am proud of him, "said Kozlov. According to him, he does not know where his son was at the time of the wound, but he assumes that he is" on the border. "

Nikolai Kozlov, judging by his photographs on VKontakte, participated in the annexation of Crimea by Russia. In some pictures taken this spring on the peninsula, he was photographed in a military uniform "Bercut".

Just a little more than a month ago, on August 1, 2014, Kozlov played a wedding. He married in military uniform with the medal "For the Return of Crimea" on his chest.

Nikolai and Vsevolod Kozlov have already deleted their pages on VKontakte.

But Sergei Kozlov said on Facebook that after the incident, he had an argument with his brother Vsevolod. "Today I had a hard conversation with my brother. He is absolutely sure that his son was fighting fascism. I don't know what to do. The whole country is sick," he said.

The Ulyanovsk military, as follows from their pages on social networks, is still in Ukraine. So, on September 2, the paratrooper Timur Isakov posted on VKontakte a photo taken near the village of Chervonoselskoye, Amvrosievsky District, Donetsk Region. He later deleted his account, but remained in the cache. In addition, photographer Vlad Sodel posted a screenshot of Isakov's Facebook page.

“We went to the Rostov Region for identification, and under our own power. At first they didn’t tell us anything. We didn’t even know that he died on the 12th, we heard on the 14th,” military mother Venera Araptanova told the Russian TV channel Dozhd.

The certificate of death of Araptanov says that he died "at the temporary location of military unit 65384", where exactly - is not specified. However, according to the mother, this happened in the Donbass: "He didn’t die on our territory, we, as we heard, they entered the territory of Ukraine."

Salavat Ismagilov, a neighbor of the deceased, told the channel that the funeral was held according to Muslim rites: for this, he had to remove the body from the zinc coffin, wash it and wrap it in gauze. At the opening of the coffin, it turned out that the body does not have a head. Parents identified their son by scars and moles.

On August 31, a 22-year-old contractor Vadim Larionov was buried in Bratsk (Irkutsk Oblast) (presumably, he served in the Shali military unit 65384). According to official information, the military was killed "in the line of duty" in the Rostov region.

In an interview with the publication "Russian Planet", the contractor's parents said that his unit was sent to the border with Ukraine at the end of July. "He just called us from there, from the Rostov region, and not from his phone. And it was heard that they shot from behind. This is our last conversation with him. Mother asks:" What kind of roar is there? " "Yes, it's Grad's shooting," said the father of the deceased Alexander Larionov.

According to official information, Vadim Larionov died "in the line of duty" in the Rostov region. Photo: Vadim Larionov / VKontakte

The officer who brought the body of Larionov to Bratsk, on condition of anonymity, told the newspaper that the military man died 200-300 meters from the border, not having time to hide in the trench: "We set up, stood for three days. No shots, no mortar shelling, silence. And there the heat is terrible, up to 45 degrees. It's hot for the naked one, but in military uniform, and even in body armor - you understand ... And then the shells began to burst, we immediately went into the trenches. And Vadim got a shrapnel wound. ".

On August 30, a message appeared on the Irkutsk forum that the 27-year-old contractor Innokenty Ivanov was buried in Bakhtay, Alar district of the Irkutsk region (presumably, he served in the Shali military unit 65384). "Not married, from a simple Buryat family, killed on the border with Ukraine.

The second victim was taken to Bratsk (most likely, this is about Vadim Larionov.) ", - said the user with the nickname Ivan Maximovich. According to him, the military either was blown up by a mine, or was fired from Grad.

Information about the death of Ivanov was confirmed by his niece Victoria Perevalova. According to her, the soldier died on August 21 from a head wound.

September 3, Russian journalist Oleg Kashin on his page in Facebook, referring to the information of reserve colonel and expert of the Astrakhan "Committee of Soldiers' Mothers" Anatoly Salin, reported the death of 29-year-old Konstantin Kuzmin from the village of Ikryanoye, Astrakhan Region (served in Shali).

Officially, "at the training ground of the Rostov region," where they were training, according to the "Committee of Soldiers' Mothers" of the Stavropol Territory, in Snezhnoy city Donetsk Region, where the column of Russian military was allegedly "covered by Grad." First, human rights activists, citing the Russian law "On personal data, "refused to publish the names of the victims, only specified that" most of them are natives of the Republic of Dagestan. "But later they transmitted the list (in it - rank-and-file intelligence officers and one officer, group commander) to the Dozhd channel, this is: Rakhman Dargiev, Khizir I Brahimov, Magomed Midaev, Vladimir Fedorov, Arbi Misirbaev, Ibrahim Zakayev, Mayrabek Makhmatkhanov, Abdulhakim Aliyev and Ismail Nazirov.

According to Lyudmila Bogatenkova, Chairperson of the Committee of Soldiers' Mothers of the Stavropol Territory, Gazete.Ru, on August 11, two more people from military unit 27777 died - the commander of a repair company, 27-year-old senior lieutenant Evgeny Pilipenko and the head of engineering, 38-year-old lieutenant colonel Yuri Peshkov.

According to the Dagestani publication "Draft", in August at least seven soldiers were buried in different regions of Dagestan (most of all: five in the village of Nizhny Kazanishche, Buinaksk region), who died in Ukraine.

At the same time, the publication "Caucasian Politics", referring to its source, wrote that the contractors, whose bodies were brought to Dagestan, are not related to the nine dead from the list of human rights defenders. "I saw the lists. There are not Dagestan surnames there, but Chechen and Ingush ones. I think that the guys who were buried in Dagestan also died in Ukraine, but these are other people," the source said.

On August 13, another contractor from military unit 27777, Anton Tumanov, born in 1993, was killed near Snezhny. According to his mother, Novaya Gazeta, his mother, Elena Tumanova, was forced to join the army under the contract of her son: his native Kozmodemyansk (Mari El Republic) does not have work, and 30-40 thousand a month are paid in the army. The column in which he was, according to relatives, was fired from Grad. Photo: Anton Tumanov / VKontakte

On July 11, Tumanov arrived in the Rostov Region; on August 10, he told his family that he was being sent to Donetsk. "They sent to help the militias. Don't worry, everything will be OK!" He said to his mother. The bride, Nastya Chernova, specified that there will be two or three months in Ukraine, possibly until November. Tumanov's colleagues told his mother that on August 12 a convoy of 1,200 people entered Ukraine, the next day they were fired at from Grad near Snezhnoye.

"The boys said that out of 1200 people, 120 were killed, 450 injured," Tumanova said. According to her, the body of her son, without legs, was brought on August 20 in a closed coffin.

The fact that the 18th motorized rifle brigade is fighting in the Donbass was announced in early June by the editor-in-chief of the Ukrainian publication Censor.NET Yuriy Butusov. According to him, on June 13 a vegetable warehouse in the Dobropolie of the Donetsk region was fired upon by the military from the Grad installations. The Information Resistance group also confirmed information about the Russian “Grad” discovered near Dobropillya with documents from

Chapter 4 Deputies included in the investigation

Information about the dead paratroopers alarmed the blogosphere. The Yabloko party in Russia also took up its investigation. Back in July 2014, I spoke with Mitrokhin about fixing losses, and he asked: how can we help?

- Connect your deputies, at least they have immunity.

During the hostilities in Ukraine, the 1st company of the 76th Pskov Airborne Division was almost completely destroyed. This is stated in the new issue of the newspaper "Pskov Province", which appeared on the network on September 2, 2014.

At the disposal of the publication were records of talks of active servicemen of the 76th division, which, on condition of anonymity, were transferred to the publisher of the "Pskov Province" deputy Lev Schlossberg. A copy of the text is posted on his blog.

“There is no reason to doubt the authenticity of the materials provided,” says the beginning of the article.

As follows from the transcript of the conversation, on August 16 the company was thrown across the border with Ukraine. On August 20, on foreign territory, paratroopers destroyed the Ukrainian checkpoint and a group of armored vehicles. However, then at the village of Georgievka the company was covered by a massive artillery strike. One of the interlocutors explained this by the fact that in the war zone there is an “American brigade” of electronic warfare (EW).

From the conversation it follows that out of the entire first company of 80 people, about ten fighters survived, the rest died. Among the dead was Leonid Kichatkin, whose grave was discovered in a cemetery near Pskov on August 25. The interlocutors also suggested that up to 140 paratroopers could die, since this is not about regular, but about specially equipped units.

Earlier, Schlosberg told the publication “Kashin.Guru” that the families of the dead Pskov paratroopers were silenced about the death of relatives, blackmailing them with deprivation of material support.

“Our paratroopers are sent to commit crimes in the territory of another state. Do you know what they write in the death certificate? “Household gas explosion”, “heart attack”, “stroke”. Where the place of death should be indicated is a dash. Formally, according to such documents, it is impossible for the family to receive any allowances and benefits,” said Schlossberg in particular.

He also talked about one of the fighters, who is in a hospital in the Rostov region:

“His mother writes on her page:“ Journalists are scum, ““ all this was invented, ”and her son is“ alive and well. ” At the same time, he has monstrous blood loss in the hospital, his leg is amputated. I don’t exclude that in social networks access to these accounts - mothers, wives - was simply ordered into the wrong hands and ordered to be forgotten. ”

On August 25, the Pskov Province published material on the funeral of soldiers of the Pskov Airborne Division who died under circumstances unknown then. In particular, photographs of the graves of paratroopers Leonid Kichatkin and Alexander Osipov were published.

After a group of paratroopers from Kostroma were captured on Ukrainian territory, the Russian Defense Ministry suggested that they patrolled the border and got lost.

Russian human rights defenders have also come to help us all. Everyone understood that a real war had begun between our countries, and normal people wanted to stop it in all ways. They sent an appeal to the Ukrainian people (<http://www.khpg.org/ru/index.php?id=1409231712>):

Dear sisters and brothers!

At this terrible moment, we are turning to you with heartache.

The ruling regime in Russia crossed the last moral frontier and, without declaring war, began military operations in Ukraine. In early March, the Russian army occupied Crimea, and now it is trying to capture the southeast of your country. At the same time, special units of the Russian army, which is shameful for the military of any country, hide their nationality and their faces and act as "green men." This is a shame for Russia, a shame for our army. The Russian army never dishonored itself, hiding behind civilians. A Russian warrior would not do that now, but the regime pushed him to commit a crime against his brother and against his own honor.

We are well aware that Yanukovych who ruled Ukraine over the past few years, having come from the east of Ukraine himself, would never have oppressed the tribesmen of Donbass, Kharkov and Crimea more than Ukrainians in the western part of your country. He and his predecessors oppressed all citizens, robbing them and transforming Europe's richest country into a country of poor and disenfranchised people, often forced to look for a piece of bread abroad. We also perfectly understand that the current government of Ukraine, recognized by almost the entire international community, has nothing to do with either fascism or Nazism. We are clearly aware that Ukraine, one of the countries formed after the collapse of the USSR, did not seize an inch of land beyond the borders confirmed by international and interstate treaties, the borders inherited from the USSR. The current Russian Federation is by no means the only heir to our former common country of Russia. The land of Sevastopol, Crimea, Donbass, as well as the land of any other part of historical Russia, is then watered with the blood of all the peoples of our former common homeland, because everyone protected it and everyone worked on it, rejoiced and suffered. The words spoken by Mr. Putin about the reunification of Crimea with Russia are nothing more than a false agitation. You can also declare the reunification of Kazakhstan and Kyrgyzstan with Russia, because until 1936 they were part of the RSFSR, and Finland and Poland, because until 1917 they were part of the Russian state.

Now, treacherously violating all these and many other international treaties, trampling its own signature under them, the Russian Federation, or rather, the regime that seized power in it, mockingly commits aggression against you, Ukrainians, the people closest and fraternal to us, arrogantly demands from you accepting one form or another of the state system, your review of your constitution, your laws. These actions of our government are disgusting to us, we suffer from the shame in which they plunge our homeland in the face of the entire world community. We recognize that we are becoming a rogue country, with all the economic and political consequences arising from this unfortunate situation.

We are in your fair fight!

Lyudmila Alekseeva, Andrey Zubov, Mikhail Kasyanov, Georgy Satarov, Lilia Shevtsova.

On the evening of August 29, 2014, Leo Schlosberg was attacked. As a result, the deputy received a concussion, a broken nose, a hematoma on the face

генералу армии
С. К. ШОЙГУ

Уважаемый Сергей Кужугетович!

В мой адрес поступают многочисленные обращения граждан, политических и общественных организаций, которые обеспокоены слухами, касающимися действий российских военнослужащих на территории Украины.

В частности, ко мне поступило обращение от российской политической партии «РПР-ПАРНАС», в котором обозначен ряд вопросов общественности к Министерству обороны РФ по вышеуказанной ситуации.

Как следует из обращения, в многочисленных СМИ появилась информация о наличии погибших среди военнослужащих 76-й Черниговской дивизии Воздушно-десантных войск. В частности, опубликованы фамилии погибших, фотографии их могил, а также данные о том, что оказание семьям погибших материальной помощи ставится в зависимость от подписки о неразглашении, которую командование берет с жен и родителей военнослужащих.

Заявитель также обращает внимание на сообщения украинских СМИ о задержании на территории Украины десяти военнослужащих 98-й Свирской дивизии ВДВ. В сети Интернет в свободном доступе опубликованы видеозаписи их допросов.

Как следует из обращения, Комитет солдатских матерей составил список из четырехсот раненых и убитых на территории Украины российских военнослужащих. По информации членов Совета при Президенте России по развитию гражданского общества и правам человека Эллы Поляковой и Сергея Кривенко, российские солдаты погибли 13 августа неподалеку от города Снежное Донецкой области. По их данным, помимо погибших, под Снежным пострадали еще примерно 300 российских военнослужащих.

В то же время в обращении отмечается, что Министерство обороны РФ никак не опровергает и не комментирует вышеперечисленные факты, что, с учётом широкого общественного резонанса вокруг данных событий, вызывает у граждан обеспокоенность и ощущение, что эта информация может соответствовать действительности.

В этой связи прошу Вас, уважаемый Сергей Кужугетович, дать поручение направить в мой адрес информацию по следующим поступающим в мой адрес вопросам:

1. Действительно ли сейчас российские военнослужащие участвуют в операциях по ту сторону российско-украинской границы?
2. Сколько действующих или бывших бойцов указанных в обращении подразделений погибли или были ранены на территории Украины в последние недели?
3. Леонид Кичаткин, Александр Осипов, Никита Цепляев, Максим Полянин, Руслан Бычков, Николай Матвеев, Дмитрий Долгов, Игорь Кочков, Никита Сурначев, Илья Максимов, Владимир Рыбаков, Николай Крыгин, Константин Таборовец, Андрей Лукьянов, Марсель Сулейманов, Иван Ткаченко, Александр Безбабных, Вагит Шашуев, Игорь Кочетов, Рустам Насиев, Виктор Толстых, Максим Белоусов, Леонид Супрун, Владимир Рыбаков, Геннадий Мурзин, Руслан Кондратеев, Роман Москалёв, Илья Кухта, Рамир Исламгизин, Максим Суразаков, Дмитрий Жнакин, Сергей Архипов, Андрей Горяшин, Иван Мельчаков, Егор Почтов, Алексей Генералов, Владимир Савастеев, Иван Романцев, Артём Митрофанов, — есть ли люди с такими именами среди действующих военнослужащих российских вооружённых сил или среди тех, кто служил в ней и недавно уволился?
4. Действительно ли родственники погибших или умерших бойцов получают материальную помощь от государства в обмен на обещание молчать?
5. За что 76-я дивизия была награждена орденом Суворова?

Депутат Государственной Думы ФС РФ  Д.Г. Гудков and body. Schlossberg himself associated the incident with an investigation into the death of Pskov paratroopers.

At the same time, Dmitry Gudkov, a State Duma deputy from the Just Russia party, also a member of the Cargo-200 from Ukraine to Russia group, sends a request to the Russian Prosecutor General's Office, tries to go to the central television channels of Russia with the desire to draw the attention of citizens to the situation in the east Ukraine. Propaganda is increasing its pressure on the minds of those who watch the first channels of Russian television..

On the same day, August 29, 2014, Boris Nemtsov, on the Echo of Moscow, addresses the Russian military in the article “To the soldiers of the armed forces of Russia”

http://echo.msk.ru/blog/nemtsov_boris/1389578-echo/:

At any moment you can be sent (and some have already been sent) to fight with Ukraine.

Putin, as the Supreme Commander-in-Chief, is well aware that the participation of the armed forces in hostilities in eastern Ukraine is illegal. He has no mandate for war, no permission of the Federation Council to use the armed forces abroad.

That is why you are fighting without insignia, your vehicles are smeared on identification marks.

That is why he is lying that you got lost in the Lugansk and Donetsk regions. That is why your comrades from the 76th Airborne Division of Leonid Kichatkin and Alexander Osipov are secretly buried in the Pskov cemetery, and their relatives are scared that if they tell the truth, they will be left without benefits.

Precisely because your participation in the war is illegal, you and your relatives are powerless.

Putin and the commanders will deny you at any second, say that they did not send you to the war, and your relatives will never find the truth if something happens to you.

You took the oath to defend the homeland from enemies, and not to fight with the fraternal, Orthodox Ukrainian people.

The war with Ukraine is a crime that has no statute of limitations. This war is in the hands of the enemies of Russia. This is not your war. This is not our war. This is Putin's war for his power and money. This is the war of his billionaire friends Rotenberg, Timchenko, Yakunin for their enrichment.

Remember, you are fighting and dying for them, not for Russia!

And at this time, the administrators of our group continue to record all new losses. The situation is complicated by the fact that many dead responded to their callsigns. And since the Russian military loves to play dressing up, establish their identity, last name, a person's name becomes almost impossible. Only avaricious mentions of friends on social networks make it possible to collect bit by bit data on a particular Russian killed in a battle.

In addition to the military, many civilians came to the Donbass with guns, attracted by the stories that a "safari" in the Donbass can earn a lot of money a month. Being recruited, volunteers are brought to the Rostov Region, where they undergo an accelerated training course, and then, leaving all their personal belongings, receive military uniforms and are sent to Ukraine already under the call signs. Without documents and any identification marks.

Therefore, we decided to make a separate column in the lists of the dead: "With incomplete data." Looking ahead, we can say that over the year we were able to find more than 40 names of those who were on our list of cargo 200 under the callsign.

Among them were many Russian troops. But, unfortunately, such a naming is extremely difficult to this day.

The answer of the prosecutor general's office came strictly a month later and seriously puzzled MP Gudkov, about which he wrote in his LiveJournal:

right away, since the request is it's socially significant in nature and it's impossible to imagine that a detailed answer wasn't given to him, "the deputy said.

"There are signs of a serious criminal offense. To conduct an inquiry against military personnel who are not currently known, it is obvious that they are high-ranking officials, the actions of the military prosecutor's office are necessary. This request contains names, dates of life of 12 people - these are all people, whose death we have no reason to doubt. The list itself is at our disposal and compiled with the help of many people who are now trying to help find this sad truth. It is much wider. Their fact of death is legally established, there are grounds for a request to the chief military prosecutor about all the circumstances of their death "

(<http://lev-shlosberg.livejournal.com/827033.html>)

Suddenly, the prosecutor's office confirms that 12 Russian troops who served in military units located in the city of Pskov did indeed die. The second thing that was indicated was that they died outside the place of the permanent deployment of military units.

And Leo Shlosberg published the response of the Prosecutor General to a request for Pskov paratroopers who died in July – September 2014.
(<http://slon.ru/fast/russia/shlosberg-opublikoval-otvet-genprokuratury-na-zapros-o-pskovskikh-desantnikakh-1182368.xhtml>) :

The letter says that the circumstances of the deaths of the military personnel are established, the proper expert examinations were carried out by “highly qualified specialists”, and no violations of the law were revealed by the military prosecution authorities. Families of the victims receive social support in each case, according to the document.

“The movement of troops from places of permanent deployment is carried out and the exercises are done also in accordance with orders of military command and control officers,” the Prosecutor General's letter said. Disclosure of other requested information is impossible, as they constitute a state secret.

It is said that all the circumstances of the death were established, but these circumstances were not disclosed in the answer, but it is said that they were carried out by highly professional forensic experts.

It is also said that at the moment there is a check in the framework of the Code of Criminal Procedure on the fact of their death and, accordingly, this check will end either with a decision to institute criminal cases or with a refusal.

At the same time, it is indicated that the families of all military personnel receive appropriate allowances, which are established by Russian legislation, and moreover, the main military prosecutor's office established control over these payments.

The second part of the answer says that the answer to the questions about the persons who gave the orders, about the content of these orders, about the legality of these orders cannot be answered in connection with the RF law on state secrets. It is said at the same time that the main military prosecutor's office does not consider in these orders, in these decisions, military violations of Russian law and does not see measures to take the prosecutor's response.

- Understanding the system of Russian power and the law enforcement system that is part of it, this answer says a lot. There is no lies in this answer. There are solutions there with which I do not agree, Schlossberg states. - I have assumptions that the relatives of the victims, each specific family knows where their loved one died, I am sure of this. Not the fact that they have in their hands the relevant documents, which legally can be proof of the place of death and circumstances of the death. I assure you, if benefits are prescribed in the family of the deceased in connection with the death of a military serviceman, that is, the relevant articles of the law on military duty of military service are orders to decide a government decree, where all this is argued. That is, people understand the circumstances of the death of their loved one, but the Russian authorities do not want to betray these circumstances to the deputy through answers to the deputy for the general public, and this answer confirmed this position.

I can only say that in my opinion, there are substantially more deaths than 12 people. In a request dated September 16, 12 names of those servicemen were indicated, for which we have absolutely reliable information from several sources that they died, and in almost all but a few cases we knew the exact place of burial. We understood that this request did not indicate any survivors who simply did not contact due to the lack of a mobile phone. I was sure that, unfortunately, all these people died.

As part of this answer, there is information about the inquiry into the Criminal Procedure Code, and I will make another request to the main military prosecutor's office, about a month later, and I will request data from these checks whether the guilty persons were found or whether criminal cases were opened.

Despite the requests of the deputies, the Russian military department officially categorically denies the names and the number of dead soldiers in the territory of Donbass. Since recognizing these actions means recognizing that Russia has invaded the territory of Ukraine, and is conducting active hostilities, showing its aggression.

At the same time, the Ukrainian military, released from captivity near Donetsk, said that they were captured by Russian soldiers

(<http://newsru.com/russia/29sep2014/minobr.html#1>)

A military man from the 93rd brigade of the Ukrainian army who introduced himself as Alexei Koshelenko said: "On August 24-25, when the Russian troops entered, we hit a boiler in Ilovaysk." We were bombarded with Grad, and then the troops simply dared. In 20 minutes, they completely destroyed everything. Many died, many went missing. "

According to him, the troops were Russian. "They said that they were from the air assault battalion from Kostroma," the Ukrainian soldier said.

Another captured Ukrainian, Andrei Krupa, said that on the road north of Donetsk, his 51st mechanized brigade was fired on in the same battle. According to him, he was captured at 11 a.m. on August 25, 20 kilometers south of Ilovaysk. "They were Russian soldiers - soldiers from Kostroma, paratroopers," the military said.

Maxim Solopov, a RBC journalist, made his attempt to analyze the location of Russian troops on the territory of Ukraine and found five military units that were in the Donbass:

- In the official version that paratroopers died during exercises in the Rostov region, and only volunteers went to Donbass, there were many flaws, the journalist writes. It also turned out that it was during the alleged participation of Russian troops in the conflict that the state media started talking about the influx of volunteers into the Donbass.

“I lit candles for those who suffered and gave their lives protecting people in Novorossia,” Vladimir Putin said on September 11, leaving the Church of the Life-Giving Trinity on the Sparrow Hills in Moscow. The president did not mean the Russian military, explains RBC Putin’s words to his press secretary Dmitry Peskov: “Russian troops were not there.”

Who were those soldiers and officers who returned from Ukraine dead and alive, how many were there, why, finally, at least three of them are missing?

Ulyanovsk paratroopers

On August 28, Yegor Vorobyev, correspondent of the Ukrainian Espresso-TV channel, published a story on the network about captured soldiers of the 31st Separate Airborne Assault Brigade of the Russian Airborne Forces deployed in Ulyanovsk. On the record, the paratroopers Ruslan Akhmetov and Arseniy Ilmitov told how they arrived for exercises in the Rostov region, and the next day ended up in Ukraine. “The cartridges were issued at the border,” says Akhmetov in the frame. Only after the first shelling, the paratrooper continues, he realized that there is no teaching around.

The video was recorded in the village of Mnogopol near Ilovaisk south-east of Donetsk, where soldiers of the Ukrainian armed forces and the volunteer battalions of the Ukrainian Ministry of Internal Affairs Dnestr-1 and Donbass were surrounded. “We are in an improvised hospital, in the building of a local school, here they are treating one of the fighters of the Russian army who was burned up in the BMD [landing assault vehicle],” the Ukrainian journalist concludes the story..

Two days later, he himself was captured, the reporter has not yet arrived home, Vorobyov's wife Elena Solodovnikova tells RBC.

Apparently, Ilmitov and Akhmetov did not return from the war. Familiar Ulyanovsk paratroopers from social networks at the request of RBC identified them in the plot of a Ukrainian journalist. There is no fresh information in the accounts of the fighters themselves. Relatives of Ilmitov and Akhmetov's wife did not speak with RBC.

Combat "Dnepr-1" Yuri Bereza confirmed to RBC that Ilmitov and Akhmetov were captured by his fighters during the battles at Mnogopol in the 20th of August. “I personally negotiated with their commander, the call sign“ Maple, ”said Birch. According to Bereza, along with the paratroopers videotaped, up to 20 Russian soldiers were in the hands of the Ukrainian military in the area. The Ukrainian officer knows that the detainees are serving in the Russian army only from the words of the prisoners themselves: they did not have any documents, the data recorded during interrogations were lost during the breakthrough from the encirclement.

“I gave the officer the floor that if we were allowed to go out, we would give the prisoners back.

There was one Russian prisoner in each car, ”says Birch. However, on August 29 near the village of Novokaterinovka, a fire was opened on the column. “The car with them (Ilmitov and Akhmetov) was shot before my eyes,” the battalion commander says.

The 31st Separate Guards Airborne Assault Brigade is deployed in the Ulyanovsk Region. The Ulyanovsk paratroopers took part in establishing constitutional order on the territory of Chechnya. Since 2005, the team has been fully transferred to the contract picking system.

According to scattered information, the 31st Special Forces Detachment lost at least two more contract soldiers.

The Bashinform Agency at the Bashkir Military Commissariat confirmed the death of 28-year-old Private Ilnur Kilchinbaev from the village of Almyasovo, Kugarchinsky District. About Alexander Belozarov from the village of New Main, Melekessky district, Ulyanovsk region, a short story was shot on local television. Both at the end of August left for exercises in the Rostov region, both, according to the information available to relatives, died on August 25. “Our fellow countryman Ilnur Kilchinbaev died a heroic death during the protection of civilians in Ukraine,” said a message that was deleted, but in a cache, on the page of the community of the Kugarchinsky district. “Died in the performance of military duty,” – succinctly written on a mourning stand at the school where Belozarov studied.

The accounts of both of them have already been deleted from the VKontakte social network, Kilchinbaev’s wife didn’t talk to reporters, and Belozarov’s relatives could not be found.

Kostroma paratroopers

The first dead contractor from this unit, which became known, was Sergei Seleznev, who was buried on September 2 in Vladimir.

A resident of the city of Vladimir Elena Mukhina wrote that her fiancé, a military man, Sergei Seleznev, was gone. The last time they met on August 2, 2014, the young man made a proposal to the girl. The bride admitted that she was expecting a baby.

After that, according to the girl, Sergey left for the military unit 71211 of the city of Kostroma (98th Guards Airborne Division, 331st Guards Airborne Forces). The last time he called Elena on August 22.

"As Mukhina said, the serviceman's friends contacted him, and he said that he and his colleagues were dressed in a field uniform, all the identification marks on the equipment were covered with green paint and sent to the Rostov Region," - TV channel "Dozhd" reports

On August 28, the military enlistment office, where the agitated girl turned, was informed that Sergei Seleznev had died, but had not been issued any documents. There is no body of the deceased. Relatives are searching for hospitals and morgues in the Rostov region, but so far to no avail.

A representative of the military registration and enlistment office told the local Pro City newspaper that the soldier was killed during exercises in the Rostov Region.

Presumably at the same time, contractor from Bratsk Vadim Larionov died. The body of a 22-year-old soldier was delivered to relatives.

The circumstances of the death of another paratrooper - Andrei Pilipchuk from the Kostroma region - remained unclear. The relatives and friends of the deceased reported his death on pages on social networks, but later all information was deleted by them. The editor of the "Main portal of Kostroma" Kirill Rubankov claims that a relative of Pilipchuk confirmed to him the fact of the funeral of the paratrooper. She refused to communicate with the media.

The administration of the Kostroma cemetery spoke about the burial of the three dead "in Ukraine" Kostroma military. Three "fresh graves" appeared one after another on the "Afghan Alley", where, according to tradition, the dead were buried in hot spots. Judging by the tombstones, 26-year-old Sergei Gerasimov, 32-year-old Alexei Kasyanov and 27-year-old Evgeni Kamenev died on August 24, 25 and September 3.

The wife of one of Gerasimov's colleagues told RBC that the young man served under contract in the reconnaissance platoon of the 331rd regiment. She herself is still waiting for her husband to return from the Rostov region. "They say:" Yes, we were in Ukraine. " According to her, the husband returned from the territory of Ukraine to the Rostov region in early September: "Just yesterday [September 3] they gave me a call back. The guys don't want to stay there. "

Khotulev refused to explain. Relatives of the military claim that they sent at least a battalion to the Rostov Region [the standard number of airborne battalion is 400-500 soldiers].

"I think the exercises will end soon ... Together with the improvement of the political situation," said RBC Khotulev, declining to comment on the participation of the Russian military in the Ukrainian conflict. "Mothers and relatives calmed down. Everything goes back to normal," concluded the colonel.

Colonel Khotulev also refused to explain the reason for the wound of the lost paratrooper. The causes of the deaths of the remaining fighters in the exercises are being investigated in the Southern Military District, the officer said. The county press officer did not answer.

In addition, the contract expressly prohibits military personnel from participating in hostilities during vacation, a member of the Human Rights Council, director of the Citizen. Army. Law "Sergey Krivenko. "A serviceman tells the command exactly where he is going on vacation, and it's illegal to go to the war zone on the territory of another state," the human rights activist explains. According to him, the paratrooper, going to the Donbass, had to deceive the command in this case and cannot rely on social guarantees and payments in case of injury or death, as well as rendering military honors posthumously.

However, many relatives of the dead and returning, interviewed by RBC, speak of promises of payments for injuries or deaths.

On September 2, at a meeting with human rights activists, Deputy Defense Minister Nikolai Pankov promised to investigate each case of the death of the military during the "Rostov exercises," Krivenko handed over to the general a list of the dead, which, according to him, contained a dozen names. He never received an answer.

According to NATO General Bridlaw, in September, after the armistice in eastern Ukraine, 4 battalion-tactical groups of Russian troops remained. This is up to one and a half thousand fighters. Russian Defense Ministry called this information "speculation."

Elena Vasilieva: I was between the "rock and the hard place". On the one hand, I was attacked by journalists with requests to give them contacts of the relatives of the deceased servicemen, on the other hand, relatives begged not to give their coordinates to the journalists.

Here is an excerpt from the correspondence of Sergey Gerasimov's mother with the founder of the group "Cargo 200 from Ukraine to Russia" Elena Vasilyeva. This correspondence sheds much light on what was happening around the families of the dead paratroopers.

Hello, dear Elena Vasilieva.

I read your article "Where do the dead go or the tale of the Minoboronovskih wizards." In the list of victims under number 11 you have Sergei Gerasimov. I am his mother. I want to clarify: his place of service is indicated there incorrectly. This is a military unit in Tambov, where Sergey served in military service. And now he is serving for the third year under contract in 98 Svir Division, military unit 71211, deployed in Kostroma.

Sincerely, Tatyana Gerasimova

I apologize. We receive a lot of information about the dead and the lost. I want to believe that your son is alive, if this is so, please confirm. I will remove it from the lists. Obituaries also sent out about me, they say, that means they will live a long time.

Mon, 22 Sep 2014 13:11:23 +0400 from Gerasimov Tatyana:

It's okay, I understand everything. No, my son really died on August 24th. Buried on September 11 has not been identified for a long time.

09/22/2014, 2:00 p.m., Elena:

Thank you very much for your reply. I want to ask you: many journalists are trying to convey the truth to the Russians that the Russian military are dying in Ukraine. We really want to prevent other deaths and stop this senseless war altogether. Are you ready to tell your journalists about your son (believe me, good ones) so that other mothers can hear you and rise to protect the world and your sons?

In many cases, I encounter wild indifference from my parents. Now I have found my son alive, in captivity. Phoned his mother. Veselov from Kostroma, his mother is a lawyer. It was agreed that her son would be exchanged for a captured Ukrainian journalist. And she did not believe me for more than a day, then gathered for two more days. In the end I went to the Lugansk region. During this time, 45 captured Ukrainians, our militia shot just like that, including and this journalist. Mothers there said that the exchange process for a week would be delayed, but they gave her a phone talk with her son. She told me about this on the phone. And she decided not to wait, but to return to Russia. She is on the road now. Amazing nonchalance ... And she still believes that all this is not dangerous.

The civic position of mothers is very necessary, in memory of sons.

I have no idea how to condole you. Very terrible and sorry for your son and other guys.

Think about it. Maybe other mothers known to you will speak. I will send good journalists, and if necessary, lawyers to resolve issues.

From myself: just do not be silent. Mothers voice must be heard!

from Gerasimov Tatyana:

I came across the work of the media. I do not trust them! This is the first. Secondly, I do not want my name and mine (sometimes thoughtless in grief, words) to shine on different sites or even worse on TV. To overgrown with all sorts of (and negative including) comments. I wrote to you to clarify information about Sergey. There are still many inaccuracies in your list: Andrey Dokuchaev can safely be deleted - everything is fine with him, Sergey Seleznev from "missing" translate into "dead", Zhilin Pavel also died.

Honestly, I was expecting questions from you: do we know the circumstances of the death of our son, how we buried, did the part that they wrote on the death certificate helped, do they promise to pay us insurance and benefits? and you immediately "bull by the horns." Believe me, I am very worried about the fate of our boys who stayed there, and I would definitely go out with you to the Peace March, but to dismiss the journalists.

I live in a small town with a population of about 5 thousand people. In our city, we all know each other. And now it's no secret to anyone where my son died. Kostroma also knows that the Russian military is dying in Ukraine thanks to the Anatoly Travkin's funeral on Channel 1. I was surprised by your story about Veselov's mother (unfortunately, without a name), especially since she is a lawyer. I would also really like to see or hear the answers to the questions posed by Lev Schlosberg in his address to the Deputy Prosecutor General of the Russian Federation. And I would also like to know if this appeal really reached the addressee or whether it remained to hang out on the Internet and where the answer to this request will be published, is it really in the "Pskov province" - the newspaper, the founder of which is Lev Markovich.

By the way, what kind of "appropriate authority" do you want to send statements to and when do you plan to receive an answer to it?

Sorry if maybe I wrote something wrong or expressed my thought incorrectly or incomprehensibly. You understand that in my head now is just chaos. For the fourth week I have been trying by all means from various sources to find out for myself what is happening in Ukraine alas, there are more questions than answers. The impression is that all means are purposely trying to confuse, confuse even more and not shed light. So, while I do not own the situation, I'm not ready to communicate with reporters. Once again, forgive the unreasonable, if that, write.

Sincerely, Sergey Gerasimov's mother.

"Helena":

I did not begin to ask you questions precisely because journalists usually ask it. The circumstances of the death are already clear to me. The living wives write and call from places. Transmit ... I really would like to know what is written on the death certificate. And I think that there will be problems with insurance and benefits. We have good lawyers, if that.

It seems like a noise; we were able to force the Ministry of Defense to change conscripts to contractors. Conscripts began to withdraw from the war zone.

Thank you for correcting inaccuracies. Information is often obtained from the battlefield. Inaccuracies happen, but a little, given the complete isolation and secrecy of the Ministry of Defense.

We sent inquiries to the Ministry of Defense, the Military Prosecutor's Office of the Russian Federation, personally to Shoigu and Putin. I am sure that the answer will come somewhere in a month alone at best from the prosecutor's office.

Putin and Shoigu, as usual, do not answer anyone.

I'm not a bull by the horns ... You say that thanks to Channel 1 Russia has learned something. In fact, few people saw this plot. Only those whom then directly affected it. Many people write to me that I wrote everything about you, that there aren't any paratroopers, that no one is fighting. But cargo-200 is becoming more and more every day. Over 2,000, and only about 400 people returned home in zinc.

You write that you want to understand what is happening. Total cheating. Such a lie in the history of Russia has probably never happened. After the reform of the army, the war was reformed. Now Putin does not announce it. He silently announces military exercises, the progress of the exercises is not reported. And no losses are reported. And his TV channels are lying. They lied when Russia attacked Georgia, they lied about Chechnya, Ossetia, and Armenia. But there were minor conflicts, although they claimed thousands of lives. And now a total lie about Ukraine.

The fault of Ukraine is that its people have chosen the normal path of development, striving for improvement, real democracy. And they expelled a protege of Putin on the Maidan. Putin only knows how to avenge, but revenge a wicked little guy. He is an avid poker player. And there they're bluffing. And he bluffs everywhere and in everything. Now he is playing war. Unannounced, at the cost of the lives of young people who believe in power.

I created the Gruz 200 group on August 19, anticipating that this massacre would be. Gathering information bit by bit, and the first shouted that they had sent the guys not to the exercises, but to the slaughter. But mothers and relatives were silent. The Ministry of Defense tried to rehabilitate itself with an action that was promoted on TV "Call Mom." Few called. There were those who managed to say that they were not in exercises, but in Ukraine. I raised the journalists at the moment when this treacherous attack on Ukraine was being prepared. That is why your children are in the spotlight. Otherwise, no one would have known about them at all.

And now many people ask me a question: why are mothers silent? You answered because you do not want your name and the name of your son to be ruffled.

Just tonight, a journalist from Nizhny Novgorod called me. A load of 200 to 20 people also arrived in Mulino, and more died. She wonders what is happening. She, like you, believed that somewhere in Ukraine New Russia appeared and was fighting for its freedom with the Nazis.

In fact, everything is different. Putin, as in the Crimea, sent his men. But it was not possible to overcome the territory of a foreign developing state with a snap. There is no NATO and there wasn't - these are fairy tales for the people to justify their plans.

The people of Ukraine said that they would not give up an inch of their land, as our ancestors had once repelled German troops. And all the people stood up to defend their country. They form volunteer battalions, they fight real fascists, i.e. with us.

Russia without declaration of war attacked Ukraine. And in this war your son and other children and husbands died.

Ukrainians ask: why did you attack us? what have we done? But they did one thing - they did not recognize Putin and his proteges and held fair elections. We understood that Putin is a thief.

That is all politics.

Now mothers just have to unite and shout to the whole world that people are dying, and there the local population is dying too: women, children. And if a hotbed of tension appeared in Ukraine, as we had Chechnya as part of the Russian Federation, then the Ukrainian authorities themselves must sort out their territory. And not at the expense of the lives of your children.

And Russia wants to chop off the path of drug trafficking overland to the sea. Putin generally started a quarrel with all the neighboring republics, which could lead to the 3rd World War. All states have already turned their backs on us. Introduce sanctions. And we all in Russia turned into fascists. A new concept has appeared - Rashizm.

Your children have been deceived by insolent, cynical propaganda. It is beneficial for Putin to be forgotten, as well as those who will not return home from the army in the fall, because they will remain missing. God forbid, those who are in captivity will be exchanged and released.

Oddly enough, but the end of the war in these conditions depends only on the mothers, who are obliged to start talking ... I went to Vidyaevoy when in 2000 the Kursk, a submarine, died. I persuaded women to start talking with reporters on August 16, 17, 18, 19, and 20.21. But they could not believe, they believed that their children and husbands would be saved - they were silent. And only when the boat was flooded with an additional explosion at the bottom of the Barents Sea, they howled. And they could have prevented it. Putin then said she drowned. Now, too briefly - they got lost ...

Every day I wake up with 200 Cargo and fall asleep with it. They call and write to me mothers who do not believe, do not understand what is happening. And there is a war that breaks into people's homes in all regions. And on TV they say how Putin did not allow war. Cynical lie!

I can no longer speak words of comfort, because every day I look for someone's sons. At the same time, they pour me mud, but my mothers do not believe and are silent.

But the grief is such that I want to howl for all of you and scream from the pain of injustice.

It was your evil troll dwarf who killed your children. And it doesn't matter what the paid trolls say. It is important to raise other mothers. And in conditions of total censorship, only free media can do this. And you need to shout through real journalists who have not sold to the regime, so that other mothers hear your pain, understand, unite and stop this mess. In the meantime, only I scream for all of you and I'm not afraid to do this, although every day I get threats of reprisal.

Yes, we conceived the action. We want to bring photos of the dead guys and put them on the Kremlin wall ... opposite the Eternal Flame. They will screw us, because we want to rehabilitate the names of the dead servicemen, to force the government to pay the families of the dead all the penny, and for some reason their mothers do not want to. No, you answered, because you do not want to ruffle the name of your son, the comments of the trolls do not like either ..

Sorry. Such a silence is at hand for Putin. He allocated 5 billion to pay for trolls ...

In the trailer are samples of some messages to me

Tatyana Gerasimova:

Suppose you send me journalists ... where will the footage come out? The central mass media are all Putin's, not the central ones, few people watch, not everyone has the Internet. How will we cause a resonance? Our local newspaper even banned people from expressing condolences to us at first, because there was an order from above indicating our surname. Then, however, they had mercy.

You write that "the whole people stood up to defend their country" Where did the refugees come from? After all, it's not only women and children who are fleeing, why didn't they defend their country, how did the Russian people once rise up against the Germans? And who are the militias, do they not want to live in a free developing state? Why can't the Ukrainian army and people cope with them? Why Ukrainians do not send curses and appeals to stop fighting in the direction of the militias, but only spread rot on the Russians? Why accept humanitarian aid if they don't need it so much?

Everything is clear with Putin - the scoundrel is still the same. Our guys carried out the order, they were military and took the oath, here everything is clear too. But this is why the commanders could not save them, why the military, being cut off from the main convoy, could not get in touch with their own, but they were quickly discovered and shot by the Ukrainian army.

Why the equipment broke during the movement of the column and therefore the guys lagged behind. And many more questions. Who will be responsible for the death of our sons?

So many units are thrown into this meat grinder. It seems that our military does not know how to fight at all, since they suffer such losses.

Shamanova, Shoigu, and Putin to Siberia to the mines for such "work" and the rest of the commanders urgently need to be sent for retraining.

You write "they form volunteer battalions" to fight "with real fascists, that is, with us" read with our children. Who, then, is the Ukrainian army fighting with us too? Doesn't she manage, what, does she need volunteer battalions? Why don't these volunteers join the army and fight on their own and still get weapons somewhere?

In general, I have not diminished questions. Thank you Elena for taking the time to chat with me and helping me sort out the situation. ...

August 20, 2014: near the Lugansk airport, near the village of Georgievka, Lugansk region, the Ukrainian army captured the BMD-2 with documents and weapons of the military from the 76th Guards Airborne Division, located near Pskov.

The official representative of the Ministry of Defense Igor Konashenkov joked: “To the numerous“ exploits ”of the Security Service of Ukraine, now it is necessary to add one more -“ buying up stolen goods ”.

The publication Chita.Ru, citing the military enlistment office, reported the death of Chitin Nikolai Sharaborin, who served in the Airborne Forces in Novorossiysk, during the exercises near Rostov. The 7th Guards Airborne Assault Division is deployed in this city. Later, in the news release of the Chita editorial office of the All-Russian State Television and Radio Broadcasting Company, Sharaborin was called a volunteer who joined the ranks of the militia, and the Donetsk region was the place of death.

The death of the 21-year-old Astrakhan Ildar from the 137th Guards Regiment of the 106th Guards Airborne Division deployed in the Ryazan Region, said Anatoly Salin, an expert at the Committee of Soldiers' Mothers. The human rights activist did not give a surname, specifying the date of death - July 28. Shortly before this, the soldier, according to information received from his mother, was transferred to Novoshakhtinsk, Rostov Region. The publication “Kaspiy.info” gives the name of the soldier - Maksutov. Volunteers found a paratrooper profile on the VKontakte social network with the status of "To Ukraine!" Salin says that the soldier's mother, who herself turned to human rights defenders, at some point stopped communicating with them.

The 7th Guards Airborne Assault (Mountain) Airborne Division is deployed in the Krasnodar Territory and stationed in the cities of Novorossiysk, Stavropol and Anapa. The personnel of the compound carried out peacekeeping missions in Abkhazia and took an active part in counter-terrorism operations in the North Caucasus.

The 106th Guards Airborne Division is stationed in the Ryazan Region. The fighters of the division participated in restoring order during the anti-Armenian unrest in Azerbaijan and counter-terrorism operations in the North Caucasus.

Motor Rifle

On August 27, the Security Service of Ukraine announced the detention of another Russian soldier, 19-year-old Petr Khokhlov. In a video published by the agency, a native of the city of Novouzensk, Saratov Region, claims that he is an ordinary 9th separate motorized rifle brigade deployed in Nizhny Novgorod. He was identified and confirmed by RBC the words of a private soldier who was serving with Khokhlov Roman Shubtsov. According to Shubtsov, Khokhlov was brought up in a boarding school, his parents died.

A soldier on video says that he was accepted for military service on May 22, 2013 and after 9 months he signed a contract to serve in the 9th brigade. Two months later, his battalion was raised by alarm, loaded into trains and sent to the Rostov region. There they settled down in the forest. A month later, the commander ordered to “expel” the BMP, build them in a column and clean them numbers and other identification marks, said the soldier.

Later, Khokhlov claimed, 14 such vehicles were handed over to certain “Chechens” in the border Russian city of Donetsk.

It follows from Khokhlov’s story that, having learned about the remuneration that the militia supposedly received, he decided to leave the unit without permission and join them. On August 8, Khokhlov and his colleague Ruslan Garafiev went AWOL and ended up in the Luhansk region. There, at the village of Novosvetlovka, on August 27, he fell into the hands of Ukrainians.

Sergey Khokhlov is looking for a brother captured by the Ukrainian military, with whom they grew up in an orphanage. 19-year-old Pyotr Khokhlov signed a contract a few months ago without completing military service. In August, he was sent to exercises in the Rostov region. On August 27, the Security Service of Ukraine published a video with a confused story of Private Khokhlov detained in Ukraine.

To this day, Khokhlov's brother Sergei, who grew up with him in an orphanage, and the bride of a soldier Anna from Nizhny Novgorod are trying to find out the fate of the detainee. "The military commissariat said: he left the location of the unit. I do not believe what he is saying on camera. He was on exercises in Rostov. If he decided to go somewhere, he would call me," Sergey said.

Finding relatives of Ruslan Garafiev failed.

However, the version that a soldier from the 9th brigade found himself in Ukraine on his own initiative has flaws. Komsomolskaya Pravda published the stories of two other contractors of the same 9th brigade Armen Davoyan and Alexander Voronov, who died "on the border with Ukraine" in the Rostov region. Allegedly, their colleagues told the publication that the young people died on July 14, when they came under fire, protecting refugees. The article was later removed from the newspaper's website.

The representative of the brigade, whose contact phone was given to Sergey Khokhlov at the military registration and enlistment office, hung up, as soon as the correspondents tried to introduce themselves.

Contact with the relatives of Davoyan and Voronov failed.

Apparently, motorized gunners from other military units were also involved in the "exercises in the Rostov Region".

The 21st separate motorized rifle brigade is deployed in Totsky district of the Orenburg region. The soldiers of the Totsk brigade took part in peacekeeping operations in Transnistria and Abkhazia, as well as in two Chechen campaigns.

In late August, media in Irkutsk, Astrakhan and Bashkiria, citing military commissariats and relatives, reported the funeral of Vadim Larionov, Konstantin Kuzmin and Marcel Araptanov from the 17th and 18th separate motorized rifle brigades deployed in Chechnya. According to the official version, all three died "in the line of duty" during the exercises near Rostov.

Perm media referring to relatives who received relevant notifications reported the death of Vasily Karavaev from the 21st separate motorized rifle brigade deployed in the Totsky District of the Orenburg Region during exercises in the Rostov Region.

Such a fake was thrown into the group of the Facebook community “Cargo 200 from Ukraine to Russia”, which Elena Vasilyeva and the project volunteers initially took as a real copy of the order to remove six more military personnel of the same unit from September 4, 2014: 25- summer junior sergeant Viktor Karpukhin, 27-year-old private Nikita Surkov, 29-year-old sergeant Vitaly Glushchenko, 35-year-old ensign Alexander Nikulin, 37-year-old senior warrant officer Nikolai Mylnikov and 35-year-old senior warrant officer Sergei Dymov. Vasilyeva claims that all this was a fake and an ugly rally of the opposing side. Someone really wanted to expose the whole community of volunteers in a negative light. And the purpose of this provocation was to make people believe that 30 thousand volunteers are lying, and that there are no Russian military in the Donbass.

became clear that these were the names of the players of the Gazprom team "Gazovik", who decided to turn their eyes away from the real dead special forces from the Orenburg region.

The meanness of the Putin regime knows no bounds..

Putin's propagandist Anatoly Shariy and the Russian media, seeing that this order was in the group of volunteers, began to write and tell on all TV channels that Vasilyeva "bury" the players, ignoring the fact that all the surnames and names before they get on the compiled lists, pass a rigorous test. And, having bitten this fake, the volunteers took a closer look at the dead from the Orenburg region, and found at least 9 names of real mercenaries killed.

The fact that retroactively removed from the allowance of the Russian military is also evidenced by many correspondence on social networks:

Анатолий Гелюх Я говорю как есть - офицеры, которые сами уже в ахуе и ждут только конца контракта, на построении объясняют личному составу - пацаны, не тупите, контракт до конца отбыть, а там если них...я не поменяется, то со спокойной душой... БК, подготовка, медобеспечение, связь, ресурсы для укреплений, разделение труда между боевыми и бумажными, топливо, полевое довольствие вместо котлового, которого тоже часто нет, воровство медицины, увольнение раненных и убитых задним числом - год был чтобы это обеспечить/исправить. Нет - идите сами заводить дворняг на НП (боевых то позиций у нас то нет, ага).

Stas Shustrov Толя, я, наверное, единственный, кто уволился с формулировкой несоблюдение контракта Луганской Народной Республикой ... Братья с Севера поспособствовали конечно оформлению 😊
А командование думает не тем местом которым ест, увы.

Андрей Пушкин Я даже в ак не поехал...просто написал рапорт...подал в строевую...и батальон остался без комбата

ELena N. Orlova У меня мужик ушел на передок, а в штаб вслед за ним пошел рапорт на увал! Мне то сразу сказали и я все развернула, но большинство то воюет даже не зная о том, что за них зарплату получают пидоры и чем больше наших пацанов поляжет тем выгоднее штабным ибо все спишут на то что якобы он получил и все загребут себе. Я ненавижу этих пидорасов! Донбасс если и проиграет то только по их вине ибо считаю это диверсионной работой на врага. Им выгодно чтоб пришли укурки так как боятся что до них таки бойцы доберутся рано или поздно.

Samara peacekeepers

The fighters of the 15th separate motorized rifle brigade of the peacekeeping forces deployed in the village of Roshchinsky, Samara Region, went to the exercises in the Rostov Region, said the head of the Samara "Union of Veterans of the Airborne Forces and Special Forces" Viktor Kalinichev. Two relatives of the fighters said on condition of anonymity that the soldiers after a long break contacted on September 3.

The mother-in-law of one contractor serviceman and the brother of another, according to the soldiers, say that the peacekeepers were in Ukraine at the end of August. September 2, they allegedly returned through Krasnodon back to the Rostov region, and began to prepare for a possible new trip to Ukraine.

The wife of another contractor from the Samara brigade told RBC that her husband, who had not contacted for a long time, called her from the Ukrainian number in late August. The man said that he was in the Rostov region on exercises. The soldier allegedly took a phone with a Ukrainian SIM card for the call from one of the refugees.

There is no information about possible losses in the personnel of the brigade. In part, they refused to talk with RBC. "There were exercises in the Rostov region, but in Ukraine there are no our military. This was stated by our commander in chief, "categorically Kalinichev.

The 15th separate motorized rifle brigade of peacekeeping forces is deployed in the Chernorechye of the Samara region. This is the first special peacekeeping force in Russia formed at the end of 2004.

It is completed with contract soldiers.

Forces of the world

"The world has changed, changed dramatically. As you know from past examples, peacekeeping units may be called for unexpectedly," said Defense Minister Sergei Shoigu, arriving on August 6 at the 15th brigade of peacekeepers. Then not everyone in the Samara part could guess what the minister was talking about.

All military units whose soldiers died during the exercises "in the Rostov Region" or were captured in Ukraine (with the exception of motorized rifle brigades) form the basis of the Russian peacekeeping forces. Major-General Alexander Vyaznikov, Deputy Commander of the Airborne Forces in Peacekeeping Operations, designated the listed formations of the airborne troops as such in August. According to him, it was by August 2014 that the formation of a peacekeeping force of 5,000 soldiers was completed.

The question of creating special peacekeeping forces arose five years ago after the operation in Ossetia, recalls the head of the Center for Military Forecasting Anatoly Tsyganok. According to him, peacekeepers are distinguished from other rapid reaction forces by language training (everyone learns English and other foreign languages), the ability to act in conditions of unrest and riots, the skills to interact with the police and law enforcement agencies of other states, as well as readiness not only for purely military , but also humanitarian operations. Now the status of peacekeepers is assigned only to one brigade of ground forces and the above formations of the Airborne Forces, however, peacekeeping units are also in the internal troops of the Russian Ministry of Internal Affairs.

The newspaper "Orskiy Vestnik" reported that on August 27 two tankers who had served under a contract in the Orenburg Region were killed in the Rostov Region.

As explained by the deputy commander for work with the personnel of the reconnaissance battalion of military unit No. 12128 (Totskoye-4 village of the Orenburg region) Aleksey Shkola, a shell fired from the territory of Ukraine got into the tank.

The dead are a native of the Perm Territory Vasily Karavaev, the second is a resident of Sol-Iletsk, his name is not specified.

In the branch of the Union of Families of Russian Military Forces in the Orenburg Region, information that the contract soldiers of the Totsky military unit was sent to the Rostov training ground was confirmed. The deputy chairman of the department, Nadezhda Kirillova, explained that the 21st brigade had left for exercises in the Rostov region, but she was not involved in the hostilities.

On Saturday, August 30, wives of servicemen turned to the unit's command, worried that their husbands weren't communicating. They explained to the women that the phones had been taken away to hide their location.

At the same time, the military noted that some employees on the eve contacted relatives.

Orskiy Vestnik notes that at the end of August, "cargo 200" was already delivered to the Orenburg region. On August 31, a paratrooper from the Pskov Airborne Division was buried near Buzuluk. Twenty-five-year-old Dmitry Ganin also served under the contract. The official version of the death of a soldier is the same - exercises in the Rostov region.

In fact, the guys died near Starobeshevo in their T-72 tank, investigations by InformNapalm proved their belonging to the 21st Motorized Rifle Brigade

On August 26, 2014, members of the Presidential Human Rights Council Sergei Krivenko and Ella Polyakova formally demanded that the Investigative Committee of the Russian Federation find out the causes and circumstances of the death of nine soldiers of the 18th motorized rifle brigade. So far, the TFR and the Ministry of Defense have not commented on this request.

Chapter 5. The confrontation is growing. Donbass's evidence

The picky reader can accuse me of bias and coverage of the situation on one side only.

Well, let's see what Gazeta.ru wrote about the theme of those killed in DNI and DNR in the article "Find the Cargo-200":

“The participation of Russian volunteers in hostilities in the Donbass has become a problem for their relatives in Russia: they cannot find and bury the bodies of their dead relatives ...” this article begins, which many Russians could read.

“... Some turned to Ukrainian human rights defenders who made public the lists of dead Russian fighters, while others sought help from search groups in their own country. “Gazeta.Ru” understood how relatives look for victims in the Donbass and what problems they face.

During the most fierce campaigns in the summer of 2014, zinc coffins and refrigerators with soldiers' bodies went across the Rostov border. Due to the chaos and disorganization in the structures of the self-proclaimed republics, relatives from Russia often could not find the bodies of the dead.

Gazeta.Ru was told about the specifics of search work in the Donbass in the search and rescue group Medved. Analyst Dmitry said that before finding the body, search engines collect information, look for and interview witnesses.

Relatives of the victims often try to find relatives according to open information on the Internet.

Member of the Human Rights Council, coordinator of the Citizen and the Army public initiative, Sergey Krivenko, said that Russian human rights defenders are trying to rely on information from relatives and partner organizations, since data from Ukrainian registries is difficult to verify. However, it is honestly indicated on these resources that they do not claim to be completely reliable.

In Donbass, search engines face problems in interacting with self-proclaimed republics. "There is a specific case: they found body N in the morgue. According to colleagues, it was N. They asked to take a photo and send it - they refused, they said: come and take it. The bottom line is that his daughter, who has a child in her arms, is looking for him, there is no money, and for obvious reasons she cannot go to Donbass. The deceased served in the Slavic brigade (the unofficial name for Strelkov's group defending Slavyansk is "Gazeta.Ru"), if the commander has money, why not send? No one helped, who is obliged," says Dmitry, the coordinator of the Bear in Russia.

A member of the search group "Bear" militia Alexei Penza recalls the high-profile case of the death of Russian volunteer Maxim Stekhin. A burial of five bodies was found in the summer near Donetsk, there was a sign above the grave: "The guys died for Putin's lie."

"I was searching for the parents of the guys. I found Stekhin's parent, but the bodies disappeared," recalls Penza, a strange story. - For almost half a year we can't find the bodies, the DNA did not match. Although a girl from the Donetsk morgue told us that the DNA was correct, how could they compare if only I took DNA samples? "

The militia associates the problem of finding and returning the bodies with an atmosphere of secrecy around the participation of Russian volunteers.

Last year, the topic of anonymous mass graves became one of the episodes of the information war. In September, militias discovered burial places near Donetsk, in which, according to the authorities of the self-proclaimed DPR, lay civilians of Donbass, allegedly killed by Ukrainian security forces. After that, pro-government organizations held a rally "Sorrow Action" in Moscow on Poklonnaya Hill. In response, the representative of the National Security and Defense Council of Ukraine Andriy Lysenko said that three mass graves were found in cemeteries in Slavyansk, Donetsk region.

“I have many such stories,” Penza says. - So, we buried the guys near Andrianopol (Lugansk region). Three were taken prisoner, and six people - all Russians - were bombarded with rubbish, then the locals found them.

Two survived, then they exchanged. Two others had their head cut off, two had their tattoos cut off. We identified the group when we saw a tattoo in the form of an eagle in one of them. (Due to bureaucratic problems with the authorities) we exhumed them for three months - in October we dug up, in November we delivered to Rostov. I called my parents, the DNA matched, and they were sent home. ”

Since July, the group has helped in about 70 cases - a third of those who applied.

The peak of inquiries to the "Bear" from relatives occurred in August - 2014, the time of the most fierce battles, when the Ukrainian troops suffered the most notorious defeats from the forces of the DPR and LPR. Then, on August 27, Alexander Zakharchenko, in an interview with Rossiya-24 TV channel, said that not only volunteers from Russia, but also the acting military of the Russian army, who, according to him, “preferred not to spend their holidays on the beach, and among us, among the brothers who are fighting for their freedom. ”

In Soviet times, the Ministry of Defense had its own shops. They were called the word - voentorg. ”.

Fighters of the republics informally called the Russian military personnel involved in the conflict - voentorgovci. ” The Russian Ministry of Defense denies their presence in the region.

According to the Penza militia, voentorgovci and the republic are separately working on transporting the bodies of their people. “They (voentorg. - the Russian Gazeta.Ru used this expression) by themselves, understand,” says Andrei Ragulin, member of the Commission on Prisoners of War Affairs at the DPR Ministry of Defense, to Gazeta.Ru. The existence of a different logistics system is also confirmed by the militia, the coordinator of non-humanitarian assistance to the DPR, Alexander Zhuchkovsky, but none of them could tell the details..

Searching for one person takes up to 100 thousand rubles

At the same time, it is precisely aware of the many problems with the logistics of the “two hundredths” among the self-proclaimed republics. Penza himself had to spend his money on transporting bodies to his homeland, since he did not collect more than 20 thousand rubles on the Internet. In social networks, search engines are really engaged in crowdfunding: on February 26 in the post of the VKontakte group it was indicated that 7 thousand rubles had been received in the account. Periodically, the names of the wanted persons are indicated in the posts and wallet numbers are attached. Searching for one person takes 50-100 thousand rubles: this is money for transportation costs (gasoline, car, airplane); DNA analysis of 18-25 thousand; coffin, suit and zinc - 20-25 thousand rubles.

“I asked the administration of the DPR and LPR, but they answered that money was supposedly allocated from the Ministry of Defense of the Russian Federation for all this.

When I asked a question to a person in Russia who deals with these issues in the "military", he laughed and offered to show this agreement. That is, there is simply no such agreement. They call the militia, say: we are poor, your help is needed. A man arrives, dresses, eats for his money. And when he is killed, nobody needs him. The same airport (the transport hub of Donetsk is one of the epicenters of the fighting). We could not pick up the body of a guy who was moved by a Ukrainian tank. I propose to bring a part of the body to bury. No, no one needs this, but for each "two hundredth", according to my information, the commanders in the DPR, LPR received 20-25 thousand UAH for the funeral. This money was disappearing in an unknown direction, ”complains Penza. He says that he does not know the search groups for Donbass in Russia, except for the "Bear", only individual people collecting information on the dead and wounded. At the same time, the Bear was declared a boycott last fall - “they asked too many questions”:

“They wanted to shoot me several times in the DPR due to the fact that I was preventing people from earning money.”

However, there are problems not only with unscrupulous field commanders, but also with some search groups. According to Gazeta.Ru, relatives complained that they were trying to give them the remains of strangers, allegedly conducting an DNA examination.

In any war, problems often arise with the recognition of bodies. Retired colonel of the A department of the Central Security Service of the FSB and veteran of the Chechen campaigns Sergei Militsky told Gazeta.ru about the historical experience of identifying bodies. “In the first war, there were cars in Rostov, there they brought the dead from Chechnya. Many were burned there, they were pulled out of the burned infantry fighting vehicles. It was hard to identify. My schoolmate’s mom came and took teeth casts, fillings to try to identify her son from them. In Chechnya, they tried not to leave the dead, they did not leave anyone in our unit. Since World War II, cartridges in the breast pocket of the tunic have been used for identification in the form of a small closed pencil case with a piece of paper that says the name. Search engines are still identifying those who have died since the Second World War. I still carry a badge with the inscription of the USSR and a personal number fixed in all archives. The token is needed so that when someone is killed, put it in his mouth and bury it with him for further identification. The first Chechen one was searched for by the teeth, since 1995 it has been searched by DNA, ”says Militsky.

“The fate of the body primarily depends on relatives”

The transfer of bodies to Ukrainian and Russian relatives in Donetsk is handled by the Commission for Prisoners of War Affairs at the DPR Ministry of Defense. Its representative, an activist of the Alternative movement, Andrei Ragulin, said that volunteers, in fact, “do not need anyone in terms of their fate”: “They are left to their own devices. It is like volunteers in Serbia. The fate of the body primarily depends on relatives, and secondly on the commander, ”says Ragulin.

Neither Ragulin nor Melnikov were able to confirm Penza's words that money was allocated to commanders in the republics for transferring bodies to relatives in Russia and they did not know about such decrees in the self-proclaimed republics.

Relatives are also wanted in Donetsk from the Ukrainian side, another member of the DPR prisoners of war commission, Liliya Radionova, said.

According to her, Ukrainian relatives regularly turn to her. Recently, in one of the regions of Donbass, a mass grave of Ukrainian military personnel was found, the commission checked the place, unearthed it, handed it over to the Ukrainian side, and from the Donetsk morgue gave information on DNA examination, said Radionova.

She complains about the "war" and around the transfer of bodies: the Ukrainian side ceases to transport the "two hundredths" - the DPR responds with a boycott. "The bodies of our soldiers lie in the area of the village of Spartak (Donetsk region) since January. We have to respond with such counterattacks, although this is not according to Christian and human laws. But I am more interested in our militias, although relatives from the Russian side know little about us. If necessary, I sit down and go with them, they let us go to the forefront, where it simply cannot be. Under my control, they dig and take bodies. But it's almost impossible to get to the Ukrainian side," says Radionova.

From memorable cases, she recalled a 21-year-old guy from the village of Logvinovo (Donetsk region), who pulled the body of a 19-year-old comrade from a wrecked tank during the battle. He buried him in a funnel, found nearby sticks and put together a cross, hung up his helmet and signed a tablet. The tanker was eventually found by relatives from Russia.

"Of course, there are cases when they also sprinkle in the trenches, when it is not possible to bury, at least sprinkle with earth so that the animals do not pull away."

How many bodies of volunteers went through the commission, Radionova did not say maybe there are no exact statistics: "I can only say that a lot."

A veteran of Chechnya Militsky emphasizes: the war in the Donbass cannot be compared with Chechnya due to the nature of the civil confrontation and many spontaneous units from both the self-proclaimed republics and Kiev. In any case, regular formations are more careful about the funerals of their comrades-in-arms: "Honestly, I think that Ukrainians are more interested in pulling out their soldiers, whatever one may say — this is a personnel army. More than non-local militias who arrived and do not really know them. Well, it turned out - pulled out, it didn't work out - no. On the other hand, the locals are probably trying to get their own. But the Ukrainian army is still personnel, with accountability, and they need to objectively show their soldiers. "

The commission on prisoners of war at the DPR Ministry of Defense hopes that the Moscow Red Cross may in the future systematically take over the bodies of Russian volunteers to relatives, which the republics lack of resources for. However, the press secretary of the Russian Red Cross Tatyana Klenitskaya says that the organization has never been engaged in work with "Cargo-200" and this work is more likely to be within the competence of the Ministry of Emergencies.

How the "cargo-200" is returned to their homeland

In recent months, the border control regime has sharply tightened, however, unlike humanitarian and other cargo, there are no problems with the transfer of bodies, says DNR field commander Oleg Melnikov. Standard death certificates are issued, about the absence of foreign objects and not infection, then zinc coffins are officially taken across the border to the Rostov airport and sent to their destination.

The head of the Imperial Legion club Denis Gariev notes that problems with crossing the border can arise if the deceased did not have documents with him or they burned down in battle: “We didn’t resolve such problems, we all had documents. Now there are still problems with toughening the inspection: they open the coffins, inspect. Also, the problem is that zinc made in Donetsk is not suitable for Russia (probably, this does not mean compliance with Russian state standards. - “Gazeta.Ru”).

At first we had to buy zinc, both there and there.

This interferes with transportation by plane and rail. ”

Earlier, Melnikov told Gazeta.ru that Russian volunteers were buried on the spot in the Donbas if the unit was surrounded and had no physical ability to take the body across the border, or if the deceased had no relatives or could not be found. In other cases, they try to deliver the body to their homeland.

The most resonant cases of the transfer of “cargo-200” to Russia from Donbass were last summer, after the failed operation in May at the Donetsk airport.

Then the border was crossed by trucks with coffins with stickers "Donetsk People's Republic." To protect themselves from attacks, activists painted red crosses and “200” numbers on the sides and roof of the truck, and reporters escorted the convoy.

At the official level, the state does not participate in the funeral and transfer of the bodies of volunteers, explains State Duma deputy Franz Klintsevich. Organizationally and financially, he said, three veteran organizations are helping here: the Russian Union of Afghanistan Veterans, the Combat Brotherhood, and the Russian Paratroopers Union.

A separate problem is that often volunteers do not warn relatives where exactly they are going on a “business trip,” the deputy notes.

Another problem with the search and identification of bodies for relatives in the Donbass may be the concealment by the parties to the conflict of their losses for propaganda purposes and the personal motivation of the commanders. This story is typical of many wars: in Soviet times, in the Afghan campaign, commanders were summoned to the army headquarters and scolded for divulging the death toll. Reports were written on the army, party, medical lines and counterintelligence. The numbers were supposed to be secret and match. Trying to avoid problems, the commanders did not talk about the soldiers killed, hid the bodies, underestimating the losses on the papers and stretching the time for the publication of the lists and the shipment of coffins.”

As you can see, despite the fact that various sources have confirmed the death of the Russian military in Ukraine, the Kremlin’s official position remains unchanged - there are no Russian military in Ukraine. Unexpectedly, the Russian Ministry of Defense called “nonsense” a statement by the speaker of the National Security and Defense Council of Ukraine, Andrei Lysenko, who reported with reference to data from operational intelligence about the deaths of thousands of Russian troops on Ukrainian territory, BFM.ru, an official representative of the Russian department, said Major Igor Konashenkov. <http://news.rambler.ru/26890230/>

The representative of the Ministry of Defense recommends that Mr. Lysenko carefully prepare his public statements and periodically read the Ukrainian media. “Even on September 3, a certain Elena Vasilieva, who calls herself “ the right to defender, ”voiced the “ blue eye ”to the Ukrainian news agency UNIAN. Thus, it turns out that with his statement, Colonel Lysenko unwittingly surrendered the “illegal” operational intelligence of the Ukrainian military department. Now it’s clear what was dictated by the September 9 dismissal of the head of the main intelligence department of the Ukrainian Ministry of Defense, Colonel General Sergei Gmyz, who created such a unique “intelligence network”, ”Konashenkov ironically remarked.

“The Russian side,” the official representative of the Ministry of Defense continued, repeatedly revealed the mechanism of the “information carousel”, during which fake messages are repeatedly recited, converted in "facts from the earth" and then quoted by leading Western media. "Today, this" carousel "is missing only the last element. Namely, the publication of this crap in one of the leading Western publications. Apparently, the wait is not long," summed up Konashenkov.

Apparently, this was some veiled order to destroy the Russian activist by "popular methods," since serious threats rained down on this publication against Elena Vasilyeva. To find examples without foul language is simply not possible. Throughout the year, threats do not stop.

...September 21, 2014 in Moscow, the Russian opposition held the Peace March. Wanting to convey the truth about the war in the Donbass, thousands of Muscovites took to the streets. Unexpectedly for everyone, the column of the Russian anti-war movement became the central column.

Elena Vasilyeva printed out photos of Russian paratroopers who died in the Donbass and, together with like-minded people, carried the photos with the slogan "Enough 200 cargo!" For onlookers and a huge number of internal troops guarding, cordoned off along the route, this convoy became the effect of an "exploding bomb". The cordon, which consisted of riot police and military internal troops, who smirked at the people walking in the Peace March, suddenly saw dozens of photos of Russian paratroopers killed in the Donbass, which were carried in their hands by members of the 200 cargo convoy. The faces of the military extended in surprise. Perhaps, for the first time there, on the Peace March, servicemen thought that in Ukraine it's not a "dill safari", but a real war, and there are losses.

Group cargo - 200 on Facebook began to rapidly replenish with new members who wanted to know the truth.

Elena Vasilieva

In my blog I wrote in September 2014:

Since August 19, since the formation of this group and immersion in this very difficult topic, I literally went to hell. Hell of pain, injustice, total lie, threats of reprisal, maternal grief and shame for your country. Mail is littered with thousands of letters from residents of Russia and Ukraine. It's time to open an international office. If there are sponsors, you must do so.

Letters are very different. Most of them are grateful for the courage and the topic raised. Someone offers me to appoint almost an attaché for the return of the dead, someone believes that here it smacks of the Peace Prize. But among the letters there are hissing with threats, demands to name all two thousand dead Russians by name, and again threats of reprisal of all kinds.

And the trouble is that all our information is confirmed ...

Believe me, it's really very hard. And in the first place, it's hard to realize that, like zombies, Russians sacredly believe that there are not any deaths in this fratricidal war. They believe in the deaths of 5 and journalists - they showed on television, but they don't believe that under the continuous heavy fire Gradov kills all living things on both sides.

They believe that "dill" kills women and children, and do not pay attention to the fact that the "militias" are wiping entire Ukrainian villages off the face of the earth, bombing cities like New Russia. And under the bombing of Russian technology, both women and children, and the elderly die.

Now, when I write these lines, violating the ceasefire, the Russian troops are shooting Mariupol, taking away hundreds of civilian lives, including women, old people, children. But on TV they don't show it, so it doesn't.

Thousands of evidence that the Russian army has sent select troops to Ukraine. Ukrainians create partisan units, volunteer battalions defend their native land. But the Russian zombayaschik once again gives out a portion of lies that fascists of Ukraine attack peaceful Russian militias, while claiming that in Ukraine there is a civil war. The fact that the citizens of Ukraine, as one stand up against the militias - not citizens of Ukraine - not a word. No matter how they say that in the Donbass, it was precisely Russian shells that destroyed dozens of villages with local residents. The fights are fierce and fierce.

But the Russians do not believe in this ...

Because on TV they were not told about it.

Novorossiya ...

This name has already modestly left the vocabulary of the biased Russian media, but many, in the heat of rage and hatred of the "Ukrainian fascists," have not yet noticed this.

"What are you lying to the whole country," the angry Russians write to me, there's no war.

And where so much cargo-200? What do you need to bring them to the threshold? Those lucky after death are returned to heartbroken families. And who was unlucky ...

But the worst is yet to come. The bill went into the thousands, most of the victims were hastily buried in trenches along the roads, rammed with tank tracks in the ground, dumped into mines. No fame, no honor, no help to the families of those who died at the loss of a breadwinner.

Two aspects that sound discordant ...

The first is the Russian military. Previously, we talked about honor, valor, officer glory, feat. There were fathers-commanders, there were concepts: the honor of the regimental banner, the officer honor. Now this is not. There are no more officers, there are mercenaries armed with gangs in the form of green men without ranks, but with nicknames (pogonyalovo, as in the underworld). Rough speech, obscenities, unprecedented inhuman cruelty to prisoners and total drunkenness. Here is what her reform made of the Russian army. Men are not there - there are inveterate thugs and bandits.

There is no talk of any holiness of the Oath either. All in the past. Orders are given only verbally so that there is no documentary evidence of a crime. Well, they bury the dead, respectively.

Against this background, Ukrainians discord: treating their wounded and strangers, helping prisoners, uploading poems and songs to the Internet. They ask Russian mothers to take out and bury the bodies of their dead children. There is no aggression in their appeals. But there is boundless love for their country, their people. Commanders count and voice losses. The dead are met by kneeling, buried like heroes openly covering it on their central television channels.

So, there is no war in Ukraine. Therefore, the commander-in-chief, who is also the president of Russia, has never called any of the dead a hero: neither the airborne assault of the Pskov and Ryazan divisions, nor the tankmen and motorized rifles of Ulyanovsk, nor the selected special forces from Sputnik, nor even the dead conscripts.

They did not deserve it, because they are not there. And now they are definitely not there. I already wrote that Putin is extremely specific. A recent statement by Medvedev that the Russian army has mobile crematoriums also proves that there are no dead. Look for dust in the field now.

Yes, I forgot to ask: Cargo - 200 from the Donetsk region is sent, not only by trucks, but also by rail. But the question is: where do most of them go on Russian territory?

The question turned out to be really serious.

Mobile crematoriums

The first information about mobile crematoria came from Kozitsin, the chieftain of the Donskoy army. He said that he had six mobile crematoria at his disposal. This strangely coincided with the statement by Prime Minister Medvedev that six mobile crematoria were sent to the Rostov Region.

U.S. intelligence agencies also claim that the Russians burn the corpses of their soldiers who were killed in the Donbass..

The United States accused Russia of using mobile crematoriums in the Donbas to burn the corpses of the Russian military, Gazeta.ua reports with reference to Polish radio.

This was announced by the chairman of the Committee on Armed Forces of the US House of Representatives, Mac Thornberry, with reference to US intelligence.

"The Russians are trying to hide their losses by using mobile crematoriums. They are trying to hide their participation in the conflict not only to the whole world, but also to their own people," said Thornberry.

"What we heard from the Ukrainians was confirmed by US intelligence services," he added.

Another member of the U.S. House of Representatives, former naval officer Seth Multon, was at the end of March 2015 with Thornberry in Ukraine. Even then, he wrote on his Twitter about Russian crematoriums in the Donbass.

And in January 2015, the chairman of the Ukrian Security Service, Valentin Nalyvaichenko, said that the Russian military burned the bodies of those killed in mobile crematoriums in order to hide the facts of their participation in the hostilities on the side of the "DPR" and "LPR" terrorists.

<http://crime.in.ua/news/20150527/krematorii> Nalyvaichenko noted that each of these crematoria burns 8-10 bodies per day.

In general, the official Russian authorities continue to carefully conceal this information, however, reports of egregious inhumane facts continue to erupt.

"Burning a corpse, and then reporting that a person went missing is much easier than then making excuses for all the dead. That's why they use crematoriums," another source explains.

"On June 29, in the middle of the night, a car with corpses arrived at the morgue of the regional clinical central hospital in Donetsk. The truck stood for about three hours. The staff wanted to start unloading the bodies, but the crew did not unload the corpses. Then the car drove off somewhere. And we were told that they prepared for burning in the "Inca" (Mobile crematorium IN-50.1K).

"On the night of July 11-12, 2015, a car with corpses arrived from near Uglegorsk to the morgue of the city of Yenakievo. And the whole car was sent to Donetsk, where they were" cremated in an "Inca ..."

"A crematorium for animals worked in Lysychansk. The other day they brought bags, began to unload. One burst, from there human legs stick out. All the bags brought were burnt in the crematorium" ...

In 2015, the theme of mobile crematoria was again raised already in Lugansk. Residents of the area with the name "Medgorodok" began to report that since early spring at night they simply have nothing to breathe. Exactly from 22.00 pm this wild smell of corpses with burnt bleach appears. Local authorities assure residents that peat bogs are burning.

But they can't burn strictly according to the clock, - indignant residents answer, and only at night.

The place at the building of the former sanatorium for war veterans every evening is in the cordon of the Lugansk People's Police. Local residents write that more than once they met trucks near Medgorodok, from which a characteristic smell came. By evening, they all drove towards this very Medgorodok.

According to the UN on October 29, 2014, at least 4,035 people died in eastern Ukraine (the figure includes 298 people who died in the crash of a Boeing) and 9,336 were injured.

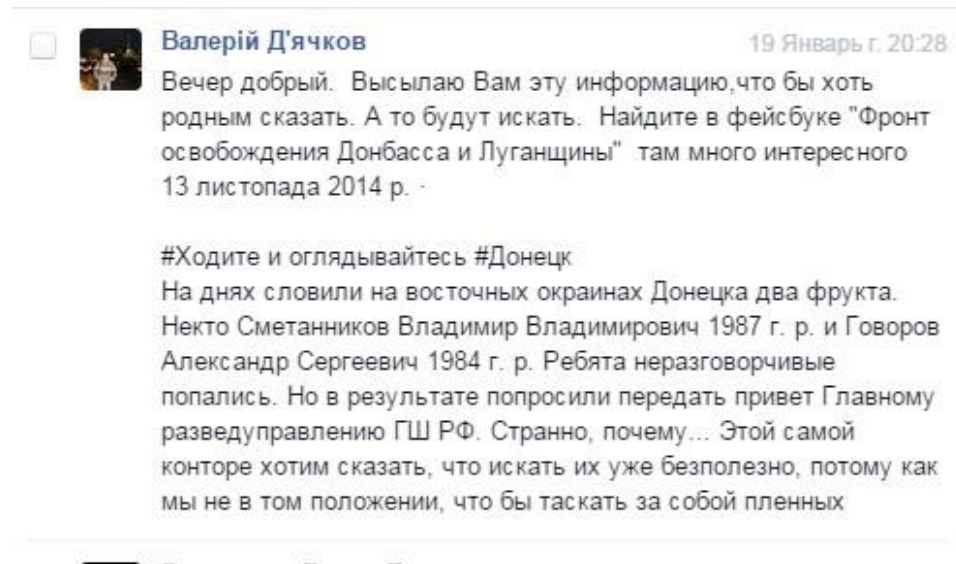

<http://novorosnews.ru/news/skolko-chelovek-pogiblo-na-ukrainepo-dannyim-oon-na-29-oktyabrya-2014/>

It is worth paying attention to the fact that a week earlier it was reported about 3724 dead and 9205 wounded. This suggests that 311 people were killed and 131 injured in a week in eastern Ukraine. And this is during the period of "truce."

And we in the group continued to monitor the places of battles and losses:

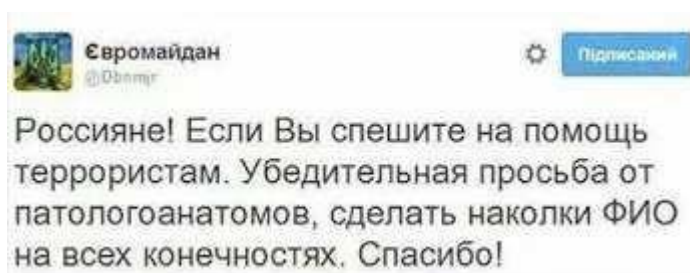

... As a result of an ambush at the Sabotage Reconnaissance Group of terrorists near Sands, Donetsk cyborgs liquidated two employees of the so-called DPR police and two ... border guards from Yaroslavl! Although, what is surprising in this As a Right Sector fighter with the call sign Born said: "One of the Russians was found to have a cell phone and called his mother. They said that her son died heroically in a battle with the "Right Sector" in Ukraine. His mother is in tears, but we said that we did not come to Russia and we ask that children not be sent to Ukrainian land

As you know, in the Donetsk and Lugansk regions of Ukraine, despite the declared ceasefire, attacks by Russian military and local bandits at the checkpoints of Ukrainian security forces continue, extremists engage in looting and killings of civilians, undermine railroad tracks, bridges, etc. Judging by the statement of the head of the Border Service of the Russian Federation, armed terrorists from Donetsk and Lugansk regions will not be allowed into Russia. This means that if they cross the border they will be caught, weapons taken away, and in case of resistance destroyed.

Earlier in the Russian media it was repeatedly reported that Russian mercenaries who are fighting on the side of the separatists are not expected at home, since the people who took part in the military conflict pose a serious danger to the stability of Russia itself. In addition, in the event of disability due to injury, these citizens will not receive payments due to the Russian security forces.

... On the morning of January 21, 2015, artillery shelling of the Ukrainian Armed Forces near Mariupol was resumed from the territories occupied by terrorists. For 2 hours, fire opened 9 times. According to information, the return fire of the Armed Forces of Ukraine destroyed about 10 pieces of enemy equipment, about 40 personnel of the armed groups of the "DPR" 200th, "said Dmitry Chaly.

Fri, 05/15/2015 In the Shyrokyne district, the invaders took a gang from the front line that suffered serious losses in battles with the ATO forces and understaff it with mercenaries who arrived from Russia.

About this on his Facebook page coordinator of the group "Information Resistance" (IP), MP Dmitry Tymchuk. "There was a withdrawal from the area of the village of Shirokino to the region of the village of Novoazovsk to staff the tactical group of militants with a total number of up to 100 people, who had previously suffered serious losses during clashes with anti-terrorist operation forces. Additional staffing is carried out by Russian mercenaries (a group of about 50 people), who arrived from the Russian Federation and were trained at a training center in the Rostov Region. (Russia), "Tymchuk noted.

В Песках я наблюдал странную картину, как 4 часа, артиллерия ДНР утюжила на окраине аэропорта дом, в котором находилось другое подразделение ДНР. Даже новость про это сделал. Я не мог понять, зачем, и что происходит И украинские офицеры не могли понять, только говорили, что это происходит довольно часто. Постреляли по своим, а потом начали стрелять по ним, Ответ пришел из Новосибирска, спустя три месяца, местный житель, который вернулся из ДНР, он там воевал добровольцем, рассказал. Он рассказал, что так убивают наемников из России, которым не собираются платить обещанную зарплату. У них может быть задолженность по три месяца, и перед возвращением, их валют из артиллерии, если выжили в каком-нибудь бесперспективном бою. Таким местом, кстати и был донецкий аэропорт. ... Horlivka's morgues are crowded. The bodies are stored in refrigerators at a wholesale base

Sat, 05/23/2015

In Gorlovka there is nowhere to store the corpses of militants - the morgues are crowded.

According to CRIME.in.UA, a source close to Gorlovka's "military commandant's office", after the bodies of the dead were transported to the city by truck, all the morgues of the hospitals were clogged with them. "There are not even dozens of them, it seems that there are already hundreds," the source said.

According to him, now the bodies are stored in refrigerators of the Temp wholesale base near the Azov fish market. "There used to be fish and sausages, but now there are corpses. We don't accept the dead already - now they are taking everyone to Yenakiyevo, "the" militia "complains.

According to CRIME.in.UA, two sources at once, in Yenakievo, it was true, only the day before yesterday they delivered about 20 corpses with gunshot and fragmentation wounds.

Basically, these are bodies collected at the battlefields - the militants began to attack the positions of the ATO forces more actively. But there are those who died during the internecine showdown of terrorists, which also began to happen more and more often.

We have to double-check every fact, every message, and I was surprised that a number of senior officials in Ukraine began to specifically put sticks in the wheels of our work. The influence of the Kremlin was felt in Ukraine. And every month this influence is felt more and more. The war in the east of Ukraine has become truly contractual.

Let's see the number of losses by military service. This table was compiled in the fall of 2014:

№	Name of unit / team	Loss amount
1.	Kamenka - since September officially recognized	187 200 th 84 300 th и 103 missing
2.	Sputnik, Murmansk region	More 180 200 th
3.	45th Special Forces Regiment Airborne (plan to convert into a brigade) in the ranks of about 150 people	About 850 200 th may be more
4.	15 peacekeeping brigade - only for September October	More than 150 200 th
5.	22 Special Forces Brigade (On average, from 2 to 8 thousand people.) There are about 180 people left	Almost completely defeated
6.	Separate special forces battalion Yekaterinburg - from two operational groups with a total of 100 people, less than 30 survived. The main losses during the assault on the airport..	about 70 200 th
7.	23th Kryazh motorized rifle brigade - participated in battles in the place with the 15th peacekeeping brigade.	Losses about 90
8.	Lugansk art brigade - application of the Tulip installation ", most self-propelled guns.	Losses more than 150

9.	The 24th Special Forces Brigade (they were mistakenly called Omsk Special Forces) the unit is currently practically incapable, the main battles are the airport. Mariupol and Debaltsovo.	Losses more than 300
10.	Buzuluk (Totsky) rocket art regiment - in early September, the battery was completely destroyed as a result of the attack of saboteurs of the DPR	Losses about 50
11.	Internal troops for the protection of important state and special cargo	Losses about 230
	total	About 4360 people

It's clear that the figures are approximate, since there is no account of military personnel in that "hodgepodge" called the Russian troops or peacekeeping forces. There is no centralized intelligible management, just as Shoigu has no military education and experience. It can almost be argued that the majority of Russian servicemen are not in Ukraine - all are "in silence mode". Here President Putin is almost right: honor and praise from the military personnel of the Russian Federation, and especially from mothers.

Of this number, the Ministry of Defense of the Russian Federation in the fall of 2014 recognized 900 people. The families of the victims are instilled with the myth that a financial assistance fund is being formed, and for the loss of the breadwinner they will receive 2 million rubles ... in case they are silent. Here in Totsky, the military (a football team) died, relatives were punished for leaking information. And in Samara they are silent in a rag, and they receive money. True, in Samara, the demand for military suitors has increased ...

So, dear Russian officers and military personnel, your "30 pieces of silver," for which Judas sold Christ, have a price for your life. Just get your two million rubles, not you, but your widows. You can get, at best, in the order of your turn your 2 meters of land.

And you all know who is to blame and keep silent. Well, keep quiet. You will not be indestructible and legendary with such a disgrace.

Under these conditions, investigators should not close human rights activists in pre-trial detention centers, but those who are stoned with machine guns are running around and the entire leadership of the Ministry of Defense, headed by the Commander-in-Chief. But this is in another country ... and in Russia, praise and honor is just that.

My morning began with the next message asking for help:

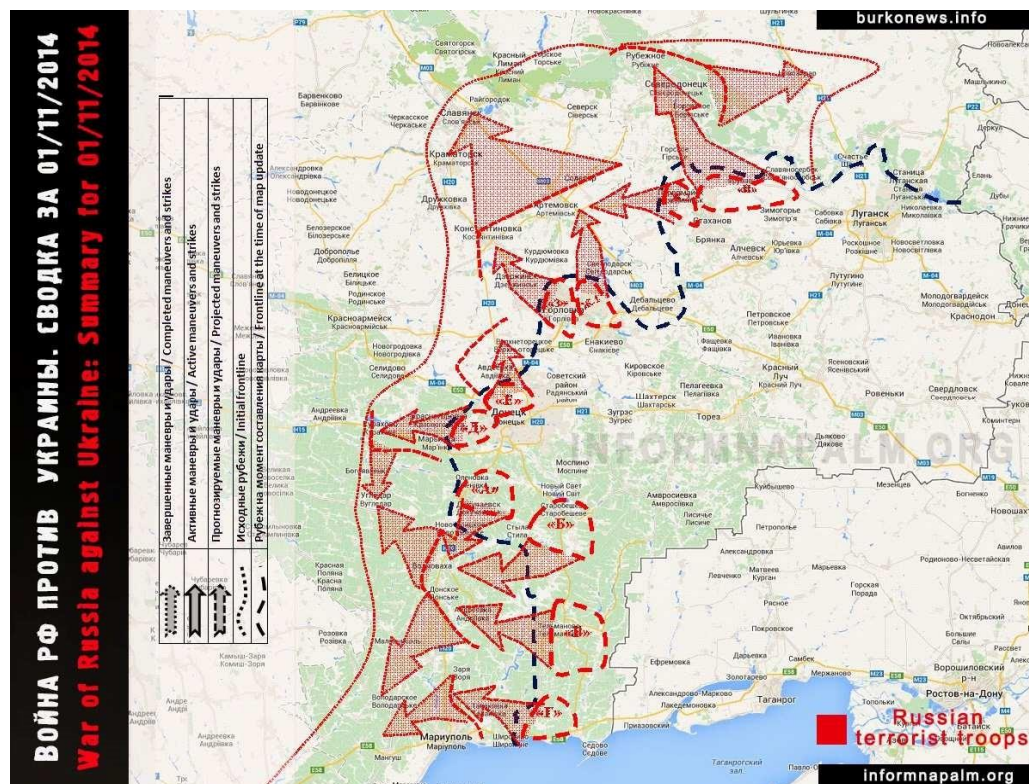

Hello, Elena. My name is Irina. I wanted to ask your help as much as possible. It is very important for me to know about the situation in Ukraine in Donetsk. The fact is that a detachment of soldiers from the city of Kyakhta, the Naushki region, is sent there to strengthen the defense. My brother is in the squad, he is the only breadwinner in the family and his brother is disabled and paralyzed. There is very little time left. Any information is important. How bad is everything? I can't release him with a heavy heart to certain death ... Thank you in advance, I will be very grateful if you can help me with anything.

In Buryatia there really is a military town with the name Kyakhta, and the military unit 69647 located there - the 37th Separate Motorized Rifle Brigade. After the last exercises, about which the relatives of the servicemen did not know anything, this military unit was missed by so many of its fighters. All of them were seen in battles near Ilovaisk and Debaltseve. And as one of the military said: "They serve for relatives while the guys are in the fridges, and little by little they give them out ..."

It was they who stood by the wall when an agreement was reached on the withdrawal of Ukrainian special forces and Russian wounded and prisoners of war from the Ilovaysky cauldron. It was them, along with others, that Russian troops unexpectedly started shooting in the field. And Joseph Kobzon was discouraged when he visited a hospital and stumbled upon burnt wounded Buryats. Buryat applicants, whom trolls like to joke about, have become quite real conscripts. And the names of many dead are yet to be determined.

And, as in other regions of Russia, many are still waiting for their sons from the army, and cases where "scandalous" parents in search of the truth go ahead are very rare. And the death of the guys is carefully hidden.

Every day I get dozens of letters asking me to find relatives or help save ... And the flow is growing. And even more letters from mothers asking to tell about the circumstances of the death of their sons.

For those Russians who still do not understand: our army has invaded the territory of Ukraine, is gaining ground in Donetsk and Lugansk regions. Just in case, I'll clarify again for those who think that there is a civil war: Russian cities from a distance of 40 km hit the settlements in which people live, namely women, children, old people. They hit houses, hospitals, and schools. There are practically no survivors after such shelling. And Life News and NTV will tell you again how evil ukry beat their population, and you, I'm afraid, will believe it again ...

Chapter 6 Cargo-200 become a state secret

On October 22, 2014, Vladimir Putin signed the amendments to the federal law "On the monetary allowance of military personnel and the provision of separate payments to them". And not only them, but also their family members, since "it is envisaged to pay monthly monetary compensation also to family members of military personnel or citizens called up for military training, missing in the exercise of their military duties and recognized by the law as missing or declared dead." Oops!

The families of those who did not return from the "exercises in the Rostov Region" or accidentally got lost and got to the Donbass, the payment of monetary compensation is promised and guaranteed.

One thing is bad, the updated law came into force only on January 1, 2016. And until this moment, while the war continues, and the military personnel and mercenaries of the Russian Federation take part in it, you may not even know about their death ...

This is not at all beneficial to high ranks.

High officials of the FSB of the Russian Federation, who directly lead the process of issuing compensations, earn money, and not small ones, on the deaths of Russian troops. This was told to me by a source in the Ministry of Defense of the Russian Federation, and not one..

The money laundering scheme is as brilliant as ever: depending on the position, one serviceman or mercenary relies on an amount of 6.5 to 11.5 thousand US dollars per month. As of the end of August 2014, the list of those killed among the employees of special forces of the FSB, the Ministry of Defense, and the Ministry of Internal Affairs of the Russian Federation included 1,606 people, who allocated more than 10 million US dollars per month.

The humble leaders of the special services decided not to report the real figures of the dead, thereby continuing to appropriate the funds allocated for the maintenance of the dead. By October, the death toll of "on exercises" in firing at live targets in the form of the Ukrainian people reached 4.5 thousand ...

The modest business of military officials provoked an angry murmur not only among the ministers of the military department, but already seriously angered the officers of the army. Every honored and thoughtful officer understands that he is simply betrayed, leaving without shoulder straps, ranks, promised benefits, as with apartments, his family will be left without funds. It is enough to go to the Voensud forum to see how the military has been trying for decades to beat out the promised housing, and more. For years it's unknown to lie in the fridges or undergo a purification with a mobile crematorium, which is also not an enviable prospect for the defender of the Fatherland.

The ideological inspirer and leader of this scheme is Deputy Director of the FSB - Head of the Federal Border Service of the Russian Federation, Colonel General VG Kulishov, about which the officers indignantly outraged by such a gamble told.

... The blogosphere was shot around by a photograph of the murdered Russian mercenary Pavel Bulanov, in uniform, with his badge, with documents ...

... My next morning was blown up by a letter from a journalist from Yekaterinburg who contacted the relatives of Pavel Bulanov, a security guard who died at the Donetsk airport. On the same day, relatives themselves came to me, who would like to take the body of the deceased but are afraid to go to Ukraine. Despite the fact that I and even the Ukrainian media offered relatives assistance, they were afraid to go to Ukraine, believing that the Nazis specially lured them. Long negotiations did not yield any results.

In the end, this body lay in the morgue for more than 3 months, before they delivered the killed man with incredible tricks to their relatives.

I did not believe that they could board the train and come through Kiev to officially pick up the body. The Russians were so convinced that every Ukrainian is a fascist and a murderer that arguing with them was simply pointless.

Yes, parents cannot stop sending their children to military service, but they are quite able to start writing requests to military prosecutors, demanding prosecutor's checks: how many military equipment were suddenly decommissioned, checking the payroll in each military town, in each military unit in Russia!!!

Письмо на 1 канал центрального российского телевидения Андрею Малахову

I repeat, no bodies are held in captivity. If you were told that your loved one has died, calmly come to Ukraine and pick up, they will also help you take them out. And they will help to tell about your grief.

Putin does not stop. He goes on. And now, in Russia there is the Day of the Unknown Soldier - cynicism has gone wild. There is no war, there are 200 cargoes and the celebration of the day of the unknown soldier appeared in Russia on December 3.

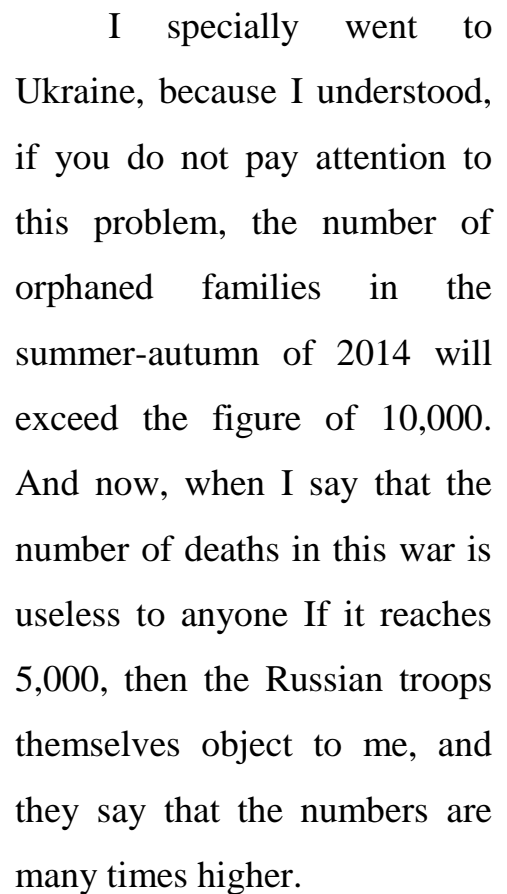

Why did you suddenly need such a day?

After all, the deceased could become famous if in Russia, following the example of Ukraine cursed by it, DNA was taken from each deceased. And relatives could look for their "losses". But it's not cost-effective, officials are not profitable, and women still give birth ... Cynically.

Now that the Russians are openly lying on TV screens that there are no Russian troops in Ukraine, the number of unknown soldiers is growing exponentially. A caring Russian commander-in-chief did everything possible to ensure that Russian servicemen and the so-called militias returned home as rarely as possible. Or as long as possible did not return. I already wrote that as soon as they come to the Ukrainian border they take away all mobile phones, documents, tokens, watches, in a word, all identification marks. Shoulder straps also take off so that everyone becomes

And sometimes I so want to sit at the same table in front of the cameras of these howling freaks, calling me a traitor; parents who have lost their sons, and military personnel who have visited these meat grinders. And, I think, the excuses in the spirit of "Well, I didn't know," would not have been given a round table

A Russian journalist from Rostov wrote to me and said that a cemetery in Rostov was growing strangely and very suspiciously. we agreed with her about certain actions, and as a result of her investigation, the news broke the blogosphere: at the Northern cemetery of Rostov, the graves of several hundred young unknown men hastily dug by a bulldozer. And if in Ukraine every unknown person is buried under a number corresponding to DNA analysis, including the Russian military, then in Russia and in the so-called New Russia, they are simply buried under numbers. After all, identification marks were preliminarily taken away from everyone ... And specialists - forensic experts in DNA selection from Donetsk have long moved to Dnepropetrovsk and Zaporozhye and work there for days. And in these conditions, the chances of finding a dead Russian military are nullified.

Cemeteries in Donetsk and Lugansk began to grow. And now people from different places began to send us maps of the areas where fresh graves with numbers grow with incredible speed.

Why are Russian losses hidden with such stubbornness? The answer is again simple.

Because the maintenance of a Russian soldier per month spends from 5i to 10 thousand dollars. Yes, American dollars, not rubles. And while such a serviceman is “on balance”, funds are allocated by the state for its maintenance. And if he died - no money is allocated. What a scope for business

And the longer he knows where, and is not recognized as dead, the longer someone in his pocket for his maintenance receives free money ... The oligarchs from the war.

And these unknowns are becoming more and more every day. On December 1-2, 2014, near the Donetsk airport, 27 Russian commandos dressed in “American” were destroyed at once in the very uniform of “astronauts” in which they dispersed the Russian opposition on May 6, 2012 on Bolotnaya Square. And this is not the first case of mass death of special forces in this form. And while for the first time, special forces soldiers dressed in such uniforms somewhat shocked the Ukrainian military, now it’s clear that they, in uniforms that help disperse peaceful demonstrations, are completely stupid in real combat. In total for these two days of fighting almost 70 people were missing. Perhaps there are some.

Recently, I have heard from many: “America needs this,” and in correspondence with the relatives of a soldier who died in the Donbass

Taaeva from the Rostov Region also read the words of his heartbroken mother:

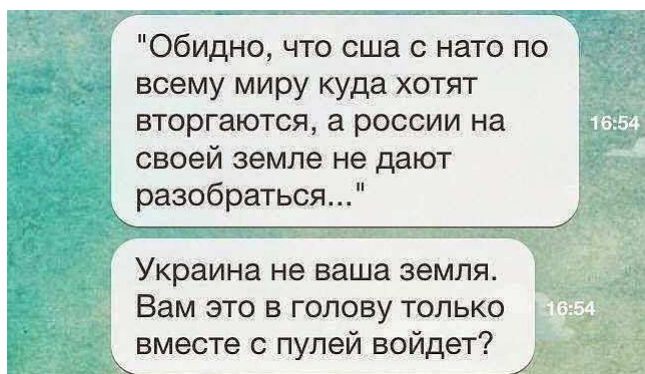

"It's America's fault ..."

What is America to blame? Is that the son from the bottom of his heart went to destroy the fraternal people of Ukraine?

“No, they answer me,” he went to destroy the fascists that America had generated ...

After such words, I have questions: do America even know that it created fascists in Ukraine? I think no. It is unlikely that before the events with the overthrow of the Crimea by Russia, America generally thought about Ukraine ...

Does she know that she is to blame for the fact that someone Taaev Murad (call sign "Metis") from the village of Nizhny Salovsk, Semikarakorsky District, Rostov Region, was killed because of America? I think he doesn't know either. Murad would sit at home, go to work, and would not climb weapons to a foreign country, would be alive. But no. America is to blame..

According to this logic, by December 2014, almost 5,000 Russian servicemen were to blame for America, too, and not the one who sent them to Ukraine by order. The one who said that he does not know what his salary is because they bring it and he puts it in a drawer ...

Meanwhile, according to reports before the next “truce”, in accordance with the Minsk agreements:

The irreparable loss of (killed) regular troops of the Russian Federation in the war in Ukraine from 02.10.15 to 02.19.15

02/10/15 - 170 people;

02/11/15 - 48 people;

02/12/15 - 32 people;

02/13/15 - 82 people;

02/14/15 - 207 people;

02/15/15 - 140 people;

02.16.15 -. 11 people 02/17/15 - 61 people;

02/18/15 - 43 people;

02/19/15 - 88 people.

*TOTAL for 10 days of February -
882 people.*

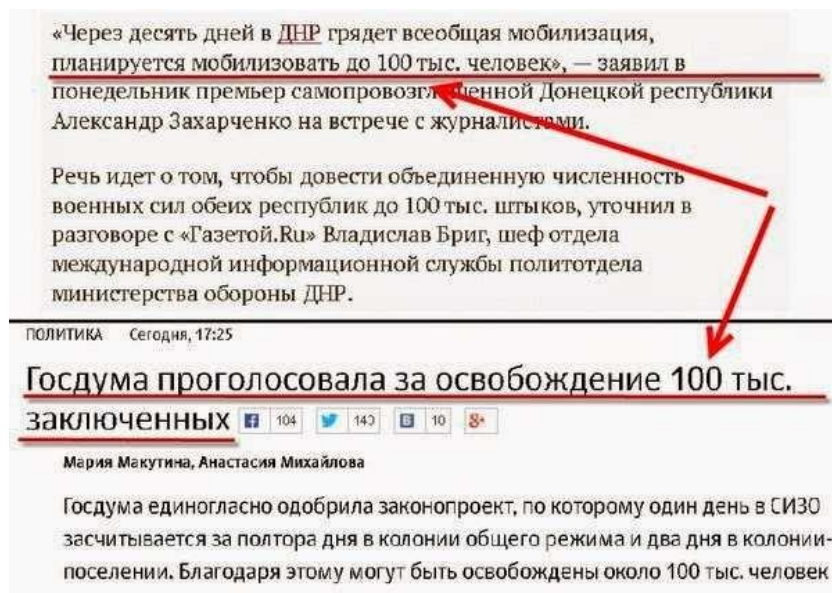

And how many people have died since August, it's hard to say, the numbers are approximate, because there are also missing persons. According to our group, at the beginning of March 2015, the figure crawled up to 10,000 dead Russians in Ukraine, namely 9,820 people. Winter, the Russian army with humanitarian aid did not send military field hospitals. Injury, frostbite ...

Those who were at the so-called exercises in the Rostov region do not want to return there anymore. Why is there only one scandal, or rather, its continuation in military unit N10544 in the Murmansk region ... 23 contract soldiers of the 536th separate coastal missile and artillery Northern Fleet of the Russian Navy, brigades of military unit 10544 complained about their command, demanding to protect their rights. They intended to send them back to the so-called exercises, to shoot ukrov. Since such orders in military units are given orally, the military recalled the sanctity of the order, written ... which is absolutely true.

In addition to these 23s, another 58 obstinate troops were called to the authorities for rulers who did not want to defend it. It is not clear who in Ukraine. 8 of them terminated the military contract.

Lieutenant Colonel Vyacheslav Okanev, the political officer of unit 10544, spoke with the contract soldiers, declared to the soldiers: "If there is an order, you can go on a business trip to conduct exercises in an unfamiliar area." Moreover, in any military district: "Maybe there is such a situation, and what they will throw to the borders of Ukraine, I already told you about this, then military missions can immediately arise there, and then you will carry out the military order."

On January 31, in connection with the dissatisfaction of the soldiers, Okanev arrived at Sputnik and again called the soldiers to talk, where he repeated the story of the need to send his subordinates to Ukraine, the publication reported. According to the publication, when the soldiers began to ask Okanev about a possible trip to Ukraine, he replied: "You are going to study in an unfamiliar area. Will these exercises be in Bryansk, Voronezh region, in the Rostov region,

(you can) stay there. I do not exclude that there is an option of moving to the territory of Donetsk and Lugansk regions to provide direct assistance there. "

The key words here are: "... to any military district ..." since it has long been known that before entering Ukraine, Russian military units are mixed so that in case of loss, it is not clear who was gone and from which region. Gone and that's it.

The same stories are happening more and more often in different parts of a vast country ...

That is why, to ensure the number of warring fighters, more than 100,000 convicts are already being released from the Russian side, passing it off as general mobilization in the DPR. The local population of the so-called DPR has long been fleeing.

But the most disgusting thing is that inexperienced conscripts are again sent to this massacre.

In the spring of 2015, when Putin announced to the whole of Europe that on May 9 he would celebrate in Warsaw, Berlin and the capitals of other states, he continued to applaud with padded jackets, rejoicing at the future deaths of innocent citizens of other countries. After all, Putin wants to attack European states!

Putin has prepared Russian society for the massacre, and everyone rejoices: "we are the Iskander gayropu." And no one understands, or does not want to understand, that Europe can give a single rebuff from a more powerful weapon in order to wipe out the hotbed of fascism from the face of the earth, which became the Putin regime with its aggressive ambitions.

I'm really sorry for the people. It is a pity for the deceived and wounded, children and the elderly, who die under the bombing of Russian guns. But, apparently, a real understanding can fly to the Russians stupefied by propaganda only with a shell in their house.

Experts are shocked by the statistics of losses: for 3 Ukrainian fighters from 30 to 50 Russian. Fights for the Donetsk airport became a litmus test for debunking the myth of the invincibility of the Russian army. Despite the so-called hybrid, non-contact war, Russian troops suffer a crushing defeat on all sectors of the front in the Donbass. It is worth remembering that before the Russian invasion of Ukraine, Ukraine itself did not possess a sufficiently equipped army. The army of Ukraine in the shortest possible time was created by its own people. This unique phenomenon is still worth exploring and considering more closely. Ukraine did not expect an attack from fraternal Russia. Rather, with all its aspirations to become a European civilized state, Ukraine strengthened its western borders from invasion. Therefore, the tension that is sown by militaristic Russia is more like a bluff.

But this bluff is not without a real threat. Putin and his entourage finally lost touch with reality. The saber-rattling, the escalation of hysteria, as the first step in the information war, clearly correspond to Goebbels's plans and their first part: drive

One can only hope that some remnants of reason were able to activate in Putin, and that he nevertheless understands that the game he started is too dangerous, and it will inevitably end with the destruction of his personal Russia.

1. Внести в перечень сведений, относящихся к государственной тайне, утвержденный Указом Президента Российской Федерации от 30 ноября 1995 г. № 1203 "Об утверждении перечня сведений, относящихся к государственной тайне" (Собрание законодательства Российской Федерации, 1995, № 49, ст. 4775; 2006, № 8, ст. 892; 2007, № 53, ст. 6550; 2008, № 15, ст. 1525; № 18, ст. 2007; № 31, ст. 3702; № 37, ст. 4182; 2009, № 21, ст. 2547; № 24, ст. 2919; № 40, ст. 4684; 2011, № 24, ст. 3414; № 39, ст. 5456; 2013, № 12, ст. 1248; № 39, ст. 4967; 2014, № 21, ст. 2685; № 26, ст. 3525; № 36, ст. 4825; № 40, ст. 5412), следующие изменения:

1) пункт 10 изложить в следующей редакции:

"10. Сведения, раскрывающие потери Минобороны России"; личного состава в военное время, в мирное время в период проведения специальных операций

2) пункт 22 после слов "Минпромторг России" дополнить
словами "Минстрой России";

3) пункт 25 после слов "Минобороны России" дополнить
словами "Минздрав России";

And here is an absolutely amazing thing.

Despising absolutely all international agreements, international law, Vladimir Putin signs the Decree on the classification of losses among military personnel in peacetime.

Namely, President of the Russian Federation Vladimir Putin classified information on losses among military personnel of the Ministry of Defense of the Russian Federation during military service, exercises and special operations in peacetime as state secrets.

By this decree, the President of the Russian Federation also classified information about persons who are being studied by Russian special services and law enforcement officers in order to attract them to cooperate on a confidential basis through intelligence, counterintelligence and operational-search activities. It is worth noting that earlier only information about persons who were involved in this kind of cooperation was classified as secret.

Corresponding amendments were made to the decree of the former president of the Russian Federation Boris Yeltsin No. 1203 of November 30, 1995. Previously, state secret in the Russian Federation was information about personnel losses only during hostilities.

For the disclosure of state secrets under the law can face up to seven years in prison. And Russian human rights activists decided to appeal this decree in the Supreme Court. Lawyers, journalists, human rights activists, politicians, including war journalist convicted of espionage Grigory Pasko, as well as resident of Vyazma Svetlana Davydova, previously accused of treason, put their signatures on the president's decree. The plaintiffs believed that the presidential decree violates the right to freedom of information and contradicts the law on state secrets. Moreover, the term "special operations" does not exist in the legislation, which also introduces uncertainty into the situation.

At the same time, as noted by foreign media, both sides - the applicants and the president's representatives - carefully avoided any mention of Ukraine and the conflict in the Donbass. The only one who directly touched on this topic was the large mother of Davydov. "I believe that this decree was issued in order to classify the illegal use of Russian citizens in illegal "special operations "on so-called vacations in Ukraine," the woman arrested after she told the Ukrainian Embassy that she was located at the military unit was empty next to her house, and suggested that the military was sent to the Donbass. In March 2015, the criminal case against Davydova was dismissed for lack of corpus delicti - after this incident received widespread publicity.

The president in court instructed the Russian Ministry of Defense to represent its interests. Representatives of the president said that all the claims of the plaintiffs are "unfounded and not supported by evidence", the proposed amendment does not contradict the current legislation and is consistent with the Russian Constitution.

As a result, the judge recognized Putin's decree as legal and rejected the claimants' statement. "We expected a failure, so no one will give up. On the contrary, the decision of the Supreme Court gives us reason to appeal to the Constitutional Court, and here we will already have the opportunity to check the legislative foundations of the state secret institution, which is high time to get it out of the closet and shake it

Если российских военных нет на Донбассе, откуда у нас в армии потери в мирное время и зачем их засекречивать? Как-то неловко спалились

Fixing losses in the war in the Donbass, when all information about the deceased is instantly erased, is very difficult. And suddenly, the Russian publication “Business Life”, which reports on markets, finances and business, in one of the analytical materials entitled: “Increase in Payments to the Military in 2015” accidentally published the number of Russian soldiers killed in the hostilities in Ukraine. Censors quickly deleted the numbers, but they were already picked up by other journalists, in addition, the data remained in the web archive.

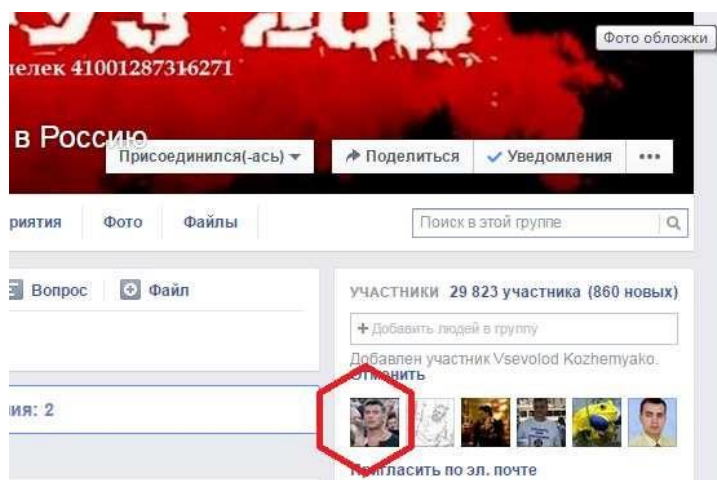

This was written by columnist Paul Roderick Gregory in a publication for Forbes.

The author noted that one of the sections of the report was formulated as follows:

"Compensation to military personnel for participating in the hostilities in Ukraine in 2014-2015." "So, for the families of the dead soldiers who took part in the hostilities in Ukraine, monetary compensation is 3 million rubles, and for those who received disabilities during the fighting - 1.5 million rubles. In addition, the payment of" combat "for each day of stay in the zone of military conflict in the amount of 1.8 thousand rubles. Total as of 1

February 2015, cash has already been paid compensation for more than 2 thousand families of the dead and for 3.2 thousand military men who were seriously injured and recognized as disabled, "said a deleted article in the Russian media.

The article refers to the Decree of the President of the Russian Federation Vladimir Putin to classify the number of dead Russian soldiers "in times of peace." If families disclose that their sons have died in Ukraine, they will lose all payments and pensions, in addition, criminal punishment is established for this. The mothers of the dead soldiers of the Russian Federation were declared "foreign agents" for collecting data on the number of losses in an undeclared war. Dissident Boris Nemtsov was killed for his research on the participation of the Russian army in the war in the Donbass. And human rights defenders, due to obstacles from the authorities, were able to confirm only a few hundred losses. However, the real data, as we see, still got into the press.

The article says that this incident completely destroyed Putin's myth about the "insignificant number of Russian patriots" who died in the Donbass, "fighting against neo-fascists".

Gregory noted that the Kremlin's lies about the absence of the Russian army in Ukraine became apparent. And, despite all this evidence, only a quarter of Russians still believe that Russia has sent troops to Ukraine. This is despite the fact that two thousand Russian soldiers are lying in the graves, and another three thousand disabled people live next to those who do not believe that they were in the Donbass. And the more mutilated and dead will be on the Russian side, the more this faith will grow

Елена, мы обращались к вам осенью в поисках моего брата. После того, как Вы опубликовали его фамилию, к нам домой нагрянули высокие чины из оборонного министерства. Вы не представляете, как они угрожали всей нашей семье. Требовали, чтобы мы не искали Игоря, потому что он из разведки. А потом мне написал мужчина, сказал, что прочитал Вашу публикацию и нашел меня по имени. И рассказал, где и как все произошло. И даже дал ссылку на рассказ об этом бое в вашей группе. Он сказал, что Игорь еще в морге. Его не хотели возвращать в Россию. Но из-за Вашей публикации там был скандал. И тело оставили на хранении. Мы смогли связаться с моргом и забрали Игоря. Больно все это, очень больно. Но спасибо за Ваш труд. Ведь если бы не Вы мы бы так и не узнали, где Игорь. Сначала мама ругалась, говорила, что вы продали Россию. А потом, когда Игоря нашли, она молится за Ваше здоровье и за то, что Бог послал такого Ангела на землю. Вам наверно очень трудно. Inside this
supervised by the special registrations department. In all regional divisions of the FSB of the Russian Federation, special groups have been created, subordinate exclusively to the 6th service of the FSB of the Russian Federation, to implement this issue. All units of the military commissariats, public organizations, foundations, and individuals involved in this matter are required to coordinate their actions with these groups.

All cash payments are made by representatives of the 6th FSB service

RF directly in the places of arrival of mercenaries. Payments are precisely established - 40 000 rubles. as lifting payments, 500 000 rub. simultaneous payments in case of injury and 1 million simultaneous payments in case of death (the last two payments are made by specially designated insurance companies in each area)..

In reality, all this reorganization came down to the redistribution of cash flows and the organization of elementary deception of potential mercenaries. To receive payments for injuries and death, a certificate from a special medical commission is required, and in case of death, a death certificate, which is extremely difficult to obtain in the current situation.

In addition, after the entry into force of the Decree on peacetime losses, relatives have no right to search for their dead, to establish the circumstances of death. Yes, and finding the body of the deceased is becoming more problematic. After all, he died in a time of peace, inside Russia. He left voluntarily.

But relatives are looking for their husbands and sons who have disappeared in the Donbass. They are looking in groups of the DPR, LPR, and there are already those who are catching these relatives and explaining to them “Putin’s policy”. But not everyone succeeds in restraining. And people find me, our group “Cargo 200 from Ukraine to Russia”, they write for pre-moderation and personally at all our addresses they know.

And, of course, there is practically no information about such volunteers. They are classified.

Nevertheless, even in the military department there are people who are ready to at least partially share information and reveal secrets.

Consider some statistics that were sent to us from the Ministry of Defense of the Russian Federation.

What are the numbers available to us through this information? During the period from August to December 2014, 3355 mercenaries recruited by state bodies of the Russian Federation on the territory of the Russian Federation were transferred to the territory of Ukraine (column No. 2)

1317 cargoes-200 sent to Chechnya. The numbers are absolutely accurate as of 01.10.2014.

As for the Russian mercenaries, I repeat, there is no exact information about these losses. Accounting for losses in illegal armed groups is simply not kept. Data has to be determined by analyzing documents obtained from various sources. These data are quite approximate and the error can be up to plus / minus 10-12%.

For the period from May - August 2014 36062 people were recruited through recruitment in military enlistment offices. Of these, he returned home (to varying degrees of integrity) - 10875.

In my blog, I published a correspondence with one of the relatives of the victim in the Donbass - Mikhail Shishaev

In one of the fragments of correspondence there is such a paragraph:

... He was taken to the Rostov Military Hospital in June 2014 and a month later buried in the Northern Cemetery of Rostov under the pseudonym Razin, and his relatives were informed at the end of December. The most interesting thing is that the representative of the DPR in the Rostov region issued a death certificate in the name of Razin. When the relatives asked why we need a certificate for a pseudonym and what to do with it, they were told that mothers must pass samples of biomaterial for genetic testing. To the question: why the relatives were not informed at the burial, who will conduct the examination and, most importantly, who and on the basis of which legal acts the exhumation will be carried out, there were no answers. Two weeks later we were told that an exhumation and examination was carried out, a coincidence of 99.9 percent and a death certificate was issued in the name of M. Shishaev. I was at the cemetery, the grave is not touched. They gave an act of forensic medical examination. This is a laugh, it does not indicate who conducted the examination, on what basis, what biomaterials were used for the comparative study, where they were taken from, there is no expert signature, and most interestingly, all this nonsense is certified by the seal of the DPR ...

Think about how many absurdities in this paragraph alone.

If he was wounded and brought to the Rostov military hospital, why didn't they immediately inform the relatives? Why was it necessary to bury secretly, and even under the pseudonym "Razin", if Mikhail had his own call sign "Cossack"? I'm just silent about the allegedly conducted genetic examination, because the Russian Ministry of Defense has repeatedly stated that such tests are too expensive and they try not to conduct them.

Some kind of Middle Ages.

Relatives are in doubt. And there is something.

But if in this case, relatives took an active position in the search for truth, then what about thousands of others?

Well ... already I hear the howl of trolls, they say, Vasilyeva again buries thousands of people. For those who do not believe, and for those who are really looking for the missing, I offer you a short excursion to the so far accessible burial sites.

So, the Northern cemetery in Rostov. At my request, back in October 2014, a Russian journalist visited and took hundreds of photos that we posted in the group "Cargo 200 from Ukraine to Russia". Then the trolls and various "network madmen" fell upon me - "you are lying."

But the cemetery was growing. And even the Kremlin bots were at a loss to answer what kind of death is this on the streets of Rostov. After all, the official authorities reacted and began to claim that it was the dead homeless people of Rostov gathered from the streets.

Meanwhile, the cemetery was growing. And these tablets with the name N.M. they no longer met simply between well-groomed graves, but began to occupy quite tangible spaces. But still, a year later, the cemetery's leadership is not able to give a direct answer: who exactly is buried under these signs.

In the meantime, an equally interesting fact was sent to our group: in Rostov, between Temernitsky, Verkhnetemernitsky and the Temernik River, one more mass grave was discovered, which came from nowhere.

And again, those responsible cannot say anything sensible for almost a year now.

Most of the graves indicate the dates of death in the summer-autumn of 2014, while the age of the buried is 20-40 years old.

In this regard, it is worth recalling that the "command" of the armed groups of the "DPR" issued a special "order" to transport 200 cargo with Russian citizens directly to Rostov-on-Don. No paperwork for death and sorting at local morgues is required. There are special Russian specialists who are engaged in the classification of bodies and the establishment of their affiliation to local or Russian. This operation takes place on the territory occupied by militants "DNR" or "LNR".

At the same time, getting into Rostov, the bodies are also sorted by Russian military personnel and "militias". Here, too, specially trained people are engaged in the "correct" accounting of corpses. If the "vacationer" is recorded as being killed in the exercises, if the mercenary with relatives is an accident, and if it is impossible to identify without relatives, it is simply an unidentified criminal corpse lying on the street.

Sensibly invented by the guys ...

Those who were completely impossible to identify after the bombing, including civilians, are slowly trying to be disposed of in mobile crematoriums.

But those who went to fight for the mythical New Russia also have their own code of honor. And, knowing how they relate to the bodies of the dead, spontaneous memorials of memory began to arise on the territory of the DPR / LPR, such as on Saur-Mogile, where 18 people were buried. Among them are Russian military personnel and the vast majority of militias.

The well-known memorial complex to those who died in World War II after fierce battles of the Russian army with the Ukrainian one is completely bombed.

Well, the mercenaries do not want their military comrades buried like dogs in the Northern Cemetery of Rostov. And regularly scandalized about this with the "central" government. If you google, you yourself can find publications with similar scandals.

Nevertheless, the "central" power, that is, the gangs under the leadership of Plotnitsky and Zakharchenko, regularly send refrigerated trucks with corpses to Rostov, clearly following the instructions of the FSS.

But a critical mass has arrived. And to take out so many killed was already inexpedient. So the Kremlin puppeteers thought. And in Donetsk, N.M. or known as callsigns.

The first such photo was published by Ilya Varlamov in his blog and in our group

And he commented: The cemetery of the militias, they themselves call it the "walk of fame." A lot of bodies remain unidentified, in such cases the graves are marked with numbers.

The fact is that the comrades of the dead Russian mercenaries still consider them heroes, even if Russia publicly refuses them. More than once, funerals came to Russia from the LNR and DNR to the relatives of the victims, in which caring colleagues described the circumstances and the place of death with a note that "heroically died for the freedom of New Russia", etc. Everything is as it should, with the seals and signatures of the commanders.

And in Donetsk, a militant cemetery called Russian mercenaries

"Walk of Fame", over the past year has grown three times. In total, according to cemetery caretakers, the total number of militants buried in Donetsk is up to five thousand. But you simply can't get to these cemeteries.

It is known that there are a lot of mined sites. For what?

At the cemetery of the mine settlement "6-Capital", near the village of Mospino near Donetsk - fresh graves with signs "Unknown fighter". There are dozens of them, perhaps hundreds. There are established Orthodox crosses with a numbered tablet. Here and there photographs are attached to them.

Young boys and girls, adult men look at the lens, clutching weapons in their hands. Photos faded and changed the faces of those depicted on them.

The earth has not yet sank on fresh graves, but you rarely see flowers or candles on them. The militants find the last refuge here, and not all of their relatives know where their son or daughter died..

"Relatives of the unknown victims, it happens, come in search of the grave of a loved one. After all, they are all numbered. They are looking through the morgue." The 6-Kapitalnoye cemetery began to grow last year, and even now several pits are ready here - apparently just in case. Given that just a couple of kilometers away, near Mospino, there is a militant training ground on which the sounds of artillery are not silent, the case may come at any moment.

The churchyard itself is conditionally divided between civilians and warriors. For most civilians, the last refuge is well-groomed and cleaned, for the militants, as already mentioned, only a few graves covered with wreaths. The latter are dated to the end of August of this year. A lot of January and August last year. It seems that on the date plates you can study the history of the military conflict in the Donbass. Here is August 2014 (battles near Ilovaisk), here is June 2015 (battles near Maryinka and Shirokino) ... But if there is a tablet with a name and a date, that's good. Much worse than the nameless "fighters number ..." to which no one will ever come. "

Workers in Donetsk cemeteries are not surprised at anything. Also used to. "Though they don't make us dig with shovels, they drive special equipment — they even know which one. There is only one clay, not every tractor can dig a hole. At the same time, every battalion digs for itself, we can't bury strangers into such blanks," says digger Alexander. "We never know how much we will bury. We are phoned and they are already confronted with the fact that they will bring so many coffins. They buried especially many when the fighting went to the airport. They brought mostly unknown people," Alexander continues .- "... bodies in a cemetery are sometimes delivered in a terrible state "It also happened that rubber gloves had to be worn so that coffins could be unloaded from the car. The corpses were brought so decomposed that they flowed! The smell in the back of the car was terrible! But work is work, and who will allow us to refuse?"

Militants are also buried in the Southern cemetery near Donetsk. "Eight people were buried a couple of times a day," said the cemetery employee. "They have their own place here."

In total, according to the caretakers, the total number of militants buried in Donetsk has long exceeded 5 thousand.

Due to shelling in Donetsk, access to two cemeteries is closed - Zastantsionny (better known as the "15th cemetery") in the Kuibyshevsky district and NovoIgnatievsky in the Kievsky district, near the airport. For the second year now, hundreds of Donetsk people cannot get to the graves of their loved ones.

"Of course, closed graveyards are not guarded by machine gunners with dogs, and you can get into them, but not a single normal person will go there - everything is mined there, there are plenty of stretch marks," summarize the cemetery staff and local residents.

Unlike Russia and the unrecognized republics of the LPR-DPR, the Ukrainian side carefully selects DNA from each body delivered from the battlefield. The decision to "collect everyone" was made a long time ago, since Russian mercenaries were constantly engaged in dressing up as Ukrainians.

So, in this report, I tried to talk about how our group began to work, that President Putin committed a secret crime with respect to his military personnel every day. The aggressive policy of the Russian leader has led to the fact that most countries of the world have already understood where the threat to peace comes from. But unfortunately, the peoples of Russia will not understand this in any way.

One and a half years of continuous work of my project significantly enriched me and all those who helped me with my valuable experience. And this experience suggests that Putin's regime is unprincipled, vile and merciless. For him, there is no people, nation, security. This regime is greedy, built on betrayal and enrichment.

In the history of mankind, Putin's rule will remain the blackest spot in Russia. But it will be later. In the meantime, despite the prohibitions, my project continues to exist. And many thanks to the admins of our group!

And all those who do not believe want to recall the immutable law of criminals: never to confess to anything. Therefore, the leaders of Russia under no circumstances will tell you the truth. All this, most likely, will lead to the second Nuremberg trials. And then the Truth will terrify many.

Chapter 7 Justification for data collection of materials and results of work

So, on August 19, 2015, one year has passed since the group "Cargo 200 from Ukraine to Russia" works. This group was created on the basis of the Aarhus Convention "On the right of citizens to access reliable information", ratified by the coordination center "Forgotten Regiment" due to:

- The UN Universal Declaration of Human Rights;
- Convention for the Protection of Human Rights and Fundamental Freedoms 1950 year;
- The International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights of 1966;
- European Convention on Human Rights
- Okinawa Charter for the Global Information Society
- Recommendations of the Committee of Ministers of the Council of Europe on

Among the main international acts regulating the right to reliable information, the Convention on Access to Information, Public Participation in the Decision Making Process, the Declaration on Freedom of Expression of Opinion and Information, a number of UN resolutions and recommendations, for example, 1636 "Indicators of Democracy in the Media", 1003 are important "On the ethical principles of journalism", 1142

"On parliaments and the media", etc.

So, Art. 19 of the International Covenant on Public and Political Rights states that everyone can freely use any information within their homeland and beyond its borders as a way of expressing their views. European Convention for the Protection of Human Rights and Fundamental Freedoms in Art. 10 supplements this provision with the need to authorize the use of information in order to ensure international security.

The following is a list of international legal acts that govern information relations, in particular documents that consider the general principles and norms of the right to information, have been ratified by Russia; acts guaranteeing freedom of speech, pluralism, etc .; acts that treat information as a product; acts prohibiting the dissemination of information; package of documents "international treaties on information property. "

International Convention on the Use of Broadcasting for Peace (1932 p.);

The Convention on the Prevention of the Circulation of and Trade in Pornographic Publications (1923) is the oldest international convention in the field of information. She calls on states to destroy and prevent the circulation of pornographic publications. This norm is consonant with the new law of the Russian Federation on the protection of children from harmful information;

Convention on the International Exchange of Publications (1958 p.);

Convention on the Exchange of Government Documents and Official Publications between States (1958 p.);

Regulation of the International Electronic Communications Union (1972 p);

International Convention on Electronic Communications (1982 p.);

UNESCO Declaration on the Principles of Satellite Communications (1972 p.);

The second section of the final act of the OSCE (1975 p.);

General Declaration of Human Rights (Article 19);

International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights (art. 20); American Convention on Human Rights, etc.

Among the normative documents on which international information relations are carried out,

The right to access information is a constitutional human right, which is provided for and guaranteed by article 34 of the Constitution
Of Ukraine

What are the results of this legendary group?

They are amazing.

1. None of the Facebook or other groups in the social networks of the world have done so much noise and controversy. The group deserves to be included in the Guinness Book of Records! What is the reason? At all times, when the rulers of the countries started a war, from the very beginning of any war there was no open statistics of losses on the attacking side. Russia did not expect a group of volunteers from various countries to come together who would not only monitor the losses, but talk about the battles in those places where the warrior died.

Most often, relatives after the war look for their missing and deceased for years. They are still looking for those who died in the Great Patriotic War, in Afghanistan, in Chechnya, in other local and interregional wars and conflicts of the 20th century. The desire of the Russian government to classify losses, to classify its presence on the territory of Ukraine crashed on the irrefutable facts of the lists compiled by Elena Vasilieva and her aides.

For this reason, an unprecedented persecution of the organizer of the group, the socio-political figure of Russia, the world-famous ecologist, Elena Vasilyeva, was launched. Tons of dirt, which were jointly organized by the GRU of the Russian Federation, the FSS and the Security Service of Ukraine, did not break the administrators of the group. Both central media and all the provocateurs in the Russian opposition were involved. Alexander Zuckerberger, the founder of the Facebook social network, withstood unprecedented pressure.

The group survived!

1. The desire of the Russian Ministry of Defense to hide the bodies of the dead Russian servicemen and Russian mercenaries in the Donbass is largely averted. Russian mothers and wives, mourning their sons, still do not know about the role that Elena Vasilieva played in the return of their dead children to her homeland, she was slandered and obedient to everyone who did not understand the situation. And while terrible gossip was spread that Vasilyeva was selling the bodies of the dead, Elena went to the Ukrainian morgues, investigated the mechanisms of DNA analysis and selection from the Ukrainian side, and showed Russian mothers where to go to get tested for identification. After all, the Ukrainian side does not spare money to establish every dead person, collects all abandoned bodies from the battlefield, trying to identify everyone.

2. Vasilyeva, at the risk of her life, in spite of totalitarian systems, voiced the names of the dead so that it was impossible to burn the body on the quiet in mobile crematoria and bury it in landings. She demanded that the Ministry of Defense of the Russian Federation take DNA tests from those whose body cannot be identified. And it was found that the Ministry of Defense of the Russian Federation is not profitable to conduct such analyzes. Many politicians in the world are convinced that with their death Boris Nemtsov closed and protected Elena Vasilyeva from reprisal.

3. The legal significance of the work of the “Cargo 200 from Ukraine to Russia” group lies in the fact that it highlighted to the whole world the grossest violations of international acts ratified by Russia prohibiting the dissemination of information (they are binding on all UN member countries and are part of national legislation of each state).

- Resolution of the UN General Assembly No. 110 part 2 of 11/3/1947 - condemnation of the propaganda of aggressive wars;

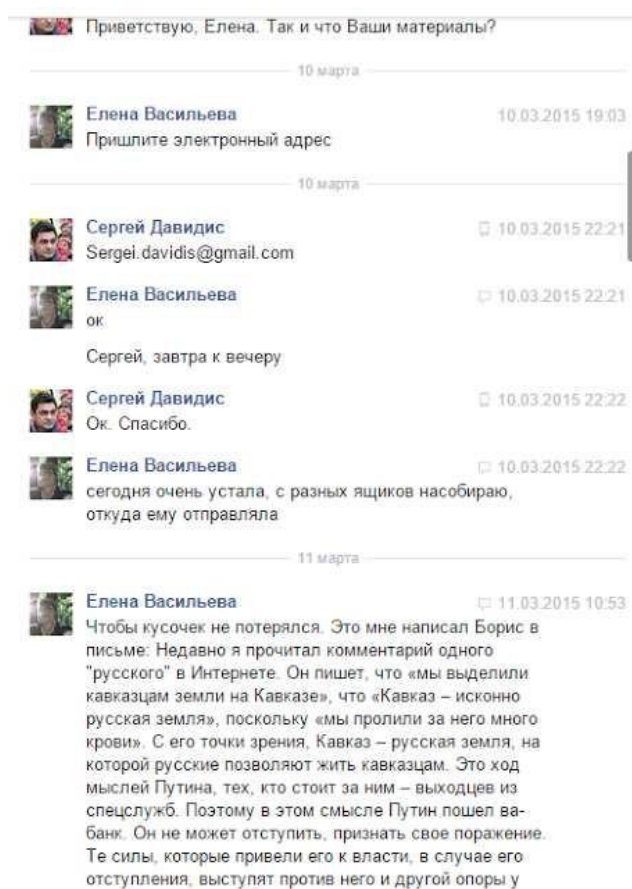

- The International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights of 1966 (Article 20 - prohibition by law of propaganda of aggression and violence);
- International Convention on the Elimination of All Forms of Racial discrimination of 1972;
- General Declaration of Human Rights (1948 p.); - Copyright Convention.

- If the state violates a binding document, then the state is subject to penalties, mainly political and economic. In case of violation of the recommendation document, the state may be subject to moral condemnation of the world community.

4. There is no doubt that the reaction to the work of the group “Cargo-200 from Ukraine to Russia” was the presentation of Prime Minister Dmitry Medvedev to President of Russia Vladimir Putin the adoption of the Decree on classifying losses of the Russian army in peacetime. However, this Decree is contrary to international standards on access to relevant information.

The RF Law “On Information” defines information as a general category of “information”, “data”, access to information means the ability to receive it and also use it. Moreover, the Law says that all citizens of the Russian Federation can freely distribute and receive information, except when this information is closed to public authorities, i.e. constitutes a state or other secret.

The Russian government needed a legal mechanism to counter the work of the legendary group. The lawyers, journalists, human rights activists of Russia joined in the contest of this Decree.

5. From the very beginning of the group's work, Boris Nemtsov was the first politician to be interested and Elena Vasilieva, as his long-term colleague in the fight against the totalitarian regime in Russia, regularly sent him reports on the group's work, its findings, important facts and documents. After a search and seizure of documents in Nemtsov's office on the day of his death, Vasilieva again collected all the materials and sent them to the leadership of the Solidarity movement so that Boris Nemtsov's report would be published. It doesn't matter who promoted this report, it is important that many have read it and learned the truth about this vile war. The fact that the Russians made accomplices of Putin's aggression.

6. The film by Elena Vasilyeva "Ukraine: In Search of Truth", played a decisive role in deciding at the first UN meeting on the issue of Ukraine, at which the audience had to answer one question: did Russia attack Ukraine. The commission's members managed to watch this film on the eve of the meeting, and the fact of the presence of 200 cargo (dead military personnel from Russia in the Donbass) allowed the commission's members to draw the correct conclusion: Russia proved itself to be an international aggressor and invader of foreign territories.

кавказцам земли на Кавказе», что «Кавказ — исконно русская земля», поскольку «мы пролили за него много крови». С его точки зрения, Кавказ — русская земля, на которой русские позволяют жить кавказцам. Это ход мыслей Путина, тех, кто стоит за ним — выходцев из спецслужб. Поэтому в этом смысле Путин пошел ва-банк. Он не может отступить, признать свое поражение. Те силы, которые привели его к власти, в случае его отступления, выступят против него и другой опоры у него не останется. То, о чем мы говорим — это соответствует глубинным архетипам русского национального сознания. Это народ, который живет действительно мыслями об империи, народ, который сформировался в процессе строительства империи и за ей восстановление они готовы многое простить своему руководству. Главное, чтобы мы были сильными и нас боялись. Когда Украина не сопротивлялась, наши смогли отобрать Крым достаточно легко, но как только Украина, благодаря не государству, а гражданскому обществу, начала сопротивляться, мы увидели, что наемники завязли в Донбассе. Государство в Украине лишь мешает сопротивлению путинской агрессии.

7. In parallel with the group's research, facts of the presence of Ukrainian military personnel in the Russian pre-trial detention center, as well as their trade in Russia, began to be revealed. This is the second convincing fact proving that Russia is conducting military operations on the territory of Ukraine. Vivid examples: Nadezhda Savchenko, Oleg Sentsov, Roman Cheremsky and hundreds of Ukrainians are still illegally held in Russian casemates. All these facts, together with lists of cargoes - 200 were regularly transmitted throughout the year to the OSCE, UN mission, to the US Congress through politicians - Andrei Illarionov, Garry Kasparov, formed the basis of the analysis of Andrei Piontkovsky, Avraam Shmulevich, Mikhail Goldenberg, Ilya Ponomarev and other political scientists

8. Since Russian propaganda tried to convince the whole world that a fascist regime was condemned in Ukraine, convicted in Nuremberg, Elena Vasilyeva traveled all over Ukraine, met with volunteers, ordinary citizens, excluding interaction with political parties and the country's leadership. She placed particular emphasis on her research in Western Ukraine. She filmed all her research on video. As a result, her documentary titled "Russians! You are being deceived! "This film contains the opinions of Ukrainians about the war in the Donbass and the causes of this war. And Ukrainians in different parts of the country call only one reason: Putin's totalitarian regime

9. At the same time, during the work of the Cargo-200 from Ukraine to Russia group, another interesting fact was highlighted: all ordinary Ukrainians began to rise to defend their homeland, to protect the integrity and indivisibility of their country. Volunteer battalions of ordinary citizens were created, and the population began to create volunteer centers to help their defenders. Like during the Great Patriotic War: everything for the front, everything for victory. The results of this study are reflected in the film Vasilyeva: "Ukraine scorched by the war"
- 10.10. Russian propaganda is trying to convince the whole world that the volunteer battalions "Right Sector", "Azov", "Donbass", "Dnipro", "Freedom", the battalion named after Dzhokhar Dudaev and others are neo-Nazi groups. In order to find out this statement of Russian propaganda, Vasilyeva visited the camps of these battalions, attended a rally of volunteer battalions at the headquarters of Bogdan Khmelnytsky in the Cold Yar. There is only one conclusion: the composition of volunteer battalions includes patriots of Ukraine, who are ready to give their lives for the integrity of their country, for their homeland. They sacredly keep the traditions of the ancient Family, honor Slavic traditions, use some elements of worship of the Sun and Nature. But nothing reminds even remotely of fascization, there is not a single neo-Nazi attribute. Bright colorful folk costumes, harem pants, forelocks, wreaths on their heads, the symbols of ancient Slavic births are present on the flags of volunteer battalions, as well as the colors of the flags withstanding the yellow-blue symbolism of the flag of Ukraine. Citizens - patriots of any country of the European Union, the USA, Canada, if an aggressor attacked them, would have created exactly the same volunteer battalions.

From the appeal of the “Forgotten Regiment” officers to President Poroshenko and the Ukrainian media:

... In addition to the reaction from Russia, the unprecedented pressure on citizens of all countries who help to gather reliable information about the conflict in the Donbass has become important steps in countering the work of the “Cargo 200 from Ukraine to Russia” project and its leader Elena Vasilyeva. In Ukraine itself, a number of politicians and officials were highlighted who used their official position to minimize the dissemination of information about the work of the group and this project. Intimidation, blackmail, fraud, illegal surveillance, wiretapping, hacking of personal mail, theft of mail, engaging Ukrainian and Russian media, creating videos that discredit honor and dignity, as well as the good name of an honest person - Elena Vasilyeva - all this was put to use inside most Ukraine by those who work to drag out this international conflict.

As a result of massive provocations at the international level, there was a misunderstanding of the processes taking place in Ukraine in relation to the “Cargo-200 from Ukraine to Russia” group and Elena Vasilyeva, and for more than two months the international community did not deal with the issues of Donbass until the provocative actions lost their force.

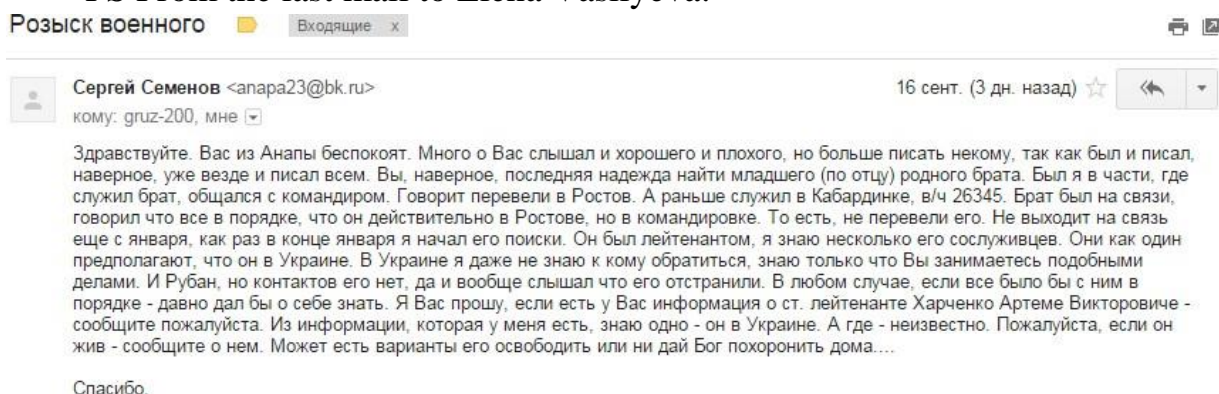

According to international observers, more than $ 500 million was spent on countering the work of this project. While the project itself exists solely on donations from ordinary citizens.

The budget of the project “Cargo 200 from Ukraine to Russia” for the year from August 19, 2014 to August 19, 2015 amounted to (including the creation and distribution of documentaries 2359 US dollars (USD))

The world has learned the truth about the war between Russia and Ukraine. Elena Vasilyeva herself, who did everything possible to maintain peace, prevent war, return the dead Russians, remains slandered.

These are the results of the work of Elena Vasilyeva's project “Cargo-200 from Ukraine to Russia”.

PS From the last mail to Elena Vasilyeva:

Chapter 8. A practical study of the search and compilation of a list of Russian soldiers killed during the capture of the Donetsk airport - the first battle of an open invasion of Ukraine

I want to show you with a concrete example how difficult it is to establish the names of the Russian military who came with weapons to the Donbass. In the context of what Putin calls "state secrets", our group of volunteers - administrators is trying not only to find the name of the murdered, but also to accurately identify him. Perhaps this example will seem boring to you, but you can't do without it to understand how painstaking our work is.

So, the administrators of the "Cargo 200 from Ukraine to Russia" group conducted their investigation, trying to establish the names of those who were taken from Donbass to the territory of Russia, those whom Turchenkova told about in her report. And these were only the first known cargoes-200.

So, we knew that on May 26, 2014, a group of Russian special forces (how they themselves they call it) seized the Donetsk airport, but when it left two KAMAZ trucks, it came under enemy fire, i.e. Ukrainians.

Sources claimed that in those KAMAZs the bodies of the dead were transported from 26 to 31 people. Who were these people? Was it the Russian military, or, as the Russian media claim, the militias, residents of Donetsk, fought in that battle?

In the process of collecting information, we learned that the Iskra detachment from Russia (perhaps 46 people, mostly Russian military personnel), the detachment from Crimea (which included not only Crimeans, but also local residents of Donbass and other regions of Ukraine took part in the storming of the airport), numbering 45 people; units of the Vostok battalion (participants in the assault on social networks note that the fire was conducted by the 4th platoon of the Vostok, and several marks “1 platoon” are on the lists from the morgue. Also there were units of the Oplot battalion in the airport area. According to survivors, the group Chechens at the airport totaled 26 people.

On YouTube, we found a video in which one of the participants tells in detail about the beginning of this special operation to seize the airport, and very often repeats the phrase "We were betrayed." However, analyzing his story, one involuntarily comes to the conclusion that the operation to seize the airport was either spontaneous, or the leadership that planned this, in fact, terrorist takeover, drew up a mediocre plan, or the plan was designed to ensure that each commando was previously set under the bullets of the enemy and was supposed to die.

In other words, that operation, however, like most others in Ukraine, was designed so that the performers did not return alive to their homeland, remaining nameless killed. And for this statement, we have accumulated a lot of evidence. Therefore, the phrase "we were betrayed", in fact, refers to every Russian soldier who came with arms to Ukraine from Russia.

Talking about that day, many media claimed that it was a "medical transport shot by Ukrainian fascists." Indeed, as we were able to establish, in one of the KAMAZ trucks, which (in the photo) were knocked down, which caused him to turn over, they brought mainly wounded Chechens who replaced the Iskra squad on the roof of the airport building on the afternoon of May 26. But it should be noted that almost no one was hurt in the inverted KAMAZ.

Our study.

The exact number of losses of the Crimean and Chechen groups in that special operation has not yet been established. However, initially it was precisely known about the two dead Crimeans.

Suddenly, our researchers stumbled upon the posted records of the Iskra division members, and until they were deleted, our group began to study the laid out materials in order to understand who they brought to Russia by cargo-200. The fact is that, as it turned out, some of the death certificates were written out to the wrong people, and some were alive. For what it was needed, we were looking for an answer.

The classification of the deaths of such a huge number of military personnel in a foreign country stirred up the blogosphere. More and more people began to engage in volunteer searches.

So, the Iskra squad. First of all, we drew attention to the video, which was posted on YouTube. This is a "Sorokovin Video" - 40 days after death The plot voiced the names of 12 dead and there are photographs to identify them. During the service (1:05:44 onwards), the priest reads out 27 names of the dead. On the resource

"Odintsovo.info" found section: "search for the relatives of the victims." In addition, we got two versions of the lists from the morgue (morgue militia on May 26 and mortuary and civilians in May-June 2014); found so far in open access List of the wounded 05/26/2014. And interesting was the video award Strelkov 10/29/2014. Well, the memorial list of the Iskra squad on the anniversary of the death of militias.

Having collected all this information, we began to compare the lists.

It's not interesting that there are clearly more than 27 dead. In principle, the incompleteness of the priest's list is easily explained by objective reasons: they didn't know about everyone, they didn't identify everyone, and, in the end, they might not have been included in the list of those killed by "confessional" affiliation, for example Ruslan Gumerov from Vladivostok was long considered a "Chechen" until his relatives wrote where he came from.

On the funeral video, we were interested in two names: Vitaliy and Mikhail, who were not on the list. While we knew only Michael (and the priest pronounces this name twice): Kamsyuk Mikhail Vladimirovich - and not a single Vitaly.

The next document that we studied turned out to be 24 names. Moreover, the numbering of surnames interested us the most:

Apparently, the missed numbers with the names of people (1, 2, 4, 6, 9 ...) are either the names of the living (and then the general alphabetical list of "Sparks" was taken as the basis), or these are only the names of those whose relatives could not be found at the time of compiling the list (and then the names of those whose relatives are known were missed).

However, with a detachment of 46 people, we somehow immediately questioned this entire list. Or the other victims were hidden in some way, because in all official reports numbers were mentioned - 31 people.

There really were more losses. In the process of our research, we learned that the body of Nikolai Leonov, a member of the Iskra squad, who was killed in battle, was sent to Dnepropetrovsk. In Donetsk, the body of Eduard Tyuryutikov was identified by a certain Igor with a Ukrainian phone number and informed his wife about it. Therefore, we began to study the lists from the morgue (they are given in the text below). Under the tag number 1346: "N.M." (unknown man) means a person with the call sign "Yakut": a sniper, penetrating shrapnel wound to the head with damage to the skull and brain. Neither name nor surname, but we took note of this call sign ...

It was reportedly known that Iskra included three groups. Each list began with the name of the commander. Therefore, in the lists from the morgue, we drew attention to the number with a fraction - opposite the dead, indicating the belonging to the unit number.

Tag number 1343. Yaroslav "Yarysh" / 3 sapper (Gushchin Yaroslav Eduardovich)

Tag number 1328. Vlasov Alexander Merzoyevich "Ignat" / 3 (Vlasov Alexander Mirzaevich)

Tag number 1370. Ilya V. Kachay "Mir" / 3 (Ilya Kachay Valerevich)

Tag number 1333. Alexander Morozov / 3 machine gunner (Alexander Morozov Andreevich)

Tag number 1324. Loparev Eugene "Koschey" / 3 (Loparev Eugene Valerievich) the mark "Spark / 1" is found, for example: tag number 1320. N.M. "Small" Spark / 1 (Korolev Dmitry Andreevich). The names of the dead were clearly not enough. And it seemed that our investigation was at an impasse. Therefore, we began to carefully study the video on which on October 29, 2014 Strelkov awarded the participants of the first assault on the airport with the medal "For Military Merit".

Awarding took place in 2 stages: first - "posthumously", and then - those who survived.

In the photo on the left there are 8 rows of 3 and 4 rows of 4 on the right. One medal got "wrong": Vladimir Ponomarev was awarded as a living person, and by the beginning of our investigation we had already found out that he was killed. The video handed out 40 medals (25 people were awarded posthumously, and 15 names of those who survived are known). Most likely, not everyone could be awarded..

Nevertheless, we made our first lists.

So, the list of the awarded posthumously:

Gorshkov Alexey Petrovich
Kruglyakov Maxim Nikolaevich Nekrasov Vladimir Andreevich
Korolev Dmitry Andreevich
Gumerov Ruslan Rafailovich
Ivanov Ivan Alexandrovich
Yurin Alexey Anatolevich
Efremov Alexander Viktorovich
Zyabkin Pavel Vladimirovich Korolenko Evgeny Ivanovich
Bandura Sergey Viktorovich
Kamsyuk Mikhail Vladimirovich
Zhdanovich Sergey Borisovich
Klimentyev Alexey Vitalievich Vorobiev Sergey Vladimirovich
Andropov Evgeny Aleksandrovich

Vlasov Alexander Mirzaevich
Yakovlev Vadim Fedorovich
Gypsy Alexander Grigoryevich Kachay Ilya Valerevich
Morozov Alexander Andreevich
Loparev Evgeny Valerevich
Leonov Nikolay Alexandrovich
Ponomarev Vladimir Evgenievich

The list of awarded survivors looked like this::

Dorofeev Sergey Vladimirovich
Yazdzhyan Igor Andronikovich
Kuznetsov Maxim Olegovich
Kargapoltsev Alexey Ilyich (was not present at the award)
Akimtsev Maxim Valerevich (was not present at the award)
Nurgatin Artem Vladimirovich (was not present at the award) Yusupov Timur Sultanovich
Gasparyan Arthur Dzhhanikovich
Toropenko Eugene Bronislavovich
Kloss Denis Arkadevich (was not present at the award)
Mikheev Ivan Petrovich (was not present at the award)
Abrosimov Yuri Fedorovich Obukhov Konstantin Alexandrovich
Astashkin Vladimir Vladimirovich
Trofimov Mikhail Nikolaevich

At the same time, we drew attention to some more inaccuracies:

1) Romanenko Nikita Sergeevich is absent from the lists (the priest prayed for Nikita, we also find his last name in the "Odintsovo" sheet). He was part of the Iskra squad.

2) The list does not include the dead Crimeans: Berezhnov Yuri Vladimirovich and Viktor Ivanovich Dorodnykh, although they were taken across the border along with the dead from the Iskra squad. Also, these surnames are not listed from Odintsovo.

3) Abrosimov Yuri Fedorovich, despite the assurances of the press - alive. It is strange that his name was pronounced one of the first among the dead.

When compiling a report Nemtsov's team of solidarists, who before the death of Boris Efimovich were not seriously interested in events in the east of Ukraine, this mistake was also made. They relied on a mistakenly written certificate for a living person, without first specifying the data. Therefore, they named the name of Abrosimov among the dead.

Nevertheless, Abrosimov was awarded Girkin, and was alive at the time of the award.

Then the question arises: whose body was transported with a certificate written in the name of Abrosimov, as it is not known whether it happened accidentally or intentionally.

Constantly hindered the work that the list of "Sparks", as well as the list of recipients was not alphabetic. Therefore, we brought together the names from the award ceremony and compared it with the alphabetical list. So here is what happened:

There are 26 killed on this list, of which 25 were brought to the Russian Federation, plus two from the Crimea - 27. And it should be like 31. And it is not at all a fact that the noticed passes are cargo-200. As Romanenko N.S. was not awarded, they could also ignore the award of any of the survivors then.

Who is missing from this list? Did Strelkov reward everyone?

On the anniversary of May 29, 2015, a list of the Iskra squad appeared with the following preface on the Internet page of the 1st Interbrigade:

2. В результате огня засад, организованных ополчением, 1 интербригада Юго-Востока во время прорыва из аэропорта потеряла убитыми 30 человек. 30 российских добровольцев различных национальностей и конфессий, приехавших оказать народу Донбасса помощь, которой тот просил у России, погибли под огнем ополченцев...

Сегодня мы вспоминаем их, живых и мертвых, оказавшихся 26 мая 2014 г. в Донецком аэропорту:

“As a result of the fire of ambushes organized by the militia, one inter-brigade of the Southeast lost 30 people during a breakthrough from the airport. 30 Russian volunteers of various nationalities and faiths who came to provide the people of Donbass with the help that he requested from Russia died under the fire of militias ... ” cargo-200 - 26 people However, this list has some inconsistencies with the previous ones.

Not listed:

1) cargo-200 Ponomarev Vladimir Evgenievich ("Thomas"); 04/14/1981 - 05/26/2014; lived in Moscow, kind. Arkhangelsk

But it was precisely with him that embarrassment arose during the award procedure, and he was mistakenly assigned to the list of survivors (10:32).

2) cargo-200 Loparev Evgeny Valerevich ("Koschey"); 1986-26.05.2014; He lived in Moscow, was buried in the city of Michurinsk, Tambov region.

His surname is present among the surnames of the first identified from the morgue (included in the 3rd group of Iskra) and his photo is on the video.

He is also present at the end of the list in the “Odintsovo list” and among those awarded posthumously (6:19).

So Loparev E.V. one of the losses of the Iskra squad.

1) 1) surviving Abrosimov Yuri Fedorovich, whose death certificate was circulated by all the media and who personally received an award from Strelkov. Abrosimov was part of the 3rd group of the detachment. There is no data on his callsign, but although the second group contains 2 callsigns without last names ("Greek" and "Khokhol"), none of these callsigns can refer to Abrosimov, because he was in the 3rd group of Iskra, and not in the 2nd.

In the above lists of the third group there are no incomplete positions, therefore, his surname should be added to the list of the detachment, since a death certificate was mistakenly (or intentionally) written on him; or maybe they really didn't know that he was alive:

2) the surviving Toropenko Evgeny Bronislavovich, a native of Kharkov, also personally attended the award (9:00)

In the video, he was awarded after the "Maestro" (A. Gasparyan) and before the "Anabolic" (D. Kloss), i.e. among the list of the second group of "Sparks."

A native of Kharkov living in Moscow ...

In the above list of "Sparks" in the second group there is the only "incomplete" position after "Maestro" and before "Anabolic": number 23, "Khokhol". We come to the same result if we fill in the gaps in the alphabetical list: survivor Toropenko EB took the 36th line without knocking down the numbering. Therefore, it is more appropriate to say that in the studied list Toropenko EB not absent, but recorded only by callsign. We assume that a comparison of the name and call sign brought the result.

3) cargo-200 Tyuryutikov Eduard Valerevich ("Edessa / Edessa");
07/13/1976; genus. Ivanovo city; living and funeral. in Donetsk

Information about him is in the list from the morgue (tag number 1341)

however, there is no mention of him in the documents of the Iskra squad. Tyuryutikov E.V. He lived in Donetsk (without registration) and was a member of the organization “Patriotic Forces of Donbass”, the network has a video message with him recorded in Donetsk on March 11, as well as a video note from 05/05/2014 from Vladikavkaz from the exhibition “Orthodox Ossetia”, where Tyuryutikov E.V. came from Donetsk precisely as "a member of the Ukrainian people's militia."

And in our case there is no reason to believe that E. Tyuryutikov belonged to the list of Iskra squad losses and / or the coffin with his body was taken to Russia together with cargo-200 detachment "Spark".

1. But the next one on the list from the morgue is of interest. At number 30 - the call sign "Shiva." This is Anton Korolenko Vladimirovich; 04/03/1987- 05/26/2014; Pavlovsky district; Voronezh region .; 76 DShD military unit 74268; squad "Spark 2". Someone really wanted to minimize losses, hide this name, and his death was later announced by the month of August, although there is no reason to doubt the records from the morgue.

The analysis led to the fact that the list of the squad was not 45, or even 46 people, but 48.

Крыша Донецкого аэропорта 26 мая. Пулеметчик ДОК остался там... Вечная память и слава тебе боец!!!

However, there are also several names (callsigns) in the list, and in need of comments and clarifications. All of them belong to the second and third groups of the detachment.

In the second group:

1) Call sign "Greek" - there is no information about him, there is nothing to relate to. Status not known.

2) Doc, Popov D.A. - Participated in the assault on the airport (the so-called "machine gunner Doc"), received 2 shell shock: one at the airport, the other in KAMAZ (the one that turned over), did not get on the award lists for an unknown reason. He survived on May 26, 2014, but died on September 18 near Fashchevka (already under the call sign "Varyag"). 08/19/1993 - 09/18/2014; Onega, Arkhangelsk region

3) Yakov, M. Shiishkaev. No information.

M. - perhaps Michael from the prayer of a priest in the fortieth?

4) Dumb, Kokoshnikov I.

This surname is found in the lists from the morgue:

in the shorter version "morgue (militia)": tag number not specified, I. Kokoshnik, 30 years old, gunshot wound, 05/28/14, from the 1st g / b in the longer version "morgue (militias and civilians)" the tag number is already indicated (1356), but the date of death is written 05/26/14.

Apparently, we are talking about him on the fortieth, i.e. on the 40th day after the death of the fighters on the video, but the date of death is called another: literally on the fortieth day, i.e. July 4 (24:52):

"2 days ago, exactly forty days, this list was replenished by Igor

Kokoshkin ... Severely injured, the guy didn't extend after the wound.

41	-	Кокосник И.А.	-	-	-	-	30 лет огнестрель- ное ранение	28.05.14	Из 1-й г/б
----	---	---------------	---	---	---	---	-----------------------------------------	----------	------------

40	1356	Кокосник И.А.					30 лет	26.05.14	Огнестрельное ранение	Из 1-й гр.
41	1366	Ерошкин Роман	1989			Безвестно		29.05.14	Огнестрельное пулевое	ТК «Метель»

The difference in the dates of the death of Igor Kokoshnik (Kokoshnikov) in determining the amount of cargo-200 transported on 06/02/2014 in the Russian Federation may not be taken into account, because if not him (maybe not him), then someone else was delivered under his name (as happened with Abrosimov).

5) 5) I. Zaripov. In the second group of the detachment, this is the only last name without a call sign. But what matters is that we are talking about the second group. There is reason to believe that And Zaripov is Yakut from the lists of the morgue. Recall that in the lists from the morgue, under the tag number 1346, "N.M.," Yakut ", / 2, sniper, penetrating shrapnel wound to the head with damage to the skull and brain, is recorded."

Yakut (most likely I. Zaripov) lived in the Republic of Sakha.

One of the versions (not claiming anything, on the screen is the text of a resident of Yakutsk):

Unfortunately, no other traces have been found to identify I. Zaripov.

In the third group:

6) Bars, Brsuyan E.G. Brsuyan Eduard Grantovich ("Bars"); 03/31/197026.05.2014; genus. Kryvyi Rih (Ukraine), lived in the city of Elektrostal, Moscow Region. (RF)

In the lists from the morgue - he is not recognized. There is no mention of him in the "video from the fortieth century" or in the "Odintsovo list", nor in the award lists

Actually, the network has only recently appeared in the public domain confirmation that Brsoyan E.G. was part of the Iskra squad. And there is one message in the public squad "Bear"

Данил Чученко

Я мать Брсояна Эдуарда Грантовича погибшего 26 мая в донецком аэропорту. Помогите найти место захоронения. Хочу приехать и узнать как можно перезахоронить. Узнали о его гибели 18 ноября. Обратились к Максиму и Мишено они пока молчат. Возможно вам удастся что нибудь прояснить. Помогите.

8 дек 2014 в 15:58 | Это провокация | Возразить

7) 113, Miroshnik I. Identified. Alive.

Miroshnik Andrey Vladimirovich ("113th"); 04/07/1985; Ufa

He did not appear on the award lists, apparently by mistake. He was awarded the same medal on February 18, 2015.

It turns out that during the storming of the airport on May 26, there were at least 17 survivors from the detachment (15 are still alive today).

The status of two is not known ("Greek" and "Jacob" M. Shiishkaev).

In total, it turns out that 29 names of cargo-200 are known for sure, and another 2 (whose status is not clear) are equally likely to be or not to be cargo-200.

And one more thing: 4 passes are noticeable in the restored alphabetical list:

No. 6 (Bandura - Vlasov)

No. 16 (Zhdanovich - Zyabkin)

No. 29 (Leonov - Mikheev)

No. 34 (Obukhov - Romanenko)

Obviously, these numbers should be occupied by Brsoyan, Zaripov, Miroshnik, Popov.

And the restored list of the squad takes on this form:

1. Abrosimov Yuri Fedorovich

2. Akimtsev Maxim Valerevich ("Kim")
3. Andropov Evgeny Aleksandrovich (Schulz) - cargo-200 1986-05/26/2014; Moscow; 45 joint ventures

6. Bandura Sergey Viktorovich ("Ginger"), cargo-200, 02.21.1978 - 05/26/2014; Moscow, Special Forces Airborne Forces, Iskra 2 Detachment

49. Call sign "Greek"

So, the Russian border on 02.06.2014 crossed either 1 less (Nikolai Leonov) or 2 (+ Eduard Brsoyan, although unlikely).

Accordingly, the scatter is obtained: from 27 to 49.

As for the losses of the “Chechen group” of Kadyrov on May 26, 2014, in fact, there are quite a lot of evidence on the subject in the network. So, on June 2, 2014, Khodakovsky speaks of one killed. Arthur Gasparyan ("Maestro"), the Iskra squad, also speaks of one killed:

- A Chechen was immediately killed on the roof, two more were injured.
- What happened to your comrades from the second KamAZ?
- There were Chechens, they had one dead, two wounded, a maximum of six people died, including a doctor and a Cossack.

Denis Kloss (Anabolic), the Iskra detachment, also speaks of one killed person:

Then the air raid began, and all Chechens were on the roof. And they were all covered. We ran upstairs and began to pick up the wounded — 15 people were injured and one died.

- What happened next?
- Well, what next ... The Chechens disagreed further with such a war and left for Chechnya. They also had a half-detachment of "three hundredth"

In an interview that Louis Amber takes for the French newspaper Le Monde from Zelimkhan and Magomed, one is also said to be killed:

L'un d'eux est mort le 26 mai, quatre ont été blessés (One of them died on May 26, four more were injured.)

Ramzan Kadyrov gives the same numbers on May 30, 2014.

The Internet publication "Russian Spring" provides a list of victims on May 26, 2014 in Donetsk:

15. Titorenko Maxim Vladimirovich - born in 1978, a gunshot wound to his left arm and leg.
16. Yazybchan Igor Andronikovich, born in 1987, a gunshot wound, an open fracture of the right upper limb.
17. Betanedorov Dzhambulat Lan-Alievich born in 1986, a shrapnel wound to the chest, died from injuries.
18. Ivanov Sergey Vladimirovich - born in 1976, a gunshot wound to the chest, died from his injuries.
19. Nosov Ruslan Vasilievich - born in 1987, a gunshot wound, a foreign body in the chest area, died from injuries.

20. The corpse of an unknown woman without a head. found in the district of the railway station.

21. The corpse of an unknown man, injured in an explosion near a children's clinic.

22. The corpse of an unknown man with a gunshot wound to the head.

It is worth taking a look at the lists available to us that were compiled in the hospital.

List of injured that day from the hospital:

№	Full name	DOB	Hospital	Department	Diagnosis	Address of residence	Circumstances	Date of Injury
5	Rustamov Said	1987	OTB	OBT	Skin wounds of the left shoulder region, contusion of the thoracolumbar spine	----- ----		05/26/14
8	Isaev Zelimkhan	----- ---	OTB	OBT	Gunshot wound to the right shoulder, chest	----- ----		05/26/14

1 6	Nenyaev Iced Huseynovich	1976	OTB	----	-----	Russia, Chechnya , Grozny		05/26/1 4
1 9	Abdulaev Shalihan	1977	OTB	-----	Neck wound	Russia, Chechnya , Grozny		05/26/1 4
3 2	Dadaev Murat Lamalievich	1983	----	----		-----	No circumstances established	05/26/1 4
3 4	Stryumov Adlan Abdu Karim	1971	----	----	Gunshot wound	----- -	In the airport	05/26/1 4

A comparison of these lists shows that one person who is on the list of victims is not on the list of injured. It:

17. Betanedov Dzhambulat Lan-Alievich born in 1986, a shrapnel wound to the chest, died from injuries.

As for Dadaev M.L. and A. Stryumova, since they are under their names on May 27 on the list of victims and were on the list of wounded, therefore, they could not be among the unidentified corpses in the morgue. We also note that the lists from the morgue also do not have these names.

Another "dead" Chechen ("Airat") can be found in some publications (on both sides of the barricade)

From the dialogue under this photograph, published one of the participants in assault, we learn that his name is Timur, he shot from a machine gun, was wounded and lost his eye.

----	-----------------------	--------	-----	-----	---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------	-----	----------

There is no data to date, but the date of death on May 26, 2014 is clearly premature.

(Journalist Khodakovsky in a June 2 material wrote: "They left at the end of last week;" and Louis Amber: "Chechen fighters escorted their dead to the Russian border separately from others:" We have our own customs, "Magomed says. On Saturday On May 31, cars with the bodies of those killed were never able to cross the border, the author adds. "

Thus, it can definitely be stated that the killed Betanedov (like any other cargo-200 from the Chechen group) was not included in the number 31 of cargo-200, on which 31 certificates were issued for the absence of "extraneous investments" in the body and in the coffin Rostov "Voenved" brought 31 bodies.

Yes, the Russian Ministry of Defense is completely unprofitable for society to know who and when died. Confusing the lists, the Russian authorities are doing everything possible to hide the traces of their crimes. So, on the example of only a small group of victims in the Donbass for the Donetsk airport, we learned that clearly establishing the names of the victims is a serious and painstaking work. All the victims had military training, and were soldiers of various military units from different cities of Russia. The people seem to have forgotten that the military is acting on our means, on the means of taxpayers, and we have every right to know not only how these funds are spent, but also how the Russian military is dying. But Putin decided that the people should not know it.

Supplement

Vasiliek (the project was started by Ukrainians who, together with E. Vasilieva, wanted to convey the truth to the Russians, but as a result of unprecedented pressure the project was abandoned), however, in fairness, I publish fragments of this project here.

The “Cargo 200 from Ukraine to Russia” project demonstrates the participation of members of the regular Russian army and Russian mercenaries in military operations against Ukraine. Information was collected by volunteers both from open sources and directly from combatants in the ATO zone.

Note: on some pages of social. networks of dead military are shown as if they are present online or recently visited the network. At the same time, there is confirmed data from relatives or multiple references in the media about their death. Given this, it can be assumed that in order to mislead the public and prevent large-scale protest actions in Russia, the pages of social networks of servicemen whose bodies were burnt or buried in “mass graves” are conducted by bots of the Russian special services.
